Infant-Baptism,

The Previous Discourse.

THE better to prepare the mind of my Reader for what I shall say in this Discourse about Infant-Baptism, I think it requisite to premise a short Introduction.

First, Concerning the Original, And Secondly, Concerning the Nature of the Jewish Church.

Thirdly, Concerning the initiatory Sacrament into it, and the Persons that were capable of Initiation.

And Lastly, Concerning the alteration of it from the Mosaic into the Christian Oeconomy, or to express my self more plainly in the * Scripture-phrase, concerning the alteration of the House of Moses into the House of Christ. ^{* Hebr. 2, 5, 6.}

As for the Original of the Jewish Church, it is to be referred unto Abraham the || Father of the Faithfull || Rom. 4. purely considered as a Church. ^{11.} But if it be considered as a Common-wealth, or as a Church under such a Political Regulation, then it is to be referred unto Moses, who was called, even by Heathen Writers, the * Legislator of the Jews. These two Considerations of the Jewish Church, purely as a Church, and as a Common-wealth, or as a Church under such a mixture with a Common-wealth ought heedfully to be distinguished.

1. Because there is ground for such a distinction in the nature of the thing.

2. Because this distinction is made by the Apostle, who was of the Seed of Abraham, an Hebrew of the Hebrews, and by consequence very well qualified to understand the difference betwixt the Jewish Oeconomy as a Church, and as a Commonwealth.

First I say, there is a Ground for such a Distinction in the Nature of the thing, as is evident to any man; who is capable of considering the difference betwixt the Church-Christian before, and after its Union with the Empire. Before its Union with the Empire, it subsisted by it self purely as a Church above 300 years, in a State of Persecution, from Christ unto Constantine the Great; and just so the Jewish Church for above 400 years subsisted by it self in a State of Peregrination and Captivity from Abraham unto Moses, who brought them out of Egypt, and gave them the Law.

But Secondly, As there is ground for this distinction in the nature of the thing, so is it in effect made by the Apostle Gal. 3. 17. This I say, that the Covenant that was before confirmed of God [with Abraham] in Christ, the Law which was 430 years after cannot disannul, that it should make the Promise [to Abraham] of none Effect. Here is a plain difference made between the Covenant or Promise which God made with Abraham and his Seed, when he separated him from the World unto himself, and that Political one, which he afterwards made with the Jews, when he gave them them the Law : And this difference is also observed, Rom. 4. 13. The Promise, that he should be the Heir of the World, was not given to Abraham, or to his Seed through the Law, but through the Righteousness of Faith: For if they which are of the Law be Heirs, Faith is made void, and the Promise is of no effect.

From these words, which distinguish so plainly between the Covenant which God made with Abraham, or the Promise, which he made unto him, and the Law, it is evident that the beginning of the Jewish Church purely considered, as a Church, is to be dated from the Covenant which God made with Abraham, and therefore in the second place, the way to find out the nature of the Abrahamic, or pure Jewish Church, is to consider the nature of the Covenant, or Promise upon which it was founded ; and if we examine the Scriptures, we shall find, that it was an Evangelical Covenant: For substance the same with that which is since made betwixt God and us through Christ. This will appear upon a Review of those Scriptures which teach us, *That Faith was the Condition of this Abrahamic Covenant; that it was made with * Abraham, as the Father of the faithful, and in him with all Believers, with his Spiritual, as well as Carnal Seed, proceeding from him by spiritual, as well as natural Generation; and that the Blessings or Promises of this Covenant belonged unto them upon the same Account of their Faith.*

* Fide autem stare iustitiam, et illic esse vitam prædictam est apud Habacuc. Justus autem ex fide vivet. Inde Abraham pater Gentium credidit. In Genes. credidit Abraham Deo, & deputatum est ei ad iustitiam. Item Paulus ad Galatas. Abraham credidit Deo & deputatum est ei ad iustitiam. Cognoscitis ergo qui ex fide sunt hi sunt filii Abrahæ, providens autem Scriptura quia ex fide, &c: Cyprian advers. Judæos. Judæos a Deo recessisse. — successisse vero in eorum locum christianos fide dominum promerentes, & de omnibus Gentibus, ac toto orbe venientes. Cyprian. ad Quirin. Testim. L. 3.

To this purpose speaketh the Apostle in the Fourth Chapter of his Epistle to the Romans, from the 9th. to the 15th. Verse: Cometh then this Blessedness [of Justification by Faith] upon the Circumcision only, or upon the Uncircumcision also? For we say, that Faith was reckoned to Abraham for Righteousness; how was it then reckon'd? When he was in Circumcision, or in Uncircumcision? Not in Circumcision, but in Uncircumcision; and he received the Sign of Circumcision a Seal of (the Promises made to) the Righteousness of Faith, which he had being yet uncircumcised that [so believing before Circumcision] he might be the Father (both) of all them that believe, tho' they be not circumcised, that righteousness might be imputed unto them also (as his Children) and the Father of Circumcision to them, who are not of the Circumcision only, but (who) also walk in the Steps of that Faith of our Father Abraham, which he had, being yet uncircumcised; for the Promise that he should be the Heir of the World. (in his Posterity) was not to Abraham, or his Seed, through (the Righteousness of) the Law; but through the Righteousness (which cometh) of Faith: For if they [only] which are of the Law be Heirs, (his) Faith (so much celebrated) is made void, and the Promise made (to it) of no effect. So Gal. 3. from the 5th. to the 10th. Verse: He therefore that ministrerth unto you the (extraordinary Gifts of the) Spirit, and worketh Miracles among you; doth he it by the works of the Law, or by the Faith, which you have heard preached, even as (it is written of) * Abraham,

* Quoniam autem & in Abraham præfigurabatur fides nostra, & quoniam Patriarcha nostræ fidei, & vult propheta sult plenissimè Apostolus docuit in eà Epistolâ, quæ est ad Galatas dicens, Quæ ergo tribuit vobis Spiritum et operatur virtutes in vobis—Irenæus Lib. 4. cap. 38.

(he) believed God, and it was imputed unto him for Righteousness; know ye therefore, that they which are

are (the Children) of Faith, the same are the Children of Abraham; and God in the Scripture foreseeing that he would justifie the Heathen through Faith preached before the Gospel unto Abraham, saying, In thee shall all Nations be blessed. So then they which be (the Children) of Faith, are blessed with faithful Abraham who is the Father of them that believe. Afterwards in Verse 26. Now to Abraham, or his Seed, or Race were the Promises [of God] made: He, (i. e. God, or Moses his Pen-man) saith, Not to Seeds, or Races, as if there were divers of them; but to thy Seed, i. e. to one of thy Seed, which is Christ. And this I say, that the (Abrahamical) Covenant that was before confirmed by God in Christ, the Law, which was four hundred and thirty years after cannot disannull, that it should make the Promise (made unto Abraham) of none effect.

From all these Texts put together, it is plain, that the Abrahamical Covenant, upon which the Jewish Church, as such, was founded, was of a Spiritual, Evangelical Nature, and perfectly verified and fulfilled in Jesus Christ, who was made of the Seed of Abraham, and in whom all the Families of the Earth are blessed, and whose Day Abraham himself saw, and rejoiced. It is farther evident from them, that this Covenant was made with Abraham, as the Father of Believers, and with his Posterity, not as proceeding from him by natural, but by spiritual Generation, as Heirs of his Faith, as is plain from Rom. 4. 16. Therefore (the Promise) is of Faith, that so also it might be by Grace; to the end the Promise might be sure to all the Seed (of Abraham) not to that only, which is of the Law; but to that also which is of the Faith of Abraham, who is the Father of us all, both Jew and Gentile, that believe. So Chap. 9. 6. &c. not as tho' the Word

Word or Promise of God to them had taken none effect: For they are not all (the) Israel which are descended of Israel; neither because they are the Seed of Abraham, are they all Children (of God's Covenant) but ('tis said) in Isaac shall thy Seed be called; [tho' Abraham had more Sons] that is (all) they which are the Children of the Flesh, these are not the Children of God; but the Children of the Promise (only as Isaac was) are counted for the Seed.

Phil. 3.3.

Hence saith the Apostle in the name of the Christians, we are the Circumcision, which worship God in the Spirit, and have no Confidence in the Flesh; and it is one God which shall justify the Circumcision by Faith, and the Uncircumcision through Faith; and if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and Heirs, according to the Promise, which God made unto Abraham.

Furthermore, that this Covenant was Evangelical, and made with the Posterity of Abraham, not as his natural, but as his Spiritual Off-spring, will appear in the third place from the initiatory Sacrament into it, which was Circumcision, or cutting off the Fore-skin of the Flesh; as it is written, You shall circumcise the Fore-skin of your Flesh, and it shall be a Sign of the Covenant betwixt me and you. Hence the Covenant of which it was the Sign, is called by * St. Stephen, the Covenant of Circumcision; and Circumcision on the other hand is called by St. Paul, the Seal of the Righteousness of Faith; Faith, or Faithful Obedience being the Condition of that Covenant which God required of the Children of Abraham, and which they promised to perform. It also signified the Circumcision of the † Heart; as Moses said unto the People of Israel, Circumcise the Fore-skin of your Hearts, Deut. 10. 16. and in Deut. 30. 6. The Lord thy God will circumcise circumcise thine heart, and the hearts of thy Seed, that thou mayest love the Lord thy God with all thine Heart, and with all thy Soul, that thou mayest live. And agreeably unto this Spiritual Signification of Circumcision, St. Paul saith Rom. 2. 28. He is not a Jew, which is one outwardly, neither is that Circumcision, which is outwardly in the Flesh, but he is a Jew, which is one inwardly; and Circumcision is that of the Heart, in the Spirit, and not in the Letter, whose Praise is not of Men, but of God.

As to the Persons who were capable of initiation into the Jewish Church by this Sacrament, we have a very plain account at the institution of it in Gen. Chap. 27. I will (saith God unto Abraham) establish my Covenant between Me, and thee, and thy Seed after thee for an Everlasting Covenant to be a God unto thee, and thy Seed after thee— Thou shalt keep my Covenant therefore thou and thy Seed after thee in their Generations; this is [The Token of] my Covenant, which ye shall keep between Me and you, and thy Seed after thee, every Male among you shall be Circumcised. And ye shall Circumcise the flesh of your Foreskin, and it shall be a Token of the Covenant betwixt me and you, and he that is eight days old shall be Circumcised among you, every Male in your Generations, he that is born in the House, or bought with Money of any Stranger, which is not of thy Seed, he that is born in thy House, and he that is bought with thy Money must needs be Circumcised, and my Covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting Covenant.

From this account of Persons to be Circumcised, it is plain,

First, That Gentiles who were born of * Gentile Parents in Abraham's House, or bought with his Money, as Servants then were, and Blacks are now among us, were to be initiated into the Covenant by Circumcision, from whence it appears, that the Spiritual Race Race of Abraham were the Children of the Covenant, and that when God promised to be a God to him, and his Seed after him, he meant the Children of his Faith. Hence in all Ages of the Jewish Church, if any Gentiles embraced the Jewish Faith and Religion, they were admitted into it by Circumcision, and thereupon reckoned among the Posterity of Abraham, and the peculiar People of God, although they were not the Children of Abraham according to the Flesh. There were great numbers of Gentiles thus converted to the Jewish Faith and Religion, and grafted like wild Branches into the Olive-Tree, in all the Ages of the Jewish Church. Not to mention particular Persons, we read that many of the Medes and Persians became Jews in the time of Ashuarus, Ester 8. 17. * Likewise, in the time of David and Solomon, vast numbers of the neighbouring Countreys embraced Judaism, and in the time of Hyrceanus the whole Nation of the Idumæans turned Jews, and lived in their own Country according to the Jewish Rites. This short account of the Jewish Profelytes may satisfie any Man, who is not perverted beyond cure, that the Church of the Jews was not founded upon, nor constituted by natural Generation, but by Spiritual Regeneration, as the Church Christian is, and that those, who were then related unto God, as Members of his Church were so, because they were the Spiritual Seed of Abraham, who then was and still is the Father of the Church, and Church Members, to whom he is related not in his Natural, but in his Religious Capacity, as he was a Believer, and the Father of all those that believe.

But Secondly, It is manifest from this Scriptural account of persons to be Circumcised; that Circumcision was an Ordinance of Latitude, comprehending Persons of all Ages, and that Children, and Minors not yet arrived arrived at years of Discretion, who were incapacitated, as to some ends of Circumcision, were notwithstanding to be solemnly initiated by it, as well as grown Men, who were capable of all. God was pleased to call them his; nay, they were his Property, as much as their Parents of whom they descended, he looked upon them as holy and separate, and as Candidates of the Covenant, and he thought them so well qualified for admission into it, that he would not have it put off beyond the eighth day.

He that is eight days old, or as it is in the Original, a Son of eight days, shall be circumcis'd among you. God was so far from excluding of them from Sacramental Initiation upon the account of natural incapacity, that he limited the time for the administration of it, beyond which he would not have it deferr'd. And accordingly the Jews ever did most religiously observe it, from the time of Abraham unto the time of John the Baptist, and Christ, who were both Circumcis'd the * eight day. Nay when any Gentile turned Jew, they immediately Circumcis'd his Children if he desired it; always understanding that Children were called and elected by God in their Parents. Thus saith God unto Abraham, I will establish my Covenant between thee and me, and thy Seed after thee for an everlasting Covenant, to be a God unto thee, and thy Seed after thee.

59. 2. 21.

The great Goodness of God made him thus separate the Children with their Parents from the rest of the World, and look upon them as part of his chosen peculiar People, by which they became relatively Holy, and of a religious Consideration, and differed from the Children of Unbelievers, as much as their Parents did from the Unbelievers themselves. Since therefore God was pleased to be so gracious as to choose the Children with their Parents, and look upon them as Holy upon their account, it is no wonder that he should oblige them to dedicate, and devote themselves unto him, by solemn initiation into his Church. I say, he called and elected them in their Parents, and with them separated them unto himself from the World, and, agreeably to the nature of this Gracious Call, and separation, he made it a sufficient qualification for their actual admission into the Church, by the initiating Ordinance, which the Children as Heathens were not capable of; because they were not so called, and chosen, and separated of God.

This was ground enough for their admission into the Church, and for God to look upon them, as Believers, though they could not make open Profession of their Faith, as Abraham did before he was Baptized, and it is certain, after the example of Abraham, all * adult Profelytes did. But though Abraham professed his Faith before he was Circumcised, Isaac the next Heir of the Promise was Circumcised before he professed, or could profess his Faith, because if he lived he was as sure to profess it by vertue of his Calling, and Election as any adult Profelyte was to continue in the Profession of his.

In the mean time the Faith and Consent of the Father, or, if the Child had none, of the Susceptor or God-father, and of the Congregation under which he was Circumcised, was believed of old by the Jews to be † imputed to the Child, as his own Faith and Consent. They had very good Ground in the Scriptures for this Opinion, because the Infidelity and Disobedience of the Parents, in willfully neglecting, or despising Circumcision, was imputed to the Children, who were esteemed and punished as Breakers of the Covenant, when they were not circumcised, as it is written, Every uncircumcised Male, whose Flesh of his Foreskin is not circumcised, that Soul shall be cut off from his People; he hath broken my Covenant; and therefore if the Act of Parents in neglecting to bring their Children to Circumcision was reputed theirs, much more their Act in bringing them to it might well be reputed as their Act and Deed. Thus in Numb. 3. 28. we find the keeping of the Sanctuary imputed to the Males of the Cobathites of a month old and upwards, because their Fathers actually kept it, and they were to be trained up unto it; and in Deut. 29. 11, 12. the little ones are expressly said to enter into Covenant with God, because the Men of Israel did so; and thus also our Blessed Lord, who took upon him the Seed of Abraham, although he healed * grown Persons for their own Faith; yet he † healed † Children upon the account of the Faith of † their Parents; or others who besought him for them; as it were imputing it to them for their own Faith.

Having now briefly discoursed of the Original, and Evangelical Nature of the Jewish Church, and the Initiatory Sacrament of it, and the persons that were initiated thereinto, I now proceed to make a few Observations upon the Alteration of it, from the Mosaical into the Christian Oeconomy; or from the Legal State of it under the Old Testament, into the Evangelical under the New.

For as it was the same for Substance under the Law that it was before it; so it still remains the same for Substance under the Gospel, that it was under the Law. The Foundation is the same, tho' the Superstructure and Fashion of the House be very different. For Abra- ham is still the Father of the Faithful; and we that believe under the Gospel, are as much his Seed, and Children in God's prime Intention, and the true meaning of the Words, as those that were Believers under the Law.

Hence it comes to pass, that the Church-Christian is called in the New Testament, the New and Supernal Jerusalem; to let us know, that Christianity is nothing but Spiritual Judaism, the same City new reformed, constituted upon a new Charter, blessed with more noble and ample Priviledges than formerly; and every way better built, and more August than it was. Thus in Rev. 3.12. Unto him that overcometh (saith the Son of Man) I will write the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is New Jerusalem, which is come down out of Heaven, from my God, that is, I will acknowledge him that holds out to the end for a person truly godly, and for a true Member of the pure Catholick Christian-Church, which is the Spiritual Jerusalem descended from above. And so Chap. 21. 2. I saw the Holy City New Jerusalem coming down from God, down out of Heaven prepared as a Bride, adorned for her Husband, meaning Jesus Christ. So in Galat. 4. Jerusalem which is from above, or the Supernal Jerusalem is [a] free [City] which is the Mother of us all.

Hence also it comes to pass, that St. Peter in his first General Epistle, calls the Christians by those proper Titles and Appellations which God gave unto the Jews, as unto his peculiar People, viz. a chosen Generation, a Royal Priesthood, an Holy Nation, a peculiar People; which must needs imply, that the Christian Church is fundamentally, and radically the same with the ancient Church of the Jews. Accordingly St. Paul, tho' he was the Doctor of the Gentiles, yet compared the calling of them to the engrafting of the wild Olive-Tree into the old Olive-Trees Stock. If some of the Branches (saith * he unto them) be bro-^{* Rem. 10.} ken off [through Unbelief] and thou being a wild Olive Branch, was grafted in amongst them, and with them partakest of the Root and Fatness of the [Ancient] Olive-Tree, boast not against the Branches [so cut off] but if thou boast [remember that] thou bearest not the Root, but the Root thee; and afterwards, If thou wert cut off from the Olive-Tree, which is wild by Nature, and wert grafted contrary to [thy wild] Nature into a good Olive-Tree, how much more shall these [unbelieving Jews] which be the natural Branches, be re-grafted into their own Olive-Tree? From this Comparison it is plain, that the Jewish and Christian Church are the same in the Root and Stock: And from this radical Argument that is betwixt them, it proceeds, that St. John in his Symbolical way of Writing in the Apocalyps, calls the Christians Jews: Behold I will make them of the Synagogue of Satan which say they are Jews but are not, Rev. 3 9. 2. 9. Indeed, as Judaism was nothing but mystical Christianity; so Christianity is nothing but reformed Judaism, which made our Saviour, who was the Reformer of it, say unto the Jews, Think not that I am come to destroy the Law, and the Prophets; I am not come to destroy; but to perfect and fulfill. And unto his Disciples, who under him were to be Master-Builders of his House, he said, That a Scribe, or Doctor rightly instructed unto the Kingdom of God, was like a Man that is an Householder, who bringeth out of his Store-house things both new and old. Thereby shewing; as Irenæus observes, L. 4. c. 21. that he must be a very skilful Scribe in the Old Te- & 43. stament, that was fit to make a Workman of the new. The old Testament and legall Oeconomy was to be his his Magazine, and Storehouse, out of which he was to fetch many serviceable pieces for the new Building; and accordingly our Saviour, tho' in reforming the House of Moses, he was fain to pull it down, that it might be enlarged, yet both he that began the Reformation, and his Apostles, who finished it, like Men that were House-holders, used much of the Old Timber and Materials, and conformed it too, as much as they could after the manner of the old. * They introduced as much of Judaism into the Christian Religion, as the nature of the Reformation would well bear, and adhered as much as they could to the old, both in the Matter and Form of the new Oeconomy; and laid by few Jewish Rites and Customs, but such as were fulfilled in Christ and Christianity, as the Antitype and Substance of them; or else such as were inconsistent with the Nature of the Church-Christian, as it was to be a manly, free, and universal Church.

Dr. Hammond of Infant Baptism.

These were the two reasons for which Christ and his Apostles so much altered the Face of the Church from what it was under the Mosaical Oeconomy, First, because very many of the Jewish Rites and Ceremonies were || fulfilled in Christ and Christianity; and Secondly, because many of them were inconsistent with the nature of a manly, free and universal Church, such as Christ intended his should be.

|| Ac primò ita his in rebus comparatur, ut antitypus in typi locum succedat, cumque adeo loco moveat, ut simul atque antitypus adfit, nullus deinceps typo locus, nullus usus reperiat. OUTRAMUS de Sacrifici, Lib. 2. c. 16. p. 204.

First, then, many of the Ecclesiastical rites, and usages of the Jews were laid aside, at the time of Reformation, because they were fulfilled in Christ, as the Antitype, and Substance of them, as is plain from the words of the Apostle, 2 Coll. 16. Let no man judge you in Meat, or in drink, or in respect of an Holyday, or of the new Moons, or of the Sabbath days, which are a Shadow of things that are to come to pass; but the Body is Christ, that is to say, Let no man impose upon you the Doctrine of Mosaical Abstinence, or condemn you for eating and drinking things prohibited by the Jewish Religion, or for not observing their Feasts, New Moons and Sabbaths, which are but Types of Christianity; and therefore ought to be laid aside. The like he doth shew in his Epistle to the Hebrews, concerning the Temple, Priesthood, Altar, Sacrifices, and the whole Temple-Service; as is plain from many Passages, whereof I shall recite some. The Priesthood being changed, there is made also of necessity a change in the Law, chap. 7. 22. The Holy Ghost, this signifying thereby, that the way into the holiest of all, was not yet made manifest, while, as the first Tabernacle was yet standing, which was but a Figure for the time then present, in which were offered both Gifts and Sacrifices; that could not make him that did the Service perfect [and cleansed] as pertaining to the Conscience, which stood, or consisted only in a certain use of Meats and Drinks, and divers Washings, and other carnal Ordinances imposed on them, [as Types] until the time of Reformation [by Christ] chap. 9. 8, 9, 10. So ver. 24. Christ [with the Blood of his Sacrifice] is not entred into the Holy Places made with Hands, which are the Figures of the true. And after all, ch. 10. 1. the Law having only a Shadow of the good things to come, and not the Solidity of the things themselves, can never with those [umbritical] Sacrifices, which they offered year by year continually make the Comers thereunto perfect.

It would make a Book of it self, to recite all the Types and Shadows of the Old Testament, which are applied applied to Christ and Christianity by the Writers under the New. Besides what occurs in the Apostles Writings, there is much to the same purpose in the Epistle of St. Barnabas, which is very ancient; the Dialogue of Justin Martyr, with Trypho the Jew; and the Fourth Book of Irenæus, who after insisting upon many typical things, and persons in the Old Testament, at last concludes in the 38th. Chapter, Nihil enim vacuum, nihil sine signo; that almost every thing in it was typical, and had a mystical Reference to something under the New.

But Secondly, as many of the Ecclesiastical Rites, and Usages of the Jewish Church were taken away, because they were fulfilled in Christ and Christianity, so many others were annulled, as being inconsistent with the nature of the Church-Christian, as it was to be a manly, free, and universal Church.

First, as it was to be a manly Church in opposition to the legal Pedagogy of the Jews, as St. Paul called it in saying, That the Law was but a School-master to bring them unto Christ [Gal. 3. 24.] and that the Jews were under it as Children are under Tutors, and Governours, until the time appointed by the Father, the Fulness of Time, when God sent forth his Son, [ch. 4. 1, 2, 3, 4.] Hither we may refer abundance of those Precepts which concerned their Washings, and Purifications, or their Abstinence from menstruous Women, and unclean Creatures, which God imposed upon them in that State of Minority, chiefly to lecture unto them moral Purity and Temperance: For they had childish Understandings, and were, like Children, to be instructed by Symbols, and Symbolical Lessons, as is plain from the Precept about their Phylacteries, Numbers 15. 38. Speak unto the Children of Israel, and bid them that they make Fringes in the Borders of their Garments

Garments throughout their Generations, and that they put upon the Fringes of their borders, a Ribband of Blue, and it shall be unto you for a Fringe, that you may look upon it, and remember all the Commandments of the Lord and do them, and that ye seek not after your own heart, and your own eyes, after which ye use to go a Whoring.

But Secondly, as many of their Rites and Ceremonies were annulled at the time of Reformation, because they were inconsistent with the manly nature of the Christian Religion, so others were annulled, because they were not consistent with the free nature of it, in opposition to the Servile nature of the Jewish Church, which is excellently set forth by the Apostle. Gal. 4. 22, &c. Abraham had two Sons, the one by a Bond-maid, the other by a Free-woman, but he that was born of the Bond-maid was born according to the Flesh, but he that was born of the Free-woman, was born [by virtue of the] Promise which God made unto Abraham: Which things are an Allegory, for these [two Women] are the two Covenants. The one the Covenant which was made on Mount Sinai, which gendreth to Bondage, and this was Agar. For this Agar is [the figure of] Mount Sinai in Arabia, and answereth to Jerusalem which now is, and is [still] in Bondage with her Children. But [Sarah is the figure of the Spiritual] Jerusalem, which is [come with Christ from] above, which is the Mother of us all.

Now this Ecclesiastical Bondage, and Servitude of the Jews, consisted in the vast number of their Religious Rites and Observances, which if a Man consider in retail as to the Days, Weeks, Months, and Years, which they were bound to observe; the multitude of Sacrifices of all sorts, which they were bound to offer; the frequent Washings and Purifications they were bound to undergo; the strict distinction they were to make of clean from unclean Animals; the Rules and Ceremonies they were bound to observe at Births, Marriages, Burials, at Bed and Board, at Home and Abroad, in Sicknes and in Health, nay, even in Plowing, Sowing, and Reaping, he shall find that they were left almost in nothing to their own Freedom and Discretion, but that the Observances, to which they were bound in almost all their Actions, took up half of their time.

Such a burdensom and grievous Economy was that under which the Jews lived, but yet how severe and slavish soever it was, it was suitable to the slavish temper of that People, upon whom God imposed all these Carnal Ordinances for the hardness of their hearts, and propension to Idolatry, as * Justin Martyr often observes in his Dialogue with the Jew.

* Διὰ το

They were apt to forget God, and therefore he loaded them with so many Divine Rites and Observations, that at all times and places and in every action, they might be put in mind of him, and this Ceremonial Yoke was so heavy upon them, that it was little less then intolerable, according to St. Peter, who said, Why tempt ye God to put a Yoke upon the Neck of the Disciples, which neither we nor our Fathers were able to bear? This he said in the Council at Jerusalem, against the believing Pharisees, who taught, that it was needful to Circumcise the Gentile Christians, and to command them to keep the Mosaical Law, not yet rightly understanding, or believing, that it was one end of Christ's coming to set them free from the Mosaic Observances; as the Apostles then declared, and as St. Paul afterwards instructed the Galatians, who were led away into this error, saying, Stand fast therefore in the Liberty, wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the Yoke of Bondage.

Hither

Hither therefore we are to refer the annulling not so much of any particular sort of Jewish Ceremonies as of the whole Mass of them, even the dissolution of the whole Ceremonial Law, of which the Jews were grown weary, and with which they had been for a long time heavy laden, when Christ called them to take his Yoke and Burden upon them, which was to be so easie, and light.

But then in the last place, as the obligatory force of all the Jewish Rites and Ceremonies were taken away, because they were inconsistent with the free nature of the Christian Church: So some more especially were annulled, as being inconsistent with the universality of it, as it was to be a Catholick Church.

Hither we may refer all those which were set up by God as *Mounds and Hedges to keep the Jews from mixing and conversing with their Idolatrous Neighbours, and their Idolatrous Neighbours from being too familiar and well acquainted with them. Such as these were those of not rounding the Corners of their Heads, and of not shaving of the Corners of their Beards, of not letting their Cattel gender with divers kinds, of not sowing their Fields with mingled Seed, nor their Vineyards with divers Seeds; of not Plowing with an Ox and an Ass together, and of not wearing a Garment Linnen and Woolen. God enjoined them these, and other things in opposition to the neighbouring Idolatrous Nations, that there might be a mutual strangeness and hatred betwixt them, and that by these and other Ceremonial Singularities, they might be distinguished from the rest of the World. But then Christ coming to break down the middle wall of Partition betwixt the Jews and Gentiles, and to abolish the Enmity of Ordinances that was betwixt them, that he might make Peace betwixt them, and reconcile them both into one Body in the Cross, it was requisite to this end, that he should abolish these, and all other distinguishing Characters betwixt them, which would have hindred the Progress of the Gospel, had it been clogg'd with Jewish Rites and Ceremonies, which were become so odious, and ridiculous to all the Gentile World.

In particular, For this reason he was obliged to change the Initiatory Sacrament, and the Seal of the Covenant of Grace, I mean Circumcision, by which the Jews (excepting a few* Nations) were distinguished from all the World.

They were become || odious and ridiculous to all other People upon the account of it, and for this reason it would have been a mighty bar, to the Progress of the Gospel, had the Gentiles been to be initiated thereby.

Furthermore, it alone was reckoned as a grievous burden by reason of the painful and bloody nature of it; and for that Reason also was laid aside, as being inconsistent with the free and easy nature of the Christian Religion; for if Zipporah was so much offended at Moses, and called him a bloody Husband upon the account of it, we may well presume how much the Gentiles would have been offended at the Apostles, and at their Doctrine, upon the account thereof.

No Religious Rite could be more ungrateful to Flesh and Blood, and therefore the Wisdom of our Lord is to be admired in changing of it into the easy and practicable Ceremony of Baptism; which was of

Hitherto I have given the Reaſons of altering the Jewiſh Economy, and of reforming of it into the Chriſtian Church, but then my undertaking obliges me to prove what before I obſerved, that

* Chriſt and his Apoſtles, who were the Reformers of it, did build with many of the old Materials, and conformed their new houſe, as much as they could, after the Platform of the old. This will appear from

Though it were but a mere humane Inſtitution, or, as the diſſenting Parties uſually phrase it, a mere humane invention; yet ſo much reſpect had our bleſſed Lord for the Antient Orders and Cuſtomes of the Jewiſh Church, that being obliged to lay by Circumciſion for the reaſons above mentioned, he conſecrated this inſtead of it to be the Sacrament of initiation into his Church, and a Seal of the Righteouſneſs of Faith. Hitherto I have made a short Previous Discourse concerning many useful Particulars. As

First, Concerning the beginning, or Original of the Jewish Church.

Secondly, Concerning the Nature of it.

Thirdly, Concerning the initiatory Sacrament in it, and the Persons that were capable of Initiation.

And Lastly, Concerning the alteration of it from the Legal into the Evangelical Dispensation; wherein I have briefly shewed the true grounds of that blessed Reformation, and how tender Christ, and his Apostles were of Altering or rejecting, more then was necessary, or of receding more then was needful from the Jewish Church.

All these things I thought necessary to be discoursed [as Præcognita] to fit and prepare the Reader's mind to understand the State of the Controversy about Infant-Baptism, as it is proposed in these five Comprehensive Questions. 1. Whether Infants are incapable of Baptism? 2. Whether they are excluded from Baptism by Christ? 3. Whether it is lawful to separate from a Church which appointeth Infants to be Baptized? 4. Whether it be the duty of Christian Parents to bring their Children unto Baptism? 5. Whether it is lawful to Communicate with believers, who were baptized in their Infancy? The whole merit of the Controversy about Infant-Baptism, lies in these 5 Comprehensive Questions, and I shall presently proceed to the stating of them after I have have shew'd, that Circumcision was a Sacrament of equal Significancy, Force, and Perfection with Baptism, and that Baptism succeeded in the room of it, not as the Antitype succeeded in the place of the Type, but as one positive Institution succeeds in the place of another, and this also is necessary to be foreknown by the Reader, because the Anabaptists endeavour to shift off the force of many good Arguments, which otherwise are not to be evaded, by saying that Circumcision under the Old Testament, was a Type of Baptism under the New.

Now to shew that Circumcision was not a Type but only the Fore-runner of Baptism, we must note, that strictly and properly speaking, there was the same difference betwixt the Type and the Antitype, as betwixt the Shadow, and the Substance, or betwixt quædam Species, aut tam exilis gradus fuerit, ut pro umbrâ quædam haberi possit.

Antitypo vis in-est, ea non nisi specie tenus, aut gradu longè exiliori in Typo exite-

Outramus de Sacrif. l. 2. c. 18.

Thus the blood of the Legal Sacrifices were but Shadows, and Representations of the Blood of Christ, and the purging and cleansing Virtue in their Blood, serving to the purifying of the Flesh, was also but a faint and umbratical resemblance of the more noble and efficacious cleansing Virtue of his Blood which purges the Conscience from dead works. So the Bra-zen Serpent was but a Shadow or Symbol of Christ upon the Cross, and the healing Virtue which, belonged to it, was but a figure, or shadow of that more eminent, and powerfully healing Virtue, which was in Jesus Christ. But the case is not so betwixt Circumcision, and Baptism, because Circumcision hath no Symbolical likeness with Baptism, nor any thing belonging to it common with Baptism, which doth not as literally, properly, fully, and eminently belong unto it, as unto Baptism it self.

For First, Is Baptism a Sacrament of initiation into the Covenant of Grace under the Gospel? So was Circumcision before, and under the Law. Is Baptism now a Seal of the Righteousness of Faith? So was Circumcision then. Doth it properly, and effectually confirm and establish the Covenant betwixt God and us now? So did Circumcision then, as it is written, you shall Circumcise the Flesh of your Fore-skin, and it shall be a Token of the Covenant betwixt me and you. Baptism doth nothing under the Gospel, which Circumcision did not as properly, and effectually under the Law. This was then as absolute and real a Sacrament, as that now is. This did then as really initiate true Believers, as that now doth. It never was an Umbratical Sacrament, or shadow of another Sacrament, it never did Umbratically initiate Believers, or Umbratically, and in shew and Similitude only confirm the Covenant betwixt God, and the Seed of Abraham; and therefore could not be a Type of Baptism, no more then the Broad Seal of England 300 Years ago was a Type of this.

Accordingly it is never mentioned in the New-Testament as a Type of Baptism, nor Baptism, as the Anti-type of it; but on the contrary, the only Typical Adumbrations which are found of it in the Gospel, are such things, which have some Symbolical likeness with it, and were fitted upon that account to be Types thereof.

The Second is the saving of Noah and his Family in the Ark, the like figure whereunto, saith the Apostle, even Baptism doth also save us || 1 Pet. 3. 21. Here it is plain, that the Waters of the Flood were a shadow of the Waters of Baptism, the Ark a Type of the Church, and that the passing of the Ark through the Waters did prefigure our passing through the Waters of Baptism in the Ark of the Church.

But as for Circumcision it hath nothing in it Symbolical of Baptism, nor was it an Umbratical; but a real Consignation of the Covenant of Grace, every way as real, and substantial an Ordinance, as Baptism now is,
and therefore succeeded in the room of it, not as the Antitype did in the place of the Type, but as one absolute Ordinance or positive Institution doth in the place of another, according to the Apostle, who saith unto unto the Collossians.—In whom also ye are Circumcised, with the Circumcision made without hands, in putting off the Body of the Sins of the Flesh by the Circumcision of Christ, having been buried with him in Baptism. Collos. 2. 11, 12.

But in the second place, if we consider the Original of Baptism, as a Jewish Institution, we shall find it very improbable, that Circumcision should be a Type of it, because a Type properly speaking is a * Symbol of something future, or an Exemplar appointed under the Old Testament to prefigure something under the New.

But, Baptism was it self of Jewish Institution under the Old Testament; and by consequence could not be Typified, and prefigured by Circumcision, with which it was coexistent, and used with it for many years together in the Jewish Church.

The Jewish Church made it a Ceremony of initiating Profelytes unto the Law, and our Saviour liking the Institution, continued the use of it, and made it the only Ceremony of Initiating Profelytes unto the Gospel, superadding unto it the compleat Nature of an Initiatory Sacrament, or the full force of Circumcision as it was a Sign of the Covenant, and a Seal of the Righteousness of Faith.

These things being premised, let us proceed to the stating of the former Questions. And first of all,

Quest. I. Whether Infants are incapable of Baptism?

Which, considering what hath already been said concerning the Spiritual and Evangelical Nature of the Covenant, which God made with Abraham, and the initiation of young Children into it by God's especial appointment, cannot without rashness be affirmed. Nothing can reflect more dishonour upon the Wisdom of God, and the practise of the Jewish Church then to assert Infants to be incapable of the same privilege, which God, and the Jewish Church granted unto them. For God commanded them to be Circumcised, and the Jewish Church commanded them to be Baptized, as well adult Profelytes, and if they were then capable both of Circumcision, and Baptism, surely they are capable of Baptism now.

If they be not, from whence comes the difference? Not from the Nature of the Covenants, for the Covenant, which God made with Abraham, and his Seed, was, as I to have shew'd the same Covenant for substance, which he hath since renew'd with us in Christ. Nor from the Signs and Seals of the Covenant; for Circumcision was a Sign and Seal of the same Grace, or of the same Righteousness of Faith under the Old-Testament, that Baptism is now under the New.

Wherefore, since the Covenants were for substance the same, both Spiritual and Evangelical Covenants, and the Grace of those Covenants the very same, and only the Rites and Ceremonies which were Signs of those Covenants, and Seals of that Grace being different; what hinders in the nature of the thing, but that Infants who were capable of the one, should not also be capable of the other? Is Baptism a more Spiritual Ordinance then Circumcision? That cannot be, because Circumcision is a Gospel-Ordinance; I mean, an Ordinance of the Gospel which God preached before unto Abraham, and if the Spirituality of outward Ordinances dinances are to be measured from the ends of their institution, then Circumcision was every way as Spiritual as Baptism, because it really signified the same Covenant, and sealed the same Grace, and was a Ceremony of Initiation to the same Spiritual Seed of Abraham, that Baptism now is.

Wherefore, if the relative nature of Circumcision, considered as a Sacrament, was the same under the Law, that Baptism is under Gospel, it must needs follow, that Children under the Gospel, are as capable of this (supposing no new Command to exclude them) as under the Law, they were of that; if Infant Church-Membership, or the Initiation of Infants was then no absurdity, surely it can be none now. If God under the Old Testament vouchsafed it as a gracious Privilege unto Children to be incorporated with actual Believers, and with them to be made Members of his Church; without a Prohibition to the contrary, they must needs be capable of the same Privilege still. Nay, if Infants were admitted into the Church, when the entrance into it was more grievous, and not without blood, how unreasonable is it to assert, that they are now incapable of admission into it, when the entrance into it is made more easy, and more agreeable to the natural weakness of a young and tender Child? Certainly if the Jewish Infants were Circumcised with the most painful and bloody Circumcision made with hands, Christian Infants, without a Special Countermand from God, must be deemed capable of the Circumcision made without hands; I mean of Baptism, which is the Circumcision of Christ. What God hath Sanctified, and Adopted, and made a Member of his Church, let no Man presume to think it incapable of Sanctification, Adoption, and Church-Membership, but yet so rash and extravagant have the profess'd Adversaries of Infant-Baptism been, as to pronounce little Infants as incapable of Baptism, as the young ones of unreasonable Creatures, and that it is as vain to call upon God to send his Holy Spirit upon them, as to pray him to illuminate a Stone or a Tree.

Nay, upon this very Presumption, that Infants are incapable of Baptism, they assert Infant-Baptism to be a scandalous abuse of the Ordinance of Baptism, a meer Nullity and insignificant performance, and scornfully call it Baby-Baptism, forgetting all this while that Circumcision of Infants was no scandalous abuse of the Ordinance of Circumcision, but a valid and significant Performance, and that in their Phrase there was Baby-Circumcision, and Baby-Baptism in the Jewish Church.

The reason why they conclude Infants incapable of Baptism, is taken from the consideration of their incapacity, as to some ends and uses of Baptism, which cannot be answered (say they) but by the Baptism of grown Persons, who are capable of understanding the Gospel, and of professing their Faith, and Repentance, and of submitting unto Baptism, and of having their Faith and Hope further strengthened in the use of it; but Infants being utterly incapable of understanding the Gospel, or of professing their Faith, and Repentance, and of submitting unto Baptism in which they are meerly passive, or of having their Faith strengthened in the use of it, they ought to be deemed incapable of Baptism, whose ends are so much frustrated, when it is applied unto them.

But this way of arguing how plausible soever it may seem at first hearing, is weak and fallacious, and highly reflecting upon the Council, and Wisdom of God.

First,

First, it is weak and fallacious, because it makes no distinction betwixt a strict institution, which is instituted by God for one, or a few ends, and precisely for Persons of one sort, and an Institution of Latitude, which is instituted by him for several ends, and for different sorts of Persons differently qualified for those several ends. Of the first sort, was the Ordinance of Fringes above mentioned, which could only concern grown Persons, because they only were capable of answering the end, for which it was instituted, viz. To look upon them and remember the Commandments of the Lord, and of the latter sort is the Holy Ordinance of Marriage, which was appointed by God for several ends, and for Persons differently qualified, and capacitated for those several ends, insomuch, that Persons, who are incapacitated as to some ends of Marriage may yet honestly Marry, because they are capable of the rest. All the ends and uses, for which it was appointed can only be answered by the Marrying of Persons who are capacited for procreation of Children, notwithstanding superannuated Persons, who are past that capacity, are not incapable Subjects of Marriage, nor is the Marriage of such invalid, or an abuse of the Holy Ordinance of Marriage, because they are capable of answering one end, for which Marriage was ordained.

This shows how fallacious the Anabaptists argue against Baptizing of Infants, because of their incapacity as to some ends and uses for which Baptism was ordained; they ought first to have proved, what they take for granted, that it was a Divine Institution of the first sort, which I call a strict Institution, and then their Argument had been good, but this they will never be able to prove, because Baptism succeeded in the room of Circumcision, which was a Divine Institution of the the latter sort, and because our Saviour was Baptised, in whom there was a greater incapacity, as to the ends of Baptism, then possibly can be in Infants, even as he was in a greater incapacity as to answering the ends of Circumcision, then ordinary Jewish Infants were. John verily did Baptize with the Baptism of Repentance, and thereby sealed unto the People the Remission of their Sins, and therefore understanding very well that our Lord was not capable of this, and other ends of his Baptism, he forbade him, telling him, that he was fitter to be the Baptist, then to be Baptized of him; but yet as soon as our Lord gave him one general reason why he ought to be Baptized, viz. Because it became him to fulfil all Righteousness, he suffered him, which shews that Baptism is a Divine Institution of Latitude, and that in such Institutions the incapacity of a Person, as to some ends, doth not incapacitate him for it, when he is capable of the rest.

But Secondly, This way of arguing from the incapacity of Infants, as to some ends of Baptism is highly reflecting upon the Wisdom of God; who commanded young Babies to be Circumcised, although all the ends of Circumcision could not be answered, but by the Circumcision of adult Persons, who only were capable of understanding the nature of the Institution, and the nature of the Covenant, into which they were to enter, of professing their Faith and Repentance, and of submitting unto the bloody Sacrament, in which Children were merely Passive, and of having their Faith and Hope further strengthened upon sealing unto them the Remission of their Sins.

Wherefore, the full force of this Objection rises up against Infant-Circumcision, as well as Infant-Baptism, because Circumcision was instituted for the same ends, that Baptism now is, and accordingly when Men were initiated by Circumcision they were to profess their Faith, and Repentance, and shortly after at their Baptism solemnly to renounce Idolatry, and all idolatrous Manners and Worship, and their idolatrous Kindred and Relations; and yet upon the desire of such Profelytes, their Children were initiated both by Circumcision, and Baptism, though they were altogether incapable of understanding, or doing those things which their Fathers did.

Wherefore, those men who argue against Infant-Baptism, because it doth not answer all the ends of Baptism, reproach the Divine Wisdom, and the Wisdom of the Jewish Church, not considering, that Circumcision was, and Baptism is an Institution of great Latitude and compass, designed on purpose by God for Children, in whom there is a capacity for some, nay, for the *cheif ends of Baptism, as well as for Men and Women, in whom there is a capacity for all.

Infant.*

They are capable of all the ends of it, as it is instituted for a Sign from God towards us, to assure us of his Gracious favour, and to consign unto us the benefits of the Covenant of Grace. For their Child-hood doth not hinder, but that they may be made Members of the Church, as of a Family, Tribe, Colledge, or any other Society, nor doth it incapacitate them any more from being adopted the Children of God, then the Children of any other Person, nor of becoming Heirs of Eternal Life by virtue of that Adoption, then by virtue of any other Civil-Adoption, the Heirs to such a Temporal Estate. For Children are capable of all acts of Favour and Honour from God and Men, and of being instated in all the Privileges of any Society, though they cannot as yet perform the Duties of it, nor understand any thing thereof. Since therefore, Children are as capable, and stand as much in need of almost all the Benefits of the Covenant of Grace, and the Privileges of Church Membership as Men, is it not as fit that the Confirmatory Sign of those Benefits and Privileges should be applied unto them as well as unto these? should a Prince Adopt a Beggar's Child, and incorporate him into the Royal Family, and settle a part of his Dominions upon him, and to solemnize and confirm all this, should cut off a bit of his Flesh, or command him to be washed with Water, who would count this an insignificant Solemnity, or say, that the Child was not capable of the Sign, when he was capable of the chief Things signified thereby? or to make a Comparison, which hath a nearer semblance with the Case of Infant-Baptism. Suppose a Prince should send for an attainted Traytor's Child, and in the Presence of several Persons assembled for that purpose, should say. You know the Blood of this Child is attainted by his Fathers Treason, by Law he hath forfeited all Right to his Ancestors Estate, and Titles, and is quite undone, though he be not sensible of his wretched Condition. My Bowels of Compassion yern upon him, and here I restore him to his Blood and Inheritance, to which henceforward he shall have as much right, as if the Family had never been attainted. I justify him freely, and declare my self reconciled unto him, and that no spot or imputation may hereafter lay upon him, I here before you all wash him with pure water, to signify that he is cleansed from his Original Attaindure and Corruption of Blood, and that he is as fully restored to his Birth-right, as if he had never been Attaint.

Now suppose this were done for a poor attained Infant, could any Man say that the action was insignificant, and invalid, because the Child knew nothing of it, or that he was incapable of the Sign, when he was capable of being washed from the Attaindure, and of being thereby restored to his blood, and Birth-right, which was the chief thing signified thereby?

These things should be well considered by the Despisers of Infant-Baptism, against whom I may urge for Precedents the Circumcision, and Baptism of the Jewish Church, both these, as I must often observe, were applyed unto Infants as well as adult, and actual Believers under the Old Testament, and accordingly, tho' Abraham believed, and solemnly professed his Faith before he was Circumcised, yet I hope they will not say that God acted foolishly, in commanding Isaac, &c. to be Circumcised before he understood the ends of Circumcision, or could believe, much less make profession of his Belief. He was entered Sacramentally into Covenant with God before he was able to re-contract, or understand what the condition of the Covenant was, but yet I presume they will not say he was Circumcised in vain, although he was under the very same incapacity as to the ends of Circumcision, that Infants are of Baptism now.

The best way, that I know, they have of evading the force of this Argument, is by saying, that Circumcision was more proper for Infants then Baptism, because it left a significant Mark, and Character in their Flesh, whereas Baptism is a transeunt Sign, and leaves no significant Impression behind it, whereby to instruct Men and Women what was done unto them in their Infancy. But this is a meer shift.

First, Because the Mark, and Character, which Circumcision left in the Flesh of the Child, was as insignificant to him during the time of his Non-age, as Baptism is to Christian Infants, neither afterwards could he tell; but by the instruction of others, what the meaning of that Character was, and for what ends it was imprinted in his Flesh. And therefore, according to their way of reasoning against Infant-Baptism, it ought to have been deferred till the full years of discretion, when the Circumcised Person might have understood the Spiritual Signification thereof.

Furthermore, in answer to this Objection, I must remind them, that the Mark and Character which Circumcision left behind it, was of no force, or signification, unless it did appear from the * Registers of the Tribes, that the Person circumcised was a Jew.

7, 5. 64.

I say, the Character which Circumcision left behind it, was merely of it self of no force nor signification without the Registers, or written Genealogies, because without them neither the circumcised Person himself, nor the Church could know in many Circumstances whether he were a true Son of Abraham, or an Egyptian, Ismaelite, or Samaritan, who were all Circumcised as well as the Jews. If Baptism then be a Transient, Circumcision was an Equivocal Sign, and therefore these pretended circumstantial Differences signify nothing, nor make any substantial difference betwixt Circumcision and Baptism, as to the capacity of Infants unto both. They are capable of contracting a Spiritual Relation unto God by this, as formerly they were by that; they are capable of having their Spiritual attaindure remov'd; they are capable of receiving the Blessings of the Covenant, tho' they cannot perform the duties of it, and God may solemnly bind himself unto them, tho' they cannot as yet personally bind themselves unto him.

But

But Secondly, Allowing that Circumcision was more proper for Infants, then Baptism, yet this differently is wholly avoided by referring the Practice of Infant-Baptism not only unto Infant-Circumcision, but unto the Original Practice of Infant-Baptism in the Jewish Church; which understood very well, that it was but a transient rite, and left no Character upon the person, who was initiated thereby. Those therefore who take upon them to argue against Infant-Baptism from this or any other pretended reason, take upon them to censure, and condemn the Jewish Church, which for many Ages Baptised Infants, and Minor Profelytes into the Covenant, as well as actual Believers, and yet were never censured, or reproved for it by any Prophet, which we may presume they would have been, had Baptismal Initiation of Infants into the Covenant been so absurd, insignificant, and abusive a practice, as the Professors against Infant-Baptism vainly pretend it is.

Having now, I hope, sufficiently proved, that Infants are not uncapable Subjects of Baptism. Let us proceed to state the next Question, which is this.

Quest. II. Whether Infants are excluded from Baptism by Christ?

Where, in the first place, I must observe, that the Question ought to be proposed in these Terms, and not Whether Christ hath commanded Infants to be Baptized? For as a good* Author observes of the River Nile, ^{*Herodot.} that we ought not to ask the reason, Why Nile overflows so many days about the Summer-solstice? But rather Why it doth not overflow all the Year long? So in the Controversy about Infant-Baptism, the enquiry ought not to be, whether Christ hath commanded Infants to be Baptised? But whether he hath excluded them from Baptism? Because, considering the practise of the Jewish Jewish Church as to Infant-Circumcision and Infant-Baptism too, it must needs be granted, that a Command from Christ, to initiate Profelytes out of all Nations into the Christian Religion, must without an exception to the contrary, be understood to comprehend Infants, as well as Men.

Dr. Stil-
lingflut's Vindication of the
A.C.p. 100.

As for Example, suppose our Saviour had not changed the Seal of the Covenant, but instead of Baptizing, had said unto the Apostles, Go, and make all Nations my Disciples, Circumcising them in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. I appeal to any Impartial Man's judgment, whether the Apostles receiving such a Commission to Circumcise Profelytes of all Nations, would not have presumed without directions to the contrary, that it was Christ's Intention that the Infants of adult Profelytes should be Circumcised as well as Profelytes themselves, according to the Commandment of God under the Old Testament, and the Practice of the Jewish Church.

And if a command to Profelyte and Circumcise all Nations would, without an exception, have comprehended Infants, as well as Men, why should it be imagined that the command to Profelyte and Baptize all Nations should not likewise comprehend them, seeing that Infant-Baptism, as well as Infant-Circumcision had been the immemorial Practice of the Jewish Church.

This is so true, that supposing our Saviour had intended the gathering of Churches among the Gentiles according to the Old Testament, and the Custom of the Jewish Church, he need not have expressed his meaning in any other manner, then by saying unto the Apostles; Go Profelyte all Nations Circumcising and Baptising of them, &c. Nay he could scarce have expressed his Intentions in a more emphatical or intelligible telligible manner unto them, who being Jews must needs have the same Apprehensions as to the Subjects of Initiation, and Church-Membership under the Gospel, that they had under the Law. They had lived under a Dispensation, where Infants were initiated both by Circumcision and Baptism into the Church, and without they had been instructed to the contrary, they must naturally have understood their Commission of Baptizing to have extended unto Infants; as well as actual Believers; as if, for instance, God should now extraordinarily call twelve Men of any Christian Nation, where Infant-Baptism had been a constant and universal Practice, and bid them go, and Profelyte the Indians, baptizing them, &c. None of these Men could possibly imagine, that Infants were excepted out of their Commission; but common sense, on the contrary, would oblige them to understand it according to the usage of their own Church.

Besides, abstracting at present from the Controversy, Whether Christ did, or did not exclude Infants from Baptism? What reason can any Man give why he who fetched so many of his Institutions from Jewish usages, should exclude them from it, and recede in this Point from the Jewish Church.

They are every way as capable of the visible Signs of God's invisible favour, and of the Benefits of the Abramical Covenant under the New Testament, as they were under the Old, they are as fit Subjects of Baptism now, as they were of Circumcision and Baptism then, their initiation into both Churches seem to be equally rational, because, though the sign of the Covenant be altered, yet the Covenant still remains the same. In a word, there lay no Obligation upon our Blessed Lord, to lay aside the practice of Infant-Baptism, as being inconsistent either with the Free, or the Manly, or Universal nature of the Christian Church.

Thus much I have said to shew, why the Question betwixt us and the Dissenters upon the account of Infant-Baptism should be, Whether Christ hath excluded Infants from Baptism? And not Whether he hath commanded Infants to be Baptized? And certainly, the Premises being considered, there is far more reason to conclude, that Christ should have prohibited Infants from Baptism, if it had been his intention not to have them Baptized, then that he should have commanded them to be Baptized, if it had been his intention to continue the practice of Infant-Baptism. For he need not have commanded his Apostles to do that, which they would naturally have done of themselves without a prohibition, and that he did not prohibit them to Baptize Infants, is now the thing to be proved, in shewing, that he did not exclude Infants from Baptism.

For if he excluded them from Baptism, he either excluded them from it directly by an express prohibition not to Baptise them, or consequentially by so limiting, and determining the Subject of Baptism, as to make it unapplicable unto them.

That he never excluded them by any express prohibition the Anabaptists themselves do grant, because there is no such prohibition to be found in the New Testament, but then they pretend, that it was Christ's intention that grown Persons should be the only Subjects of Baptism, because the Gospel requires, that Persons to be Baptized should first be Taught, Believe, and Repent.

First, The Gospel requires, that they should be Taught, as in Matth. 28, 29. Go and teach all Nations Baptizing them, &c.

Secondly,

Secondly, That they should believe, as in Mark 16, 15. Go ye into all the World, and Preach the Gospel to every Creature, saying, He that Believeth, and is Baptized shall be saved.

Thirdly, Repentance, as in Acts 2. 38. Repent, and be Baptized every one of you in the Name of Jesus.

But now, say they, these three Qualifications before Baptism, can belong to none but grown Persons, to Men and Women, at years of discretion, and therefore none but such ought to be Baptized. And accordingly, we find that Baptism was practised upon these terms throughout the History of the Acts, and in Hebr. 6. 1. 2. Repentance and Faith are mentioned as prerequisite qualifications to Baptism in these Words, Not laying again the Foundation of Repentance from deadly works, and of Faith towards God, of the Doctrine of Baptismes.

These are the Arguments, by which the Adversaries of Infant-Baptism endeavour to prove, that Christ so limited the subject of Baptism, as to exclude Infants from it. But in this they are grievously mistaken, because these, and the like Texts do of themselves no more prove, that grown persons are the only Subjects of Baptism, then the words of the Apostle 2 Theff. 3. 10. prove that grown Persons only are to eat. The Apostles words are these: When we were with you this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat. From whence in their sophistical way it may be argued thus.

It belongs only to grown Persons to eat, because the Apostle requires, that Persons who eat, should first Work; but now this Apostolical qualification of working can belong to none but grown Persons, and therefore none but such ought to eat.

I have made use of this Parallel instance to shew how inconclusive the former way of arguing against Infant-Baptism is in it self, and how impossible it is to prove from the Texts above-mentioned, or any other like them, that Baptism is restrained to grown Persons, because none but grown Persons can be Taught, Believe, and Repent. And I will further discover the weakness and fallacy of this Argument from a familiar Comparison, which any common Capacity may understand.

Suppose then there were a great Plague in any Country, and God should miraculously call eleven, or twelve Men, and Communicate unto them a certain Medicine against this Plague, and say unto them. Go into such a Countrey, and call the People of it together, and teach them the Virtues of this Medicine, and assure them, that he that believeth, and taketh it from you shall Live, but he that believeth not, shall Dye.

Upon this Supposition I demand of these Dissenters, if the words of such a Commission would be sufficient for the Missioners that received it, or any others to conclude, that it was God's intention, that they should administer his revealed Medicine to none, but grown Persons. Because they only could be called together, and taught the Virtues of it, and believe or disbelieve them who brought it. No certainly, this way of arguing would not be admitted by any rational Man, because the Children would be as capable of the Medicine, as the Men, though they were ignorant of the benefits of it, and merely passive in the Administration thereof.

Wherefore seeing Children, as I have shewed, are capable of the benefits of Baptism, and seeing the Apostles who received a Commission to go and Teach, and Baptize all Nations, Or, as it is in the words of St. Mark, to Preach the Gospel to every Creature, saying,
He

He that Believeth and is Baptized shall be saved. I say, seeing Children are capable of the benefits of Baptism, and the Apostles, who received this Commission, knew them to be capable of it, and to have had both Circumcision, and Baptism administered to them in the Jewish Church, how should they, or any others imagine from the tenure of such a Commission, which was given unto them, as Planters of Churches, but that it was Christ's intention that Children, as well as grown Persons were to be Baptized?

Should God in the days of David, or Solomon, have called eleven or twelve Prophets, and given them the same Commission, which [Mutatis Mutandis] Christ gave to his Apostles, bidding them go and teach all Nations the Law, Circumcising, and Baptizing of them in the name of the God of Abraham, and teaching them to do whatsoever he had commanded them, I say, should he have sent them out to preach the Law to every Creature, saying, He that believeth, and is Circumcised, and baptized, shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned, would a Commission so worded have been of it-self a sufficient ground for them to think, that it was God's intention to restrain Circumcision and Baptism to adult Persons, contrary to the practise of the Jewish Church? Or, if in a short History of their Mission, and Undertaking, we should have read, that they Circumcised, and Baptized as many Profelytes, as gladly received their word, would this have been an Argument that they did not also Circumcise and Baptize the Infants of those believing Profelytes, according to the Laws, and Usages of their Mother Church? No certainly, such a Commission to Profelyte Strangers to the Jewish Religion, could not in reason have been strained to prejudice the customary right of Infants to Circumcision, and Baptism, and therefore in parity of reason, neither could the Apostles so understand their Commission without other Notices, as to exclude Infants from Sacramental Initiation into the Church.

The plain truth is, their Commission was a direction how they should profelyte Strangers to Christianity, according to the nature of propagating a new Religion in strange Countreys, as it is set forth by the Apostle, Rom. 20. 14. How then shall they call on him, in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a Preacher? And how shall they Preach unless they be sent? Accordingly they were sent out to Preach, or to Disciple Men, and Women by Preaching, and to Baptize as many of them, as should upon their Preaching Believe, and Repent. But though the Order of Nature required that they should proceed in this Method with grown Persons, as the Jews were wont to do with Profelytes to the Law, yet it did not hinder, that they who had been born, and bred Jews, should initiate the Infants of such Profelyted Persons, according to the usage of the Jewish Church. What need Christ have said more unto them, when he sent them out, then to bid them Go, and teach all Nations; Baptizing them in the Name of the Father, &c. Or, to Preach the Gospel to every Creature, and tell them, that he that would believe the Gospel, and be Baptized, should be saved. But then the respective sence of these words could only concern adult Persons, and their qualification for Baptism, but could in no reason be construed by them, to exclude Infants, but only unbelieving Men, and Women, whereof none were to be admitted into the Church by Baptism, before they were taught Christianity, and had confessed their Faith and Sins. Should God, as I said before, call twelve Men of any Church, where Infant-Baptism had been the constant and undoubted practice, practice, and bid them go, and Preach the Gospel in the Indies to every creature, and to say, He that believeth the Doctrine which we Preach, and is baptized with the baptism which we Administer, shall be Saved. I appeal to any Dissenter upon the account of Infant-Baptism, whether he thinks that these Men, bred up to the practice of Infant-Baptism, could in probability so interpret this Commission, as to think, that it was God's intention, that they should exclude the Infants of believing, Profelytes from Baptismal admission into the Church.

The Professors against Infant-Baptism, put the greatest stress upon these words of our Saviour: He that believeth, and is baptized, shall be Saved: But if they would well consider the next words, they would find, that Infants are not at all concerned in them, because it follows, but he that believeth not shall be Damned. The same want of Faith, which here excludes from Baptism, excludes also from Salvation, and therefore it cannot be understood of Infants, unless they will say with the * Original Anabaptists, that the same incapacity of believing which excludes them from Baptism, excludes them from Salvation too. Wherefore, it is plain, that the believing, and not believing in that Text, is only to be understood of such as are in capacity of hearing, and believing the Gospel; that is, of grown Persons, just as the words in Job. 3. 36. He that believeth on the Son of God hath Everlasting Life, and he that believeth not shall not see Life, but the Wrath of God abideth on him.

Thus far have I proceeded to shew, how inconclusively and absurdly the Anabaptists go about to prove, that Infants ought to be excluded from Baptism from the fore-mentioned Texts, which speak of the order of, and their Qualifications for Baptism Profelyting grown Persons; and as little success have they with with some others, which they bring to shew how unprofitable Baptism is for Infants, as that in 1 Pet. 3.21. Where the Apostle tells us, that external Baptism of putting away the filth of the Flesh, of which Infants are only capable, signifies nothing, but the answer of a good Conscience towards God, of which, say they, Infants are altogether incapable; to which the answer is very easy; that another Apostle tells us, that external Circumcision of which Infants were only capable, profited nothing without keeping the Law, which Infants could not keep, nay, that the outward Circumcision, of which Infants were only capable, was nothing, but that the inward Circumcision of the heart, and in the spirit was the true Circumcision, and yet Infants remaining Infants were utterly incapable of that; so that their way of arguing from this and such like Texts, proves nothing, because it proves too much, and stretches the words of the Apostles unto undue consequences, beyond their just Meaning, which was only to let both Jews and Christians know, that there was no resting in external Circumcision, or Baptism, but not that their Infants were unprofitably Circumcised, and Baptized.

So weak, and unconcluding are all the Arguments, by which the Anabaptists endeavour from Scripture, to prove, that Christ hath limited the Subject of Baptism unto grown Persons; put them all together they do not amount to any tolerable degree of probability, much less unto a presumption, especially if they be put in the ballance against the early and universal practice of the Catholick Church. Had not the Church been always in possession of this practice, or could any time be shewed on this side the Apostles, when it began. Nay, could it be proved, that any one Church in the World did not Baptize Infants, or that any con- siderasiderable number of Men otherwise Orthodox, did decline the Baptizing of them upon the same Principles, that these Men do now, then I should suspect that their Arguments are better then really they are, and that Infant-Baptism might possibly be a deviation from the rule of Christ. But since it is so universal, and ancient a practice, that no body knows when, or where it began, or how from not being it came to be the practice of the Church, since there was never any Church Antient or Modern, which did not practice it, it must argue a strange partiality to think, that it could be any thing less, then an Apostolical Practice, and Tradition, or the Original use of Baptism in its full Latitude under the Gospel, which it had under the Law. *Had the * Churches erred they would have varied (saith Tertullian) but what is one and the same amongst them all, proceeds not from error but Tradition. Or, as St. || Augustine saith upon this Subject, That which the Universal Church doth hold, and was never instituted by Councils, but was always retained in the Church, we most rightly believe to have descended from nothing less then Apostolical Tradition.*

* Ecquid verisimile est tot ac tantæ in unam fidem erraverint? Nullus inter multos eventus unus est.

* Menno, one of the most learned of the Anabaptists about the time of the Reformation, was so pressed with this way of arguing, that he acknowledged Infant-Baptism to be as old, as the time of the Apostles, but then he said, it proceeded from false-Apostles, and false-Teachers in the Apostles times. But if it came first from false Apostles, and false-Teachers, in the time of the Apostles, how came it to pass that we heard nothing of that Innovation in the Writings of the Apostles or of their Companions and Contemporaries, such as

* Cassand. advers. Anabapt. p. 675.

St. Clement, St. Ignatius, St. Polycarp, &c? How came St. John who survived unto the latter end of the first Century to pass it over in silence, or how came the Spirit in the Revelations, which by his Pen reprov'd so many abuses in the Churches, not to censure this? It is very strange, that none of the Pen-men of the Holy-Ghost, nor none of their Assistants, and Companions should animadvert upon so scandalous an abuse of the Holy-Ordinance of Baptism, which in a short time would fill the Church with sham Christians, and destroy the Essence thereof. In like manner, if it came in by false Teachers, in the next Age to the Apostles, how came it to pass that none of the famous Saints and Martyrs, who flourished then, oppos'd it as a dangerous Innovation, nor gave us any account thereof? They wrote against the Heresies of Simon, Menander, Saturnus, Corinthus, Ebion, Valentinus, Basilides, Marcion, &c. but we find nothing in them against Infant-Baptism, though we are sure from * Irenæus, and || Tertullian, that it was practis'd in that Age.

* Omnes enim veniunt [Christus] per semet ipsum salvare, omnes, inquam, qui per eum renascuntur ad deum, infantes, & parvulos, & pueros, & juvenes, & Seniores. i. e. Christ came to save all by himself, all, I say, who by him are born again to God, Infants, and little Ones, and Boys, and Young and Old. In the Ancient Writers Baptism is called Regeneration, and Baptized Persons are said to be Regenerate, or born again, according to the Scripture, which calls it Λατρὸν παλιγγενεσίας the washing of Regeneration, Tit. 3. 5. Hence saith Just. Mart. Apol. 2. Ἐπειτα ἀγονται ὑφ' ἡμῶν ἐνθα ὕδατος ἐς, καὶ τρόπον ἀναγεννήσεως, ὃν καὶ ἡμεῖς αὐτοὶ ἀναγεννήθημεν, ἀναγεννώμεθα. So hath Phavorinus observed, παλιγγενεσία τὸ ἅγιον Βάπτισμα λέγεται, Holy Baptism is called Regeneration, and those who would see more proofs of it, may consult Suicerus in the words' Ἀναγέννησις and παλιγγενεσία. Dr. Ham. on Matth. 19. 28. John 3. 5. Selden de jure l. 2. c. 4. But if after all this-evidence any Anabaptist will say, that renascuntur in this place of Irenæus, doth not signify Baptized, or born again of Water, then it must signify Regenerated, or born again of the Spirit; and if Infants, and little Ones can be born again of the Spirit, then they are capable of being born again of Water, or of being Baptized, as Vossius argues disp. de Baptismo. p. 181.

|| De Baptismo. Where what he speaks about deferring the Baptism of Infants, shews that it was the practice of the Christians in that Age, *Pro cujusque personæ conditione, ac dispositione etiam ætate, cunctatio Baptismi utilior est, præcipue tamen circa parvulos. ad

ad remissionem peccatorum? But this Opinion of his that it was more convenient to defer the Baptism of Infants, was his own singular opinion, as much as that was of deferring the Baptism of Virgins and Widows, till they were Married, which follows in the next words. Non minore de causa innupti procrastinandi, &c. And he shews the same cause why he would have the Baptism of Children, and un-married Women deferred, for, fear they should be tempted to renounce Christ after Baptism. Siqui pondus intelligant Baptismi, magis timebunt consecutionem, quam dilationem: fides integra secura est de salute. But then how absolutely necessary he thought Baptism for Infants in case of extream danger is evident from other Passages, as Cap. 13. Quum vero prescribitur nemini sine Baptismo competere salutem, and Cap. 17. *Sufficiat scilicet in necessitatibus utaris, scibi, aut loci, aut temporis, aut persone conditio compellit. What meant all these Men to let such a pestilent practise pass uncondemned, which in a short time, would leave none in the Church but Mock Christians, and so prevail against the Catholick Church, which our Lord promised the Gates of Hell should not prevail against? What, would not the Holy-Ghost preserve so much as one Church among so many, from such a dangerous error, but suffer them all to embrace it without Opposition? * Would he suffer them all so soon to Apostatize, and to practise, and believe otherwise, then Christ had taught, and the Apostles preached. No! It is impossible, that they should all consent in such a dangerous error, or that they should all peaceably, and tamely submit to it without opposition, or that such an alteration should be made without Observation no body can tell how, or when.

Wherefore these Dissenters are very unreasonable in charging the Church universal with apostacy from Christ upon the account of Infant-Baptism, and in striving to throw her out of the possession of such an ancient, and general practise merely by such indirect and consequential Arguments from the Scriptures, as the Ancient Fathers never drew from them, nor we can admit against their general practice and consent. Certainly those places of the *New Testament; which requires a Profession of Faith, and Repentance, in grown Persons before Baptism, were understood by the Ancient Fathers, they undoubtedly had well read and considered the History of Baptism in the Acts of the Apostles, but yet they never drew this absurd Consequence from them, that because Faith, and Repentance were to go before Baptism, which is an Institution of Latitude, in Adult Persons, that therefore Baptism was not to go before

Faith, and Repentance in Children and Minors, as both Circumcision, and Baptism in the like case were wont to go before them in the Jewish Church. They knew the difference betwixt the admission of actual and potential Believers, and also knew it was a very great inconsequence to argue from the Qualifications, which the Gospel requires in those, to the exclusion of these. I freely acknowledge to them, that no Arguments are equal to the Scriptures, when the Interpretations of them are not doubtful, yet when they are so, I appeal to any sober Dissenter of this, or any other persuasion, whether the harmonious practice of the ancient Churches, and the undivided consent of Apostolical Fathers be not the most sure and authentical Interpreters, that can be betwixt Men, and Men. They thought Infant-Baptism lawful, and valid, and no abuse of the Ordinance of Baptism, and let any modest and moderate Man judge, whether so many Famous * Saints and Martyrs, so neer the Apostles times, should fall into such a delusion, as to conspire in the practice of Mock Baptism, and of making so many Million of Mock-Christians, and Mock-Churches, or that a little Sect, which must have separated from all the Ancient, as well as Modern Churches, that were ever yet discovered, should be in a great, and grievous error themselves.

Having now shew'd First, That Infants are not uncapable of Baptism.

Secondly, that they are not excluded from it by Christ; but that on the contrary, we have very convince-ing Reasons to presume, that the Baptism of Infants, as well as of grown Persons, was intended by him. Let us now proceed to make a fair and impartial enquiry upon the Third Question.

Quest. III. Whether it is lawful to separate from a Church, which appointeth Infants to be Baptized?

And this, considering what I have said upon the former Questions, must be determined in the Negative, Whether we consider Infant-Baptism only as a thing lawful, and allowable, or, as a thing highly requisite, or necessary to be done.

I know very well, that my Adversaries, in this Controversy, will be apt to deny this distinction betwixt lawful and necessary; as acknowledging nothing in Religious matters to be lawful, but what is necessary, according to that common Principle imbibed by all sorts of Dissenters, That nothing is to be appointed in Religious matters, but what is commanded by some Precept, or directed unto by some special example in the Word of God.

Hence they ordinarily say, Can you shew us any Precept or Example for Baptizing Infants in the New Testament, if you can, we will grant, that the appointment of it is lawful, but if you cannot, we disallow it as unlawful, nay as an Usurpation, and will never be of a Church, which so Usurpeth it over the Consciences of Men.

This way of arguing is plausible to the Vulgar, and would be very good, were there such a Principle in the Scripture, as this, from whence they argue, viz. That nothing is to be appointed in Religious matters, but what is warranted by Precept, or Example in the Word of God. Wherefore, as the Men with whom I have to deal in this Controversy, are generally Persons of good natural Understandings :

So in the First place, I beg them to consider, that there is no such Rule in the Scripture, as this, and therefore those, who teach it for a Scripture-rule, or Precept, do themselves impose upon Mens Consciences, as bad as Papists, and, like them and the Pharisees of old, teach the Traditions of Men for Doctrines of God. On the contrary, the Cospel tells us, that Sin is the Transgression of a Law, and that where there is no Law, there is no Transgression, and according to this plain, and intelligible Rule, though the Baptizing of Infants were not commanded in the Scriptures, yet the Church would have Power and Authority to appoint it, upon supposition that it is not forbid.

Secondly, I desire them to consider the absurdity of this pretended Scripture-rule, in that it takes away the distinction betwixt barely lawful, or allowable, and necessary, and leaves no Negative meane betwixt necessary and sinful, but makes things forbidden, and things not commanded to be the very same.

Thirdly, I desire them to consider, what a slavish Principle this is, and how inconsistent it is with the free, and manly nature of the Christian Religion, under which we should be in a far more servile, and Childish condition, then the Jews were under the Law, which as it is evident from the Feast of Purim, and from the Institution of Baptism among the Jews, allowed private Persons to practice, and the Church to appoint things of a Religious nature, which God had not commanded to be done.

Lastly, I entreat them to consider, how utterly impracticable this pretended Principle is, as might be proved from the contrary practice of all those, who advance it against Ecclesiastical Authority, and particularly from their own practice, in Baptizing grown Persons, who were bred up from Infants in the Christian Religion.

Religion, and in admitting Women to the Lords-Supper, who were not admitted to the Passeover, nor Paschal-cup of Blessing, without any Precept, or Precedent for so doing in the Word of God.

This little well considered, is enough to obviate all Objections against my first Assertion, viz. That it is not lawful to separate from a Church which appointeth Infants to be Baptized, upon supposition, that Infant-Baptism is barely lawful, and allowable, but if any man desire further satisfaction, as to this point, he may have it abundantly in the case of indifferent things, to which I refer him, it being more my business to shew here that Infant-Baptism is at least, a lawful, and allowable thing.

To prove this, I need but desire the Reader to reflect upon the State of the two first Questions: For if Infants be as capable of Baptism under the Gospel, as they were of Circumcision under the Law, and if Christ have not excluded them from it nether directly, nor consequentially: Otherwise, if Baptism be an Institution of as great Latitude in its self, as Circumcision its Fore-runner was, and Christ hath not determined the administration of it to one Age, more then one Sex: Once more, if Children may be taken into the Covenant of Grace, under the Gospel, as well as under the Law, and Christ never said, nor did anything which can in reason be interpreted to forbid them to be taken in. In a Word, If they are capable of all the Ends of Baptism now, that they were of Circumcision then, and of having the Privileges of Church-Membership, and the Blessings of the Covenant consigned unto them, and Christ neither by himself, nor by his Apostles did forbid the Church to satisfy and fulfil this their capacity: Or last of all, If Christ hath only appointed Baptism instead of Circumcision, but said nothing to determine the Subject of it, then it must needs follow, that that Infant-Baptism must at least be lawful, and allowable, because it is an indifferent, and not a forbidden, or sinful thing. But upon this supposition, that it were left undetermined, and indifferent by Christ, it might like other indifferent things be lawfully appointed by any Church, from which it would be a Sin to seperate upon that account. For in this case, Churches might safely differ in their practice about Infant-Baptism, as they do now in the Ceremonies of Baptism; and those who lived in a Church which did practise it, ought no more to seperate from her for appointing of it, then those who lived in another Church, which did not practise it, ought to seperate from her, for not appointing thereof.

Thus much I have said, I hope with sufficient moderation, upon supposition, that all I have written upon former Questions, doth but satisfactorily prove, that Infant-Baptism is only lawful, and not highly requisite and necessary; but then if it be not only lawful, but highly requisite and necessary, so that it ought to be appointed, then it must needs be much more sinful to seperate from a Church, which appointeth Infants to be Baptized.

Now, as to the requisite necessity of Infant-Baptism, supposing that my Reader bears in memory, that I have said upon the last Question, (to make it appear with the highest degree of credibility, that Christ instituted Baptism for Infants, as well as grown Persons, and that the Apostles, and their Companions practised Infant-Baptism) I must here entreat him further to observe, that there is a two-fold necessity in matters of Christian Faith and practice, one which proceeds from plain dictates of natural reason, or from plain and express words of the Gospel, where the sense is so obvious and clear, that no sober Man can mistake it, or doubt of it, and another which proceeds from the general Scope and Tenor of the Gospel, or from doubtful places in it so, or so understood and interpreted by the unanimous voice, and practice of the antient Catholick Church.

The first degree of necessity is founded on ostensive certainty, and demonstration, wherein there is no room left for Objection.

And the Second is founded upon violent presumption, where the Objections on one hand are insufficient to move, or at least to turn the Ballance, if put in the Scale against the other, which is weighed down [Mole universatis Ecclesie] with the authority of the Universal Church. And because this Rule, like others, is not so intelligible without an Example, I will add some Instances of things, which are necessary to be believed, and practised by every good Christian under both these Notions of necessity, that they may be better understood.

According to the First Notion of it, it is necessary to believe, that Jesus Christ is the Messias, and the Son of God, because it is delivered in express words of Scripture.

And according to the Second Notion of it, it is necessary to believe, that he is of the same substance with the Father, and equal unto him, and that there are three distinct, and coequal Persons in the God-head, which are all but one God, because these Doctrines, though they are not to be found in express words in the Gospel, yet they are to be collected from several places of it, which were always so interpreted by that antient Catholick Church.

Again, according to the First Notion of necessity, it is necessary for all Men to believe the Word of God, whether spoken or written, because natural reason teacheth us so to do.

And

And according to the Second Notion of it, it is necessary to believe the Books contained in the New Testament, to be the Word of God, and no other (how Divine, and Orthodox, and Antient soever they may be) because they, and they only have been received for such by the antient Catholick Church.

In likemanner as to matter of practice, by the First sort of Necessity, it is necessary for Christians to assemble together to Worship God, because Reason, and Scripture plainly teach them so to do.

And by the Second sort it is necessary, that they should assemble themselves periodically to Worship God on every first day of the Week, because the Observation of the Lords Day, appears to be a Duty from several places of the New Testament, as they are interpreted to this sense by the universal Practice of the antient Catholick Church.

To proceed, according to the First Notion of Necessity, Church-Government is necessary, because it is enjoined by the Dictates of Common reason, and most expresse places of Scripture.

And according to the Second Notion of it, it is necessary, that the Church should be governed by Bishops (where they can be had) distinct from, and Superiour to Presbyters, because this Government appears to be instituted by Christ from several Passages of the New Testament, as they are explained by the uniform practice of the Primitive Catholick Church.

Furthermore, according to the first sort of necessity, it is necessary to administer the Lords Supper, because our Saviour hath commanded it in expresse words.

And according to the Second, which is also an indispensable degree of Necessity, it is necessary to administer it to Women, though they never were admitted to the Passover, or Paschal Postcenium, which answered unto it, because we can prove from some probable places of the New Testament, that they were admitted unto it, as those places are in equity to be interpreted by the universal practice of the Antient Primitive Church.

To conclude, according to the former Notion of Necessity, it is necessary to Baptize, because our Lord hath commanded it in exprefs words.

And according to the Second, It is in like manner necessary to Baptise Infants, because we can prove their Baptism from the Scope, and Tenor of the Gospel, and from many Passages of it, as they are interpreted according to the practice of the Antient Primitive Church.

First, From the Scope and Tenor of the Gospel, which it is reasonable to presume, would extend the Subject of Baptism, as far as the Jewish Church extended the Subject both of Circumcision, and Baptism.

And Secondly, from many Passages in the Gospel, whereof I shall recite some. Except a Man be Born again of Water, and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God. John 3. 5. Suffer the little Children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of God. Mark 10. 14. The three noted places, which inform us, that the Apostles baptized whole Households, as of Stephanas 1 Cor. 1. 16. Lydia Acts 16. 15. and the Jayler Acts 16. 33. The Unbelieving Husband is Sanctified by the [BELIEVING] Wife, and the Unbelieving Wife is Sanctified by the [BELIEVING] Husband; else, were your Children [Common, or] Unclean, but now they are Holy, 1 Corinth. 7. 14. And were all Baptized unto Moses in the Cloud, and in the Sea. 1 Corinth. 10. 2.

The requisite necessity of Infant-Baptism, may be fairly concluded from these Texts.

For the First seems to make Purgation by Water, and the Spirit equally necessary for all: εαν μη τις, unless one beborn again, &c.

* Alioquin meminerat dominicæ definitionis nisi quis nascatur

From the * Second, it is reasonable to conclude, that little Children are capable of Profelytism, or entering into the Covenant after the Jewish manner, when they are brought unto it by others.

This he saith by way of Objection, which shews, that this Text was in his time understood for Infant-Baptism, but then because it was his present Opinion, that Cunctatio Baptismi præcipue circa parvulos was utilior, he answers, Veniant dum adulescunt, veniant dum discunt, dum quò veniant docentur.

And Secondly, Because || the Original words ελθειν προς, are the same with προσλθειν, from whence the Word Profelyte doth come.

From the Third, it is reasonable to conclude, That they Baptized the Children upon the Conversion of the Parents, after the Custome of the Jewish Church.

† From the Fourth, it is reasonable to believe, That the Fœderal Holiness of Believers Children makes them Candidates for Baptism, and gives them a right unto it.

And the Fifth makes it reasonable to conclude, from the Type to the Antitype, that if the Jews with their Children were umbratically Baptized unto Moses in the one, that Christians and their Infants should be really Baptized in the other.

I say, the requisite necessity of Infant-Baptism, might be fairly concluded from these Texts, without the Tradition of the Antient Church, though without it I confess, it could not be demonstrated from them, as the Doctrines of the Trinity, and the Deity of the Holy Ghost may be fairly, and sufficiently proved from those Texts, which the Orthodox bring for them, without Antient Tradition, though without it, they could not be demonstrated from them, because they do not assert it in express words.

But then, as those Texts in Conjunction with Tradition, do put those Doctrines out of all reasonable doubt: So do the other, which I have cited in Conjunction with the practice of the Antient Church, put the requisite necessity of Infant-Baptism out of Question, because the Church in the next Age unto the Apostles practised Infant-Baptism, as an Apostolical Tradition, and by consequence, as an Institution of Christ.

In like manner, as the Intrinsic Arguments taken from the Style, Sanctity, Dignity, and Efficacy of the Holy Scriptures, and the perpetual Analogy, and Conformity of the several Books contained in them, are by themselves but probable, and no demonstrative reasons, that all the Books contained in the Canon, and no other, are the Word of God, but in conjunction with the Testimony, and Authority of the Antient Catholick Church, amount to a Demonstration: So, though the Texts, which I have cited, are of themselves but probable Arguments for the requisite necessity of Infant-Baptism, yet in concurrence with such a Comment upon them, as the practice of the next Age unto the Apostles, and all Ages since, from one Generation to another, they amount to such a demonstration, as is called in Logick, Demonstratio ducens ad absurdum; and are a violent Presumption, that Children ought to be Baptized. I might run on the Parallel, as to the other Instances of Episcopal Government, the admitting of Women to the Communion, and the Observation of the Lord's day; and therefore let the Adversaries of Infant-Baptism consider well with themselves, Whether rejecting of it after a Concurrence of such Texts, and such a Tradition to establish it, they do not teach others, especially Atheists, pure Deists, and Sabbatizers; to which I may add Sceptics, Socinians, and Quakers, a way to deny all the rest.

Thus much I have said concerning the requisite necessity of Infant-Baptism, to shew that it is not lawful to seperate from a Church for appointing of Infants to be Baptized, when there are such cogent reasons arising from the concurrence of Scripture, and Antiquity to presume, that Infant-Baptism was an Apostolical Tradition, and an Institution of Christ. And I have designedly called it a requisite, to distinguish it from an absolute:

absolute necessity, lest the Reader should think, I were of St. Augustin's Opinion, who thought Baptism indispensably necessary to the Salvation of Infants, so that a Child dying unbaptized, through the carelessness, or Superstition of the Parents, or through their mistaken Belief of the unlawfulness of Infant-Baptism, were* infallibly damned.

No, I intended no such severe Conclusion, (because we ought not to tyè God to the same means, to which he hath tyed us) but only to shew that the Baptism of Young Children is antecedently necessary, and || in any wise to be retained in the Church, as being most agreeable with the Holy Scripture, the Apostolical Practice, and the Institution of Christ. And to set this way of arguing more home upon the Consciences of those, who Dissent from the Church upon the account of Infant-Baptism, I appeal unto them, Whether Scripture, and Antiquity, standing against Infant-Baptism in the same posture of evidence, that they now stand for it, it would not be unjustifiable for any sort of Men to separate from the Church, for not Baptizing Infants, as they do now for Baptizing of them.

on, Artic.

Let us suppose, for Example, That the Disciples of Christ, instead of rebuking those, that brought little Children unto him, had brought them to him themselves; and he had been much displeasèd at them for it, and said, I suffer not Little Children to come unto me, for the Kingdom of God is not of such: Let us put the case, That two Evangelists had recorded this supposed Story,
and

and accordingly we had been assured, by the Writers of the two next Ages to the Apostles, that then there was no Baptizing of Infants, and that the Apostles Baptized them not, and that there never was any Church in after Ages which did practice Infant-Baptism: Upon this Supposition, I appeal unto them, Whether it would not be highly unreasonable to separate from all the Churches in the World, for not allowing of Infant-Baptism against the Concurrence of such a Text, to the contrary, and the sense and practice of the Catholick Church.

The case, which I suppose one way, is the real case the other; only with this difference, that the supposed case would have but the benefit of one Text, whereas the real hath the benefit of many in Conjunction with Tradition; and therefore, seeing there are so many Texts, and such a Cloud of Witnesses for Infant-Baptism, Why should it not be looked upon as one of the common Notions of Christianity, like the Parallel Doctrines above-mentioned, though it be not commanded (especially when, as I have shewed there was no need of commanding of it) in express Words.

I know the Dissenters of all sorts, and especially those, for whose sake I am now writing, are bred up in great prejudice, and sinister Suspicions against Tradition, declaiming against it, as very uncertain, and against the use of it as very derogatory to the sufficiency of the Word of God. But as to the first part of their Objection against the certainty of Tradition, I desire them to take notice, that there is a certain, as well as an uncertain; an undoubted, as well as a doubted, a true, as well, as a pretended Tradition, as there are true, certain, and undoubted, as well as pretended, and uncertain Scriptures, and that there are sure ways whereby ingenious, and inquisitive Men, may satisfie themselves, which is one, and which is the other.

The way then to find out true and undoubted Tradition, as  Vincentius Lirinensis* teacheth, is to try it by these three Tests. Universality, Antiquity, and Consent.

 Advers.

First by Universality, if all the Churches, where-soever dispersed, or how different soever in their Languages, and Customs do believe, or practice such a Doctrine.

Secondly, Antiquity, If what all the Churches all the World over doth so believe or practise, was no innovation but Believed, and practised in the Ages next to the Apostles, when such Fathers governed the Churches; or such Famous Men lived in them, as knew the Apostles, and conversed with them, or lived near unto those, or with those Apostolical Men, who so knew them, or conversed with them, or lived near unto them.

Thirdly, Consent, If it appear that such a Doctrine was the consentient belief or practise of all the Fathers in those Ages, or of all except a very few, who had no proportion to the rest.

To which I will add, First, That this Tradition must be written, and not Orall. And Secondly, that it must be proved in every Age from Books that were written in it, and whose Authors, whether under their own, or under borrowed Names, had no interest to write so.

And therefore, though the Testimonies for Infant-Baptism in the Constitutions, going under the name of * Clemens Romanus, and the book of Ecclesiastical Hierarchy, bearing the name of || Dionysius the Arciopagite, are of no authority as to the first Century, when St. Clement, and St. Denis lived; yet they are most excellent authorities for the third, and fourth Century, when they were written, because they had no interest to write for Infant-Baptism. The like, I may say, of the Testimony which the ||| Ancient and Judicious Author of the Answers to the Orthodox concerning some Questions, gives of Infant-Baptism, it is of no authority as for the second Century, when Justin Martyr, whose name it bears, flourished, but being a disinterested writer, it is of excellent authority for the third; when it was written.

|| C. 7. Where arguing for Infant-Baptism he saith, of this we say the same things, which our Divine Ministers of Holy things Instructed by Divine Tradition brought down to us.

||| Quæst. & responf. 56. Where he saith, that there is this difference betwixt Baptized, and unbaptized Infants, that Baptized Infants enjoy the good things of Baptism, which those, that are not Baptized do not enjoy, and that they enjoy them by the Faith of those, who offer them to Baptism.

So much for the Test whereby to try certain, and undoubted from uncertain and doubted Tradition, and happy had it been for the Church of God, if all Writers at the beginning of the Reformation, had made this distinction, and not written so, as many of them have done, against all Tradition without any discrimination; whereas Tradition, as I have here stated it, is not only an harmless thing, but in many cases very useful and necessary for the Church. It was by Tradition in this sense, that the Catholics, or Orthodox defended themselves in the fourth Century against the Arians, and the Church of Africk against the Donatists, and the Protestants defend themselves, as to the Scripture-

Canon, and many other things against the Innovations of the Papists. And therefore, in answer to the Second part of their Objection against Tradition, as detracting from the Sufficiency of the Scriptures, I must remind them, that the Scriptures, whose sufficiency we admire, as well as they, cannot be proved to be the Word of God without Tradition, and that though they are sufficient, where they are understood to determine any Controversy, yet to the right understanding, and interpretation of them in many points, Tradition is as requisite, as the * practice of the Courts is to understand the Books of the Law.

praxi.*

This is so true, that the Anabaptists themselves cannot defend the Baptizing of such grown Persons, as were born, and bred in the Church merely from the Scriptures, in which the very Institution of Baptism hath a special regard unto Profelytes, who from Judaism, or Gentilism, would come over unto the Christian Faith. Accordingly they cannot produce one Precept, or Example for Baptizing of such as were born of Christian Parents in all the New Testament, but all the Baptized Persons we read of in it, were Jews, or Gentiles; and therefore they cannot defend themselves against the Quakers, [who for this, and other Reasons, have quite laid aside Baptism] without the Tradition, and Practice of the Church.

Quest. IV. Whether it be a Duty incumbent upon Christian Parents, to bring their Children unto Baptism?

To state this Question aright, I must proceed in the same order, that I did upon the last.

First, in arguing from the bare lawfulness, and allowableness of Infant-Baptism.

And Secondly, From the necessity thereof.

As to the lawfulness of it, I have already shewn upon the last Question, That there is no necessity of having a Command, or Example for to justify the practice of Infant-Initiation ; but it is sufficient, that it is not forbidden to make it lawful, and allowable under the Gospel. Nay, I have shewed upon the Second Question, that of the two, there is more reason that Christians should have had an express command to leave off, or lay down the practice of Infant-Initiation, because it was commanded by God in Infant-Circumcision, and approved by him in Infant-Baptism (which the Jewish Church added to Infant-Circumcision) under the Legal State. Commands are usually given for the beginning of the practice of something, which was never in practice before ; but to justify the continuation of an anciently instituted, or anciently received practice, it is sufficient, that the Power, which instituted, or approved it, do not countermand, or forbid it : and this, as I have shewn, being the case of Infants-Initiation, the Initiation of them by Baptism under the Gospel, must at least be lawful and allowable, and if it be so, then Parents, and Pro-parents are bound in Conscience to bring them unto Baptism in Obedience unto the Orders of the Church. For the Church is a Society of a People in Covenant with God, and in this Society, as in all others there are Superiors, and Inferiors, some that must order, and some that must observe Orders, some that must Command, and some that must Obey ; and therefore, if the Catholick Church, or any Member of it commands her Children to observe any lawful thing, they are bound by the Common-Laws of all Government, and by the Precepts in the Gospel, which regard Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, to observe her Commands. Obey them (saith the * Apostle) who have the Rule over you, and submit your selves unto them, for they

 * Act. 16. watch for your Souls. Accordingly we read that St. *
 4. Paul, as he went through the Grecian Cities delivered the Christians the Decrees, which the Apostles had made at Jerusalem, to keep; but I think, I need not spend more time in the Proof of a thing, which all Dissenters will grant me, for though they differ from us, as to the Subject of pure Ecclesiastical Power, yet they all agree, that there is such a Power, and that all lawful Commands proceeding from it, ought to be Obey'd.

Wherefore, if Infants are not uncapable of Baptismal Initiation, as is proved under the first Question; nor excluded from it by Christ, as is proved under the Second; but on the contrary, there are very good Reasons to presume, that Christ at least allowed them the benefit and honour of Baptism, as well as grown Persons: then the Ordinance of any Church to Baptize them must needs lay an Obligation of Obedience upon the Consciences of Parents, and Pro-parents, who live within the Pale of it, because the matter of that Ordinance is a thing not forbidden, but at least, allowed by Jesus Christ.

But because People, when they are once satisfied with the lawfulness, are wont, especially in Church-matters, to enquire into the expediency of their Superiors Commands; and to obey them with most Cheerfulness, and Satisfaction, when they know they have good reasons for what they ordain; therefore, least any one whom perhaps I may have convinced of the bare lawfulness of Infant-Baptism, should doubt of the expediency of it, and upon that account be less ready to comply, I will here proceed to justify the practice of the Church in this Particular; by shewing

First,

First, That Baptismal-Initiation is very beneficial and profitable for Infants.

And Secondly, That the Baptizing of them conduceth very much to the well-being and edification of the Church.

First then, Baptismal-Initiation is very beneficial and profitable for Infants, because they are capable of the Benefits, and Priviledges of Baptism.

This I shewed in general before, under the first Question, and now I will shew it in a more particular manner of Induction, by insisting upon the several Ends, for which Baptism was ordained.

First then Baptism was ordained, That the Baptized Person might be thereby solemnly consecrated unto God, and dedicated to his Service, and I hope I need not prove, that Children are capable of this benefit; since Jewish Infants were Consecrated to God by Circumcision; and the Scripture tells us, that * Sampson * Judges was a Nazarite from the Womb, and that Samuel from 13. 15. the time of his Weaning, was dedicated unto the Lord.

Secondly Baptism was ordained, That the Baptized Person might be made a Member of Christ's Mystical Body, which is the Holy Catholick Church. This is a great, and honourable Priviledge, and no Man can deny, but Infants are as capable of it under the New, as they were under the Old Testament. Nay, so far are they from being under any Natural Incapacity, as to Church-Membership, that they are ordinarily born free of Kingdoms, Cities, and Companies; and therefore, why any Man should think it not so proper for the Church-Christian to be as indulgent to them, as the Jewish Church was, and Civil Societies usually are, I profess I cannot tell.

Thirdly,

Thirdly it was ordained, That the Baptized Person might by that Solemnity pass from a State of Nature, wherein he was a Child of Wrath, into a State of Adoption or Grace, wherein he becomes a Child of God.

For by our First Birth we are all Children of Wrath.

But by our Second Birth in Baptism, we are made Children of God: And why it should be so improper for a Child to pass in this solemn manner from one Spiritual, as well, as from one Temporal State to another, or be Solemnly Adopted by God, as well as Man, or

Lastly, Why a Child may not be Adopted under the Gospel, as well, as under the Law? I am confident, those who are willing to defer the Baptism of Infants, would be puzzled to give any rational account.

In the Fourth place, Baptism was instituted for a Sign to Seal unto Baptized Persons the pardon of their Sins, and to confer upon them a Right of Inheritance unto Everlasting Life; but Baptism hath this effect upon Infants, as well as upon adult Persons, for it washes them clean from * Original, as it doth Men, and Women both from Actual and Original Sin. I say, it washes them clean from Original Sin, and seals the Pardon of it, and the assurance of God's favour unto them, and being cleansed by the washing of Regeneration from the guilt of that natural vitiosity which they derived from Adam, and which made them obnoxious to the displeasure of God; they become reconciled unto him, and acquire as certain a Right to Eternal Life, upon their justification, as any actual Believer in the Word. I cannot deny, but they may be saved without Baptism, by the extraordinary, and uncovenanted Mercies of God, and so may actual Believers, who die unbaptized, if they did not contemn Baptism; but then the hopes which we ought to have of Gods Mercy, in extraordinary Cases, ought not to make us less regardful of his sure, ordinary, and covenanted Mercies, and the appointed means, unto which they are annexed.

* De hoc etiam David dixisse

But in the Fifth place, Baptism was ordained, That being admitted into the Covenant, and ingrafted into Christ's Body, we might acquire a present Right unto all the Promises of the Gospel, and particularly unto the promises of the Spirit, which is so ready to assist Initiated Persons, that it will descend in its influences upon them at the time of their Initiation in such a manner, and measure, as they are capable thereof.

This the Primitive Christians found by experience to be so true, that they called Baptism, by the names of * Illumination, Grace, and Unction; and we need not doubt, but they talked, as they felt; and for this reason, they Baptized Infants, because they knew that they acquired a Right unto the same Spirit by Baptism, who would be sure to preside, and watch over them, and act upon their Souls according to the measure of their capacity, and prevent them in their very first doings with his Gracious Helps.

Wherefore, though it should be granted, that the Holy-Ghost cannot be actually conferred upon Infants in Baptism, by reason of their natural incapacity (as Anabaptists rashly assert) yet the Baptizing of them is not frustraneous, as to this great End of Baptism, because they thereby acquire an actual Antecedent Right to the Assistances, and Illuminations of the Holy Spirit, which they shall receive, as soon, and as fast, as their natural incapacity removes.

This distinction betwixt having the Spirit, and having a Right unto the Spirit, holds not only in Infant-Baptism, but in the Baptism of Hypocrites, and Secret Sinners, who by submitting unto the Ordinance of Baptism acquire an actual Antecedent Right unto the Spirit, although they are in a moral incapacity of receiving the Graces of it, till their Hypocrisy is removed. Nevertheless, their Baptism is not ineffectual as to this End, but is a means of conferring the Holy-Ghost upon them without re-Baptization, because though they cannot receive it at the moment of their Baptism, by reason of their Hypocrisie, as sincere Penitents do, in whom there is no such Moral Impediment; yet by virtue of it, they will be sure to receive it afterwards, as soon, as they shall in any degree become capable thereof.

Those are the Blessings, and Benefits, consequent upon Baptism by God's appointment, of which Infants are as capable, as actual Believers, and let any Impartial Man judge, Whether it is more for their benefit, that this manifold capacity in them should be actually answered by the timely Administration of Baptism, or that it should lay void and unsatisfied, till they came to years of Discretion? Which is best for a Child that hath the Evil, to be Touched for it, while he is a Child, or to wait till he is of sufficient Age to be sensible of the Benefit? Or to make one Comparison more, which would be best for a Traytors Child, to be presently restored to his Blood, and Estate, and his Princes Favour, or to be kept in a meer capacity of being restored till he was a Man?

But besides these Benefits which are consequent upon Baptism by God's appointment, there is another no less profitable to young Children, which will justify the practice of Infant-initiation, and that is to have such an early pre-engagement laid upon them, which without the highest Baseness and Ingratitude, they cannot afterwards retract. No Person of common Ingenuity, who hath any sence of honour, or any tolerable degree of Conscience within him, can without shame and horreur break those Sacred Bonds asunder, by which he was bound to God, in his Infancy, when he comes to Years of understanding; but on the contrary, will think himself in Honour, and Gratitude, bound to own, and stand to the Obligation, which he then contracted, when he was graciously admitted to so many Blessings and Privileges, before he could do any thing himself towards the obtaining of them, or understand his own good. It would argue a Person to be of a very ill nature, and untoward Disposition to break such solemn Fœderal Vows, and therefore, we see that Children generally do readily take upon themselves their Baptismal Obligations, when they come to the use of reason, whereas werethey left alone, to their own Freedom, when they would be Baptized, they would be apt to put it off from time to time, through the averfness that the corrupt nature of Man hath to such strict, and Spiritual Engagements, and in such a State of Liberty, as this, Men would need, as many, and as earnest Exhortations unto Baptism, as unto the Lord's Supper; and in such an Age, as ours is at least, reluct as much to come unto that, as we see by experience they do unto this. Wherefore, upon Supposition that Christ doth but allow Children to be brought unto him in Baptism, The Wisdom of the Church is highly to be applauded for bringing them under such an early, and beneficial pre-engagement, and not leaving them to their own liberty at such years, when Flesh, and Blood, would be apt to find out so many Shifts, and Excuses, and make them regret to be Baptized.

And therefore in the Second place, as the Baptism of Infants is very Beneficial, and profitable unto them: So it conduceth very much to the well-being, and edification of the Church, in preventing those Scandalous and Shameful delays of Baptism, which grown Persons otherwise would be apt to make, putting of it off till the time of some great sickness, as many were wont to do in the third and fourth Century, when being not Baptized in their Infancy, they did ordinarily receive Baptism, as Papists now receive extream Uction, when they were ready to expire.

For, as it is usual now for Persons to defer the receiving of the Lord's Supper, for fear of Damnation, mistaking the Apostle, where he saith, He that Eateth and Drinketh unworthily, Eateth, and Drinketh Damnation to himself: So in those ages it was usual for Persons to defer their own, and their Childrens Baptism out of a * kind of Novatian Principle, for fear that if they fell into Sin after Baptism there would be no place for Repentance, mistaking that place of the Apostle, where 'tis said, that if they, who were once enlightened [i.e. Baptized] fall away, it is impossible to renew them again unto Repentance.

that

Now the Baptizing of Children being deferred by their Parents out of this Superstitious fear, they, when they came to be Men and Women, put the doing of it off for several Reasons, and Pretences, which we learn out of the Writers of those times.

Some deferred it out of Worldly Love, and a Carnal loathness to renounce their sinful Pleasures, and take upon them the Yoke of Christ. Some put it off pretending want of leisure through multitude of worldly business; others out of laziness, and careless negligence. Others were wont to plead the insufficiency of their knowledge, others the inconveniency of the present time; others would not be Baptized, but at such a time, or in such a place, as such a City, or such a River, or by such a Person, or in such a Company. Some would put it off upon a pretence of not having such, or such Relations present, others would decline it upon the account of some small Expences, that attended it; others because they relucted to confess their Sins, others because they favoured not the Doctrine of the Holy-Trinity, or to comply with the Arians; some because they would imitate the Example of Christ, who was not Baptized till the 30th. Year of his Age, and some out of fear of Persecution.

This happened formerly to the great shame, and dishonour, of the Christian Religion, though the * * Gregor. Nazianz. Greg. Nyss. and St. Basil. Fathers sharply and vehemently Wrote, and Preached against it; and therefore, upon supposition of the bare lawfulness, or indifferency of Infant-Baptism, I cannot but approve the Wisdom, and Prudence of those Churches, which appoint it, because the practice of it doth prevent such shameful, and scandalous Neglects of Baptism, which to the great prejudice of Christianity; as Experience hath taught us, would otherwise arise in the Church.

Thus much upon enquiry into the lawfulness, and expediency of Infant-Baptism, to shew Christian Parents what an indispensable Obligation lies upon their Consciences to bring their Children to be Baptized in Obedience to the Church, which hath appointed Infant-Baptism; but then if Infant-Baptism be not only necessary because the Church hath appointed it, but the Church hath appointed it because it is necessary; and in any wise to be retained, then this antecedent sort of necessity doth yet lay a stronger Obligation upon the Consciences of Parents to initiate their Children as being most agreeable to the practice of the Apostles, and the Intention, and Will of Christ.

First, As being most agreeable to the practice of the Apostles, who it is highly to be presumed, authorized the practice of Infant-Baptism, because, it was practised in the next Age unto them.

And Secondly, As being most agreeable to the Intention, and Will of Christ, who it is to be presumed, would have forbidden, and countermanded the Jewish practice of initiating Infants, if he had not had a mind they should be Baptized.

Wherefore * his very not repealing of that practice is a sufficient Demonstration, that it was his pleasure it should be continued; it was the practice of the Jewish Church before he came, and the practice of the Church Christian not long after he departed, and we find the practice of it in the one harmoniously answering to the practice of it in the other; and therefore what was before, and what was after his time, we may well presume, was continued in the interim during the time of the Apostles, as his presumed Will and Intention, who never did, or spoke any thing, that can reasonably be interpreted, that he would have the Jewish custom of admitting Infants into the Church, laid aside, and therefore, his silence, and the silence of the Scriptures, are so far from being Arguments against Infant-Baptism, that considering the Antecedent usage of it, they are very strong Presumptions for it, as the Learned Author in the Margent doth excellently prove.

Si prodiret jam editum regale in hæc verba: Recipiat se unusquisque die dominico ad publicum conventum in Ecclesiâ, insaniet certè ille, quicumque olim hinc argueret non celebrandas esse die dominico in publicis conventibus preces, coniones, Psalmos, eo quod nulla in edito de iis mentio. Silentium ergo ejus & Scripturæ pædo-baptismum firmat, & propagat. Lightfoot Hæc Hebraicè in Matth. 3. 6.

To this purpose also, have I discoursed above, upon the Second and Third Questions; and therefore if Christ in the Reformation of the Church, from the Law into the Gospel, did not repeal the Antient practice of Infant-Baptism, but left Baptism to be administered in the same Latitude, as before his time, then it must needs be concluded, that there lies the same Obligation upon Parents (abstracting from the Commands of the the Church) to desire Baptism for their Children, as for grown Profelytes to desire it for themselves.

For what authority soever enacts any thing concerning Children, or Persons under the years of discretion, doth lay at least an implicate Obligation upon Parents, and Pro-parents to see that act be performed. As if for Example, an Act of Parliament should be made, that all Persons, whatsoever, Men, Women, and Children, should pay so much an Head unto the King, the Act, by the nature of it, would oblige Parents, and Pro-parents, to pay for their Children, and the Minors in their custody, as well, as for themselves. Or, if in the time of a general Contagion, the Supream Power should command, that all Men, Women, and Children, should every Morning take such an Antidote, that Command would oblige Parents to give it unto their Children, as well, as to take it themselves. Just so the Ordinance of Baptism being intended, or instituted by our Saviour in its ancient Latitude for Children, as well, as grown Persons, it must needs lay an Obligation upon Parents, and Pro-parents to bring them to the Holy Sacrament, otherwise the Divine Institution would in part be made void, and frustrated of the Ends for which it was instituted, as if it did not also lay an Obligation upon Adult Persons to offer themselves unto the Holy Sacrament, it would be of no force at all.

To sum up all in short. When our Lord first appointed Baptism, and afterwards said, Go, and Profelyte all Nations Baptizing them, &c. either he intended that Children should be Baptized, as well as Grown Profelytes, or he did not; if he did not intend they should be Baptized, Why did he not plainly discover that Intention? Nay, Why did he not plainly forbid them to be Baptized, as they were wont to be, but if he

he intended they should be Baptized according to the ancient custom, then, according to the ancient custom in the Jewish Church, Parents are as much bound to offer them unto Baptism, as Adult Believers, Men and Women, are bound to offer themselves.

What I have here said about the Obligation, which lies upon Parents to bring their Children unto Baptism, concerns all Pro-parents to whose care Children are committed, as Guardians, Tutors, and Church-Wardens; and lest any should ask, as some Sceptically do, at What time they are bound to bring them unto Baptism? As soon, as they are born, or the next day after, or when? I answer, by shewing the impertinency of that Question, in reference to Grown Believers thus: When must a Believing Man, or Woman be Baptized? As soon as he Believes, or the next day after, or when? And truly the Answer is the same to both Questions, at any time, the Gospel indulging a discretionary Latitude in both Cases, and only forbidding the wilful neglect of the Ordinance, and all unreasonable, and needless delays thereof.

Quest. V. Whether it is lawful to Communicate with Believers, who were only Baptized in their Infancy?

The stating of this, depends upon what I have said upon the Second, and Third Questions, to prove, That Infants are capable Subjects of Baptism, and that it is lawful to Baptize them; and if I have not erred, as I hope I have not, in those two Determinations, then the Baptism of Infants is lawful, and valid, and if the Baptism of them be lawful, and valid; then it cannot be unlawful to Communicate with them, when they come to be Men, and Women.

Accordingly,

Accordingly, it never entered into the Heart of any of the ancient Christians to refuse Communion with Grown Believers, who had been Baptized in their Infancy, whether they were Baptized in perfect health, as Children most commonly were, or only in danger of Death, as the Children of those Novatian kind of Parents above mentioned always were, who were so far from thinking Infant-Baptism a Nullity, or Corruption of Baptism, that they thought it necessary for them in case of apparent danger, and durst not let them die un-baptized.

Some others deferred the Baptizing of their Children, because they thought them too weak to endure the Severities of the Trine immersion, and others, perhaps, according to the private Opinion of * Tertullian, and || Nazianzen, thought it more convenient to delay the Baptizing of them till they were capable of being Catechized between Three, and Four years old, but still this delay of Baptism supposed their continuing in health, but in case of danger they thought it † necessary to Baptize them, and if they survived the danger, looked upon them as lawfully, and validly Baptized,

* De Baptismo. c. 18

These were all the Pleas we read of for deferring the Baptism of Infants among the Ancients, who never urged this for one, that Infant-Baptism was unlawful, or invalid. No, They never argued against it from the want of those pre-requisite Conditions in Children, which Christ, and the Apostles required in Adult Profelytes, nor from the want of Precept, and Example for it in the New Testament, but so understood the Scriptures, as to think it as lawful, and warrantable as the Baptism of Grown Believers, and necessary in case of danger; and just so did those, who deferred their Baptism, for fear of sinning after it, think the Baptism of Men and Women only necessary at the last extremity in apparent danger of Death.

But then if the ordinary practice of Infant-Baptism be not only lawful, and valid, but also necessary, as appearing most agreeable to the presumed Will of Christ, who did not countermand the practice of it, and most conformable to the practice of the Apostles, as can be proved from the practice of the very next Age unto them; then it must not only be lawful to Communicate with Believers, who were Baptized in their Infancy, but an exceeding great Sin, and Presumption to refuse Communion with them upon that account.

In a word, If Infant-Baptism be not only lawful, but necessary, what a grievous, and provoking Sin, must it needs be, to disown those for Members of Christ's Body, whom he owns to be such? but if it be neither, as Anabaptists vanelly pretend, then there hath not been a true Church upon the Face of the Earth, for Eleven hundred Years, nor a Church, for above Fifteen hundred, with which a true Christian could Communicate without Sin.

This is a very absurd, and dreadful consequence, and inconsistent with the purity of the Apostolical Ages, while the Church was so full of Saints, Martyrs, and Miracles, and represented as * Symmetral by the Spirit of God under the Symbol of Measuring the Temple of God, and the Altar. Revel. 11. 1, 2.

The CONCLUSION.

Although in the management of this Controversy against the Anabaptists, I have endeavoured so to state the Case of Infant-Baptism, as to obviate, or answer all the Considerable Pleas, and Material Objections, which they are wont to make against it; yet there are two of their Objections, of which I have yet taken no notice, thinking it better, that I might avoid tediousness, and confusion in determining upon the preceding Questions, to Propose, and Answer them apart by themselves.

The First of these two, is the ancient Custom of giving the Communion unto Infants, which they endeavour with all their Art, and Skill to run Parallel with the practice of Infant-Baptism, although there is not the like Evidence, nor the like Reason for the practice of that, as there is for the practice of this.

First, There is not the like Evidence for the practice of it, St. * Cyprian being the first Author, which they can produce for it, and after him the || Author of the Book of the Ecclesiastical Hierarchy, and † Cyril of Jerusalem, are the next, who make mention of it towards the latter end of the Fourth Century, and then St.  Augustin in the Fifth; who indeed speaks frequently of it, as of the practice of the Church in that Age.

Nonne illi cum iudicii dies venerit, dicent: Nos nihil fecimus, nec derelicto cibo, ac poculo domini ad profana contagia sponte properavimus. Afterwards he tells a Story of a little Girl, who having been carried to the Idol-Feasts, was afterwards brought by her Mother, who knew nothing of it, to the Communion, when he administered it, and when the Deacon brought the Cup to her, she turned away her Face from it, but the Deacon pouring some of the Wine into her Mouth, she fell into Convulsions, and Vomiting, which the Holy Father looking upon, as a Miracle, did thereupon discover, that she had been polluted at the Idol-Feasts. These are all the Authorities for Infant-Communion, that I know of, till St. Augustin's time, whereas besides the authority of St. Cyprian, which is the first they have for Communicating Infants, we have the authority of a whole Council of Fathers, in which he presided, and of Origen, Tertullian, and Irenæus, who was the Scholar of St. Polycarp, and the Grand-Scholar of St. John.

And then, whereas among the Writers of the 4th. Century, there are but the two above-cited, who make mention of Infant-Communion, we have St. * Hierom, St. Ambrose, St. Chrysostome, St. Athanasius,

* See them all cited at large in walker's Plea for Infant-Baptism, from p. 266. to p.

Gregory Nazianzen, and the third Council of Carthage, who all speak of Infant-Baptism, as of a thing generally practised, and most of them, as of a thing, which ought to be practised in the Church.

Furthermore, none of the four Testimonies for Infant-Communion, speak of it, as of an Apostolical Tradition, as Origen doth of Infant-Baptism, not to mention that the Pelagians, never owned the necessity of Infant Communion, as they did of Infant-Baptism: All which things considered, shew that there is nothing near the like Evidence in Antiquity for the practice of the one, as there is for that of the other.

And as there is not the like evidence for the constant, successive, and general practice of Infant-Communion, that there is for Infant-Baptism: So there is not the like Reason for the practice of it.

First, because Baptism is the Sacrament, or Mystery of Initiation, of which Persons of all Ages are capable, it being instituted chiefly for an initiatory Sign to solemnize the admission of the Baptized Person into the Church, and to Seal all the Blessings of the Gospel unto him, as a Member of Christ. This is the Substance, or Chief end of Baptism; which, as I have shewed upon the Second, and Fourth Questions, is equally answered in the Baptism of Children, as well as of professing Believers; Confession of Faith, as well as Confession of Sins, being but accidental Circumstantials, which are necessary with respect to the State of the Person to be Baptized, but not to Baptism it self. But on the contrary, the Holy Eucharist, or Communion, is the Sacrament of Perfection, and Consummation in the Christian Religion, being primarily, and chiefly instituted for a Sacrificial Feast in remembrance of Christ's Death, and Passion, which being

being an act of great Knowledge and Piety, Children are not capable to perform.

But Secondly, There is not the like Reason for Baptizing, and Communicating Infants, because that is grounded upon the authority of many Texts of Scripture, which without the Concurrence of Tradition are fairly, and genuinely interpretable for it; but this is grounded only upon one Text [John 6. 53. Except ye eat the Flesh of the Son of Man, and drink his Blood ye have no life in you] which it is doubtful whether it is to be understood of the Holy Eucharist, or no, because it cannot be understood of it but in a proleptical sence, the Lord's Supper having not been yet instituted by him; or if it be to be so understood, yet the sence of it ought to be regulated by the Chief end of its Institution contained in those words of our blessed Saviour, do this in remembrance of me, and this do ye, as oft, as ye drink it in remembrance of me. Wherefore though this Text were literally to be understood of the Holy Eucharist, as St. Augustin first interprets it, yet it ought not to be strained to Infant-Communion, because Infants cannot partake of the Holy Banquet in remembrance of Christ. And therefore though the Custom of Communicating Infants prevailed by Degrees in some Ages of the Church, yet the Western Churches discerning the mistake upon which it was grounded, have long since laid it aside, though they still continue the practice of Infant-Baptism, as fully answering the Chief end of Baptism, and as being founded upon more, and clearer Texts of Scriptures, and a much more noble Tradition, than Infant-Communion is.

But Thirdly, There is not the like reason for Baptizing, and Communicating Infants, because the Correspondent practice of the Jewish Church in Infant-Circumcision, and Infant-Baptism, answered as a Pattern unto that under the Law, but there was nothing of a Pattern under it, which answered so to Infant-Communion, because a Child never pertook of the *

 * Exod. 12. 26, 27. Passeover, before he was old enough to take his Father by the hand, and to go up from the Gates of Jerusalem unto the Mount of the Temple, and to enquire about the meaning of the Service, and was capable of understanding the nature of it, as it was done in remembrance of their Deliverance out of Egypt.

And in like manner when the Children of Christians are old enough to be instructed in the nature of the Holy Communion, and to understand that, then they may partake of it, be it as soon, as it will, if they are Baptized and Confirmed; though it is true, that Christian Children are usually much older, then the Jewish were, before they Communicate, which is merely accidental, because it requires a riper reason to understand the Mystery of the Holy Eucharist, which is done in remembrance of our Spiritual Deliverance by the Sacrifice of Christ, both God and Man, upon the Cross, then to understand the plain and easie meaning of the Passeover, which was annually kept in remembrance of the Temporal Deliverance of the Jews.

But to speak yet more fully of Infant-Communion, the practice of it is so far from prejudicing the Cause of Infant-Baptism, that it mightily confirms it, because none were, or could be admitted to partake of the Holy Communion, till they were validly * Baptized, and therefore the practice of Infant-Communion is a most emphatical Declaration, that all the Churches, wherein it ever was, or || still is practised, were of Opinion that the Baptism of Infants was a lawful, and valid, as that of professing Believers can be.

* Theodoret. Therapeut. Serm. 2.
 Ἀτέλεστος, ἢ τῶν θείων μυστηρίων ἀμύνητος.
 || As in the Greek, Russian, and Abyssin Churches, and among the Christians of St. Thomas in the Indies.

As for the Original of this custom it, is not known when it began, probably it came in by degrees from the ancient, and laudable custom of administering the Lord's Supper to grown Persons presently after their Baptism; and if so many of the ancient Churches were so tender towards Infants, as to bring them to the Communion, rather then deprive them of the least shadow of right, what shall be said in excuse of those uncharitable Men, who will rather destroy all the Churches in the World, then bring their Children unto Baptism, of which they are capable, and to which they have a Right so highly probable, if not certain, and infallible, as I have proved above?

The Second Objection against Infant-Baptism, which I took no notice of, but reserved for this place, is taken from their incapacity to engage themselves in Covenant unto God. For, say these Men, all who enter into Covenant, and receive the Seal of the Covenant, must contract, and stipulate for their parts, as well as God doth for his, and therefore St. Peter saith, That the Baptism which saveth us, must have the answer, or restipulation of a good Conscience towards God. 1 Ep. 3. 21. But how can Infants restipulate, or what Conscience can be in them, who have not the use of reason, nor are capable of knowing what the Covenant means?

To this Objection, I answer as formerly, That it is as strong against Infant-Circumcision, as Infant-Baptism; for the Infants of the Jews were admitted as effectually into the Covenant, and had it as really sealed unto them, and were as strongly tyed to perform the Conditions of it, when they came to years of understanding, as if they had been Circumcised then, and at their Circumcision had personally, and expressly indentured with God.

Wherefore

Wherefore the same answer, which will serve to justify Infant-Circumcision will justify Infant-Baptism, which succeeds in the place of it, and it is this: That God of his goodness towards Infants was pleased to seal the Covenant of Grace unto Infants upon an implicite, and imputative sort of Stipulation, which at years of understanding they were bound to own by openly professing the Jewish Religion, or if they then renounced it, thereupon they became Strangers to the Covenant, which in such cases was as void, as if it had never been made. An implicit Stipulation was sufficient for the Children of Believers, though an open Profession, and Stipulation was required of Grown Profelytes, which shews, that Circumcision was an institution of Latitude, and that personal, and express Restipulation was not a general pre-requisite condition to Circumcision, but only to some Persons to be Circumcised.

In like manner Baptism being an institution of Latitude, ordained for Persons under, as well as at the years of discretion, personal and express Stipulation is only required of the former; and therefore St. Peter in the Text above cited likely had respect not to all Baptism, or Baptism in general, but only to the Baptism of Adult Profelytes, whom the Minister used to mo calls

* interrogate at the time of Baptism, much after the same manner, as we interrogate Adult Profelytes now.

And in St. Cyprian we often read of the interrogation in Baptism.

Wherefore, this Objection like the rest which the Anabaptists make, runs upon this presumption, that Baptism is a strict institution, and that personal and express answering or Restipulation is a pre-requisite condition condition to all Baptism, whereas it is only a personal qualification required of Majors, or Adult Persons, when they come to be Baptized.

But as for Children, Baptism may be administred unto them upon an implicate, and imputative sort of Restipulation, as Circumcision was to the Jewish, and Baptism now is to agonizing Christian Infants, or else it may be administred unto them as Baptism formerly was among the Jews to the Infants, and Minors of Profelytes upon a vicarious Restipulation by their Sponsors, which seems to have been translated together with the use of Baptism from the Jewish Church. It is certain, that * Tertullian makes mention of Spon- * De Bap-cited, might also probably allude to all Baptism, becaus- etiam pe-

Selden de Synedriis. Lib. 1. c. 3. And what is here said of the CONSISTORY among the Jews, concerning the Baptism of Infants, and Minors, St. Augustine saith of the Church among Christians, accommodat illis mater Ecclesia allorum pedes ut veniant, allorum cor, ut credant, allorum linguam ut fateantur.

Nay, there is little reason to doubt, but that the Jewish being the Pattern of the Christian Baptism, the Apostles, and their Assistants who were Jews, or He-lenists, did observe this Custom of Vicarious Stipu-lation at the Baptism of Infants, and Minors, as well as all the other Particulars, in which they resemble one another, as the Picture doth the Face, whose Picture it is.

As for Example, the Jewish Baptism was administred to Women, as well as Men, and so is the Christian.

Secondly, It was never reiterated nor repeated, no more is the Christian.

Thirdly, It was called Regeneration, and a New Birth, and Baptized Persons were said to be born again and Regenerated, which also holds in Christian Baptism.

Fourthly, Baptized Profelytes among the Jews were bound to leave their nearest Relations, if it were necessary, and adhere to the Church, and so are Baptized Christian Profelytes bound to do the same.

Fifthly, The Infants of Profelytes were Baptized among the Jews, as well as the Profelytes themselves, and so have I proved, that Infants have been always Baptized among the Christians.

And therefore in the Last place, Since the Jewish Church Baptized Infants upon Vicarious Stipulation, why should not we think it sufficient for their entrance into the Covenant, and that the Apostles did so too?

These things, and whatsoever else is written in this little Tract, I hope will be fairly, and candidly considered by the Dissenters among us upon the account of Infant-Baptism. I say, the truth in Christ, I lye not, my Conscience also bearing me Witness in the Holy Ghost, who is the Searcher of Hearts, that I have great heaviness, and almost continual sorrow in my heart for them, and that to reconcile them to the Church,

Church. I could wish in the Apostles Sence, that I my self were an Anathema from Christ. And because it is a Disease too common among Dissenters, and more especially among those, with whom I have been a dealing, to have minds full of Prejudice, Prepossession, and sinister Suspitions against what we Speak, or Preach, or Write, I have here subjoined a Letter of that Famous Martyr of Jesus Christ Mr. John Philpot, concerning Infant-Baptism, which I seriously recommend to their Impartial, and diligent perusal, hoping that the same Arguments, which may perhaps have less effect upon them as they come from me, may be better received, and make deeper impression upon their Souls as they come from him, who like the Primitive Martyrs, was Blessed with Heavenly Visions, and chearfully suffered for his Redeemer, who had suffered for him, and thanked God when the time was come, that he was to seal the truth of the Protestant Religion with his Blood.

THE God of all Light and Understanding lighten your Heart with all true Knowledge of his Word, and make you perfect to the day of our Lord Jesus Christ, whereunto you are now called, through the mighty operation of his Holy Spirit, Amen.

I received Yesternight from you, (Dear Brother S. and Fellow-Prisoner for the truth for Christ's Gospel)
a Letter, wherein you gently require my Judgment, concerning the Baptism of Infants, which is the effect thereof. And before I do shew you what I have learned out of God's Word, and of his true Infallible Church, touching the same, I think it not out of the matter, first to declare what Vision I had the same Night whilst musing on your Letter I fell asleep, knowing that God doth not without cause reveal to his People who have their Minds fixed on him, Special and Spiritual Revelations to their Comfort, as a taste of their Joy and Kingdom to come, which Flesh and Blood cannot comprehend.

Being

Being in the midst of my sweet rest, it seemed to me to see a great beautiful City all of the colour of Azure, and white, four square in a marvellous beautiful composition in the midst of the Skie, the sight whereof so inwardly comforted me, that I am not able to express the consolation I had thereof, yea, the remembrance thereof causeth my Heart as yet to leap for Joy: And as Charity is no Churle, but would others to be Partakers of his delight, so methought I called to others, (I cannot tell whom) and whilst they came and we together beheld the same, by and by to my great Grief it vaded away.

This Dream I think not to have come of the illusion of the Senses, because it brought with it so much Spiritual Joy, and I take it to be of the working of God's Spirit for the contentation of your Request, as he wrought in Peter to satisfie Cornelius. Therefore Interpret this Beautiful City to be the Glorious Church of Christ, and the appearance of it in the Skie, signifieth the Heavenly State thereof, whose Conversation is in Heaven, and that according to the Primitive Church, which is now in Heaven, Men ought to measure and judge the Church of Christ now in Earth; for as the Prophet David saith, The Foundations thereof be in the Holy Hills, and glorious things be spoken of the City of God. And the marvellous quadrature of the same, I take to signifie the universal agreement in the same, and that all the Church here Militant ought to consent to the Primitive Church throughout the four Parts of the World, as the Prophet affirmeth, saying; God maketh us to dwell after one manner in one House. And that I conceived so wonderful Joy at the Contemplation thereof, I understand the unspeakable Joy which they have that be at Unity with Christ's Primitive Church: For there is Joy in the Holy Ghost, and Peace, which passeth passethall Understanding, as it is written in the Psalms ; As of Joyful Persons is the dwelling of all them that be in thee. And that I called others to the fruition of this Vision, and to behold this wonderful City, I construe it by the Will of God this Vision to have come upon me, musing on your Letter, to the end, that under this Figure I might have occasion to move you with many others, to behold the Primitive Church in all your Opinions concerning Faith, and to conform your self in all points to the same, which is the Pillar and Establishment of truth, and teacheth the true use of the Sacraments, and having with a greater fulness than we have now, the first fruits of the Holy Ghost, did declare the true Interpretation of the Scriptures according to all verity, even as our Saviour promised to send them another Comforter, which should teach them all truth.

And since all truth was taught and revealed to the Primitive Church, which is our Mother, let us all that be obedient Children of God, submit our selves to the judgment of the Church for the better understanding of the Articles of our Faith, and of the doubtful Sentences of the Scripture. Let us not go about to shew in us, by following any private Man's Interpretation upon the Word, another Spirit than they of the Primitive Church had, lest we deceive our selves. For there is but one Faith and one Spirit, which is not contrary to himself, neither otherwise now teacheth us than he did them. Therefore let us believe as they have taught us of the Scriptures, and beat peace with them, according as the true Catholick Church is at this day : And the God of Peace assuredly will be with us, and deliver us out of all our Worldly Troubles and Miseries, and make us Partakers of their Joy and Bliss, through our Obedience to Faith with them.

Therefore

Therefore God commandeth us in Job, to ask of the Elder Generation; and to search diligently the memory of the Fathers. For we are but Yesterdays Job. 8. Children, and be ignorant; and our days are like a Shadow, and they shall teach thee (saith the Lord) and speak to thee, and shall utter words from their Hearts. And by Salomon we are commanded, not to Prov. 6. reject the direction of our Mother. The Lord grant you to direct your steps in all things after her, and to abhor contention with her. For as St. Paul writeth; If any Man be contentious, neither we, neither the Church of God hath any such custom. I Cor. 11.

Hitherto I have shewed you (good Brother S.) my Judgment generally of that you stand in doubt and dissent from others, to the which I wish you as mine own Heart to be conformable, and then doubtless you cannot err, but boldly may be glad in your Troubles, and Triumph at the hour of your Death, that you shall die in the Church of God a Faithful Martyr, and receive the Crown of Eternal Glory. And thus much have I written upon the occasion of a Vision before God unfeigned. But that you may not think that I go about to satisfie you with uncertain Visions only, and not after God's Word, I will take the ground of your Letter, and specially answer to the same by the Scriptures and by infallible reasons deduced out of the same, and prove the Baptism of Infants to be lawful, commendable, and necessary, whereof you seem to stand in doubt.

Indeed if you look upon the Papistical Synagogue only, which hath corrupted God's Word by false Interpretations, and hath perverted the true use of Christ's Sacraments, you might seem to have good handfast of your Opinion against the Baptism of Infants. But forasmuch as it is of more Antiquity, and hath his beginning ginning from God's Word, and from the use of the Primitive Church, it must not in respect of the abuse in the Popish Church be neglected, or thought not expedient to be used in Christ's Church. Auxentius one of the Arians Sect, with his Adherents, was one of the first that denied the Baptism of Children, and next after him Pelagius the Heretick, and some other there were in St. Bernard's time, as it doth appear by his Writings; and in our days the Anabaptists, and Inordinate kind of Men stirred up by the Devil, to the destruction of the Gospel. But the Catholick truth delivered unto us by the Scriptures, plainly determineth, that all such are to be Baptized, as whom God acknowledgeth for his People, and vouchsafeth them worthy of Sanctification or Remission of their Sins. Therefore since that Infants be in the number or scroll of God's People, and be Partakers of the Promise by their Purification in Christ, it must needs follow thereby, that they ought to be Baptized as well as those that can Profess their Faith. For we judge the People of GOD as well by the free and liberal Promise of God, as by the Confession of Faith. For to whomsoever God promiseth himself to be their God; and whom he acknowledgeth for his, those no Man without great Impiety may exclude from the number of the Faithful. But God promiseth, that he will not only be the God of such as do profess him, but also of Infants, promising them his Grace and Remission of Sins, as it appeareth by the words of the Covenant made unto Abraham. I will set my Covenant between thee and me (saith the Lord) and between thy Seed after thee in their Generations; with an everlasting Covenant, to be thy God, and the God of thy Seed after thee. To the which Covenant Circumcision was added to be a sign of Sanctification as well in Children as in Men; and no Man may may think that this Promise is abrogated with Circumcision and other Ceremonial Laws. For Christ came to fulfil the Promises, and not to dissolve them. Therefore in the Gospel he saith of Infants, that is, of such as yet believed not; Let the little Ones come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. Again, It is not the Will of your Father which is in Heaven, that any of these little Ones do perish. Also, He that receiveth one such little Child in my Name, receiveth me. Take heed therefore that ye despise not one of these Babes, for I tell you, their Angels do continually see in Heaven my Fathers Face. And what may be said more plainer than this; It is not the Will of the Heavenly Father, that the Infants should perish? Whereby we may gather that he receiveth them freely unto his Grace, although as yet they confess not their Faith. Since then that the Word of the Promise, which is contained in Baptism, pertaineth as well to Children as to Men, why should the sign of the Promise, which is Baptism in Water, be withdrawn from Children, when Christ himself commandeth them to be received of us, and promiseth the Reward of a Prophet to those that receive such a little Infant, as he for an Example did put before his Disciples?

Now will I prove with manifest Arguments, that Children ought to be Baptized, and that the Apostles of Christ did Baptize Children. The Lord commanded his Apostles to Baptize all Nations; therefore also Children ought to be Baptized, for they are comprehended under this Word, All Nations.

Further, whom God doth account among the faithful, they are faithful, for it was said to Peter, That thing which God hath purified, thou shalt not say to be common or unclean. But GOD doth repute Children among the Faithful: Ergo, they be faithful, except we had rather to resist God, and seem stronger and wiser than he.

1 Cor. 1. And without all doubt the Apostles Baptized those which Christ commanded : But he commanded the Faithful to be Baptized, among the which Infants be reckoned : The Apostles then Baptized Infants.

1 Cor. 1. The Gospel is more than Baptism, for Paul said; The Lord sent me to Preach the Gospel, and not to Baptize: Not that he denied absolutely that he was sent to Baptize, but that he preferred Doctrine before Baptism, for the Lord commanded both to the Apostles: but Children be received by the Doctrine of the Gospel of God, and not refused : Therefore what Person being of reason may deny them Baptism, which is a thing lesser than the Gospel ? For in the Sacraments be two things to be considered, the thing signified, and the Sign, and thing signified is greater than the Sign, and from the thing signified in Baptism, Children are not excluded ; who therefore may deny them the Sign, which is Baptism in Water ?

Acts. 10. St. Peter could not deny them to be Baptized in Water, to whom he saw the Holy Ghost given, which is the certain Sign of God's People : For he saith in the Acts, May any body forbid them to be Baptized in Water, who have received the Holy Ghost as well as we ? Therefore St. Peter denied not Baptism to Infants, for he knew certainly both by the Doctrine of Christ, and by the Covenant which is everlasting, that the Kingdom of Heaven pertained to Infants.

Rom. 8. None be received into the Kingdom of Heaven, but such as God loveth, and which are endued with his Spirit : For whoso hath not the Spirit of God, he is none of his. But Infants be beloved of God, and therefore want not the Spirit of God: Wherefore if they have the Spirit of God as well as Men, if they be numbered numbred among the People of God as well as we that be of Age, who (I pray you) may well withstand Children to be Baptized with Water, in the Name of the Lord?

The Apostles in times past being yet not sufficiently instructed, did murmur against those which brought their Children unto the Lord, but the Lord rebuked them, and said; Let the Babes come unto me. Why then do not these Rebellious Anabaptists obey the Commandement of the Lord? For what do they now a-days else that bring their Children to Baptism, than that they did in times past, which brought their Children to the Lord, and our Lord received them, and putting his hands on them, Blessed them, and both by Words and by Gentle Behaviour towards them, declared manifestly that Children be the People of God, and entirely beloved of GOD? But some will say, Why then did not Christ Baptize them? Because it is Written, Jesus himself Baptized not, but his Disciples.

Moreover, Circumcision in the old Law was ministred to Infants; therefore Baptism ought to be ministred in the new Law unto Children. For Baptism is come in the stead of Circumcision, as St. Paul witnesseth, saying to the Colossians; By Christ ye are Circumcised with a Circumcision which is without hands, when ye put off the body of sin of the Flesh, by the Circumcision of Christ, being buried together with him through Baptism. Behold, Paul calleth Baptism the Circumcision of a Christian Man, which is done without hands, not that Water may be ministred without hands, but that with hands no Man any longer ought to be Circumcised, albeit the Mystery of Circumcision do still remain in Faithful People.

Jof. 5.

To this I may add, That the Servants of God were always ready to minister the Sacraments to them, for whom they were instituted. As for an Example, we may behold Josua, who most diligently procured the People of Israel to be Circumcised before they entred into the Land of Promise; but since the Apostles were the Preachers of the Word, and the very Faithful Servants of Jesus Christ, who may hereafter doubt that they Baptized Infants, since Baptism is in place of Circumcision?

Item, The Apostles did attemperate all their doings to the Shadows and Figures of the Old Testament: Therefore it is certain that they did attemperate Baptism accordingly to Circumcision, and Baptized Children because they were under the Figure of Baptism; for the People of Israel passed through the Red Sea, and the bottom of the Water of Jordan, with their Children. And although the Children be not always expelled, neither the Women in the Holy Scriptures, yet they are comprehended and understood in the same.

Also the Scripture evidently telleth us; That the Apostles baptized whole Families or Households: But the Children be comprehended in a Family or Household, as the chiefest and dearest part thereof: Therefore we may conclude, that the Apostles did baptize Infants or Children, and not only Men of lawful age. And that the House or Household is taken for Man, Woman, and Child, it is manifest in the 17. of Genesis, and also in that Joseph doth call Jacob with all his House, to come out of the Land of Canaan into Egypt.

Finally, I can declare out of ancient Writers, that the Baptism of Infants hath continued from the Apostles time unto ours, neither that it was instituted by any any Councils, neither of the Pope, nor of other Men, but commended from the Scripture by the Apostles themselves. Origen upon the Declaration of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, expounding the sixth Chapter, saith, That the Church of Christ received the Baptism of Infants from the very Apostles. St. Hierome maketh mention of the Baptism of Infants, in the third book against the Pelagians, and in his Epistle to Leta. St. Augustine reciteth for this purpose, a place out of Hebr. 11. John, Bishop of Constantinople, in his first book against Julian, Chap. 2. and he again writing to St. Hierome Epist. 28. saith, That Saint Cyprian not making any new Decree, but firmly observing the Faith of the Church, judged with his fellow Bishops, that as soon as one was born, he might be lawfully Baptized. The place of Cyprian is to be seen in his Epistle to Fidus.

Also St. Augustine in writing against the Donatists in the fourth Book Chap. 23. and 24. saith, That the Baptism of Infants was not derived from the authority of Man, neither of Councils, but from the Tradition or Doctrine of the Apostles.

*Cyri*l upon Leviticus Chapter 8: approveth the Baptism of Children, and condemneth the iteration of Baptism. These Authorities of Men I do alledge, not to tie the Baptism of Children unto the Testimonies of Men, but to shew how Mens Testimonies do agree with God's Word, and that the verity of Antiquity is on our side, and that the Anabaptists have nothing but Lies for them, and new Imaginations, which feign the Baptism of Children to be the Pope's Commandement.

After this will I answer to the sum of your Arguments for the contrary. The first, which includeth all the rest, is, It is Written, Go ye into all the World, and Preach the glad Tidings to all Creatures. He that believeth believeth and is Baptized, shall be Saved : But he that believeth not shall be Damned, &c.

Mat. 18. To this I answer, That nothing is added to God's Word by Baptism of Children, as you pretend, but that is done which the same Word doth require, for that Children are accounted of Christ in the Gospel among the number of such as believe, as it appeareth by these words ; He that offendeth one of these little Babes which believe in me, it were better for him to have a Milstone tyed about his Neck, and to be cast into the bottom of the Sea. Where plainly Christ calleth such as be not able to confess their Faith, Believers ; because of his mere Grace he reputeth them for Believers. And this is no Wonder so to be taken, since God imputeth Faith for Righteousness unto Men that be of riper Age : For both in Men and Children, Righteousness, Acceptation, or Sanctification, is of mere Grace and by Imputation, that the Glory of God's Grace might be praised.

And that the Children of Faithful Parents are Sanctified, and among such as do believe, is apparent in the 1 Cor. 7. And whereas you do gather by the order of the words in the said Commandement of Christ, that Children ought to be taught before they be Baptized, and to this end you alledge many places out of the Acts, proving that such as Confessed their Faith first, were Baptized after : I answer, That if the order of words might weigh any thing to this Cause, we have the Scripture that maketh as well for us. For in * Saint Mark we read, that John did Baptize in the Desert, Preaching the Baptism of Repentance. In the which place we see Baptizing go before, and Preaching to follow after.

And

And also I will declare this place of Matthew exactly considered, to make for the use of Baptism in Children, for Saint Matthew hath it written in this wise; All Power is given me (saith the Lord) in Heaven and in Earth, therefore going forth $\mu\epsilon\delta\omicron\upsilon\tau\epsilon\sigma\alpha\tau\epsilon$, Mat. 28. that is, Disciple ye, (as I may express the signification of the Word;) that is, make or gather to me Disciples of all Nations. And following, he declareth the way how they should gather to him Disciples out of all Nations, baptizing them and teaching; by baptizing and teaching ye shall procure a Church to me. And both these aptly and briefly severally he setteth forth, saying, Baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. Now then Baptism goeth before Doctrine.

But hereby I do not gather; that the Gentiles which never heard any thing before of God, and of the Son of God, and of the Holy Ghost, ought to be Baptized, neither they would permit themselves to be Baptized before they knew to what end. But this I have declared to shew you upon how feeble Foundation the Anabaptists be grounded. And plainly it is not true which they imagine of this Text, that the Lord did only command such to be Baptized whom the Apostles had first of all taught. Neither here verily is signified who only be to be Baptized, but he speaketh of such as be of perfect age, and of the first Foundations of Faith, and of the Church to be planted among the Gentiles, which were as yet rude and ignorant of Religion.

Such as be of Age may hear, believe, and confess, that which is Preached and taught, but so cannot Infants; therefore we may justly collect, that he speaketh eth here nothing of Infants or Children. But for all this they be not to be excluded from Baptism.

It is a general rule; He that doth not Labour, must not Eat. But who is so barbarous that might think hereby, that Children should be Famished?

The Lord sent his Apostles at the beginning of the setting up his true Religion unto all Nations, unto such as were both ignorant of God, and were out of the Covenant of God; and truly such Persons it behoved not first to be Baptized, and afterward taught; but first to be taught, and after baptized. If at this day we should go to the Turks to Convert them to the Faith of Christ, verily first we ought to teach them, and afterward Baptize such as would yield to be the Servants of Christ. Likewise the Lord himself in times past did, when first he renewed the Covenant with Abraham, and ordained Circumcision to be a Seal of the Covenant after that Abraham was Circumcised. But he, when he perceived the Infants also to pertain to the Covenant, and that Circumcision was the sealing up of the Covenant, did not only Circumcise Ismael his Son that was 13. years of Age, but all other Infants that were born in his house, among whom we reckon Isaac.

Even so Faithful People which were Converted from Heathen Idolatry by the Preaching of the Gospel, and Confessing the Faith, were Baptized; when they understood their Children to be counted among the People of GOD, and that Baptism was the Token of the People of God, they procured also their Children to be baptized. Therefore as it is written; Abraham Circumcised all the Male Children of his House. Semblably we read in the Acts and Writings of the Apostles, that after the Master of the House was turned to the Faith, all the whole whole House was baptized. And as concerning those which of old time were compelled to Confess their Faith before they received Baptism, which were called Catechumeni, they were such as with our Fore-Fathers came from the Gentiles to the Church, who being yet rude of Faith, they did instruct in the Principles of their Belief, and afterward they did Baptize them; but the same Ancient Fathers notwithstanding did Baptize the Children of Faithful Men, as I have already partly declared.

And because you do require a hasty answer of your Letter of one that is but a dull Writer, I am here enforced to cease particularly to go through your Letter in answering thereto, knowing that I have fully answered every part thereof, in that I have already written, although not in such order as it had been meet, and as I purposed. But forasmuch as I understand that you will be no Contentious Man, neither in this matter, neither in any other, contrary to the judgment of Christ's Primitive Church, which is the Body and fulness of Christ, I desire you in the intire love of him, or rather Christ desireth you by me (that your joy may be perfect, whereto you are now called) to submit your Judgment to that Church, and to be at Peace and Unity with the same; that the Coat of Christ which ought to be without Seam, but now alas, most miserably is torn in pieces by many dangerous Sects and Damnable Opinions, may appear by you in no part to have been rent, neither that any giddy head in these Dog-days, might take an ensample by you to dissent from Christ's true Church: I beseech thee Dear Brother in the Gospel, follow the steps of the Faith of the Glorious Martyrs in the Primitive Church, and of such as at this day follow the same; decline from them neither to the Right hand nor to the Left. Then shall Death, be it never so bitter, be more sweeter than this Life; then shall Christ with all the Heavenly Hierusalem triumphantly imbrace your Spirit with unspeakable Gladness and Exaltation, who in this Earth was content to joyn your Spirit with their Spirits, according as it is commanded by the Word, That the Spirit of Prophets should be subject to the Prophets. One thing ask with David ere you depart, and require the same, that you may dwell with a full accord in his House, for there is Glory and Worship: And so with Simeon in the Temple embracing Christ, depart in Peace: To the which 1 Cor. 14. Peace Christ bring both you and me, and all our loving Brethren that love GOD in the Unity of Faith, by such ways as shall please him, to his Glory. Let the bitter Passion of Christ which he suffered for your sake, and the Horrible Torments which the Godly Martyrs of Christ have endured before us, and also the inestimable Reward of your Life to come, which is hidden yet a little while from you with Christ, strengthen, comfort, and encourage you to the end of that Glorious Race which you are in.

Amen.

Your Yoke-fellow in Captivity for the Verity of Christ's Gospel, to live and die with you in the Unity of Faith,

A P R E F A C E.

AS Baptism is putting on Christ, giving up our Names to Him; be Admitted as His Disciples; and a Publick Profession of His I strin: So the Renouncing of our Baptism, is as Publick a Disov ing of Him; and a Formal Apostasy from His Religion.

Therefore the Devil has been most busie in all ages (but has prevailed most, in our latter Corrupt times) to Prejudice Men, by many Pretences, against this Divine Institution. Having been able to persuade some quite to throw it off, as Pernicious and Hurtful: Others to think it Lawful to be done, but to lay no great stress upon it, and so use it, when it is Enjoined, as a thing Indifferent. Others deny it to Infants, upon this only Ground, That they are not suppos'd Capable of being Admitted into the Covenant of God, which He has made with Men: For, if they are Capable of being admitted into the Covenant, there can be no Reason to deny them the outward Seal of it.

But this being Foreign to my present Undertaking, which is to demonstrate to the Quakers the Necessity of an Outward or Water-Baptism in the General (for as to Persons capable of it, we have no Controversie with those who deny it to All) therefore, I have not digress'd into another Subject, which is, that of Infant Baptism, in the following Discourse.

I. Yet thus much I will say of it, in this place, That Infants are Capable of being admitted into the Covenant, and therefore that they cannot be Excluded from the outward Seal of it. The Consequence the Baptists cannot deny. That they are Capable, I thus prove. They were Capable under the Law, before the Law, of being admittted as Members of the Covenant in Christ come, made with Abraham, by the Seal of Circumcision, at the Age of Eight Days: And therefore there can be no Reason to Exclude them from the same Privilege, to the same Covenant, now that Christ is come; unless Christ debarr'd them from it: The Law standing still, as it was, where He has Alter'd, or Fulfill'd it. But He has not debarr'd them. Nay, on the contrary, has yet further confirm'd their being within the Covenant. He called a little Child, (Mat. xviii. 2, 3, 5.) and set him in the midst of His Apostles; Proposed him as a Pattern to Them, and to all Adult Christians. And said, That none should enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, except those who should become as little Children. And that whoever did Receive a Little Child in His Name, did Receive Christ Himself. And (ver. 10.) in Heaven, the Angels (saith Christ) do always behold the Face of my Father which is in Heaven. And therefore He bids us Take heed that we despise not one of these Little Ones; by which term tho Adult Persons are sometimes meant, yet in Texts before quoted, it is expressly apply'd to Little Children. And what greater Despising of them can be, than to Reject them as no Members of Christ's Body, and consequently unworthy of the outward Seal of His Covenant? Ch

A Preface.

Christ was displeas'd with His Disciples (Mar. x. 14.) for hindring young children to be brought unto Him. And will He be pleas'd with the Baptists the same thing? He took the little Children up in His Arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them. Did He Bless those who were not Capable of being within His Covenant? He said, Of such is the Kingdom of God, which is a term our Saviour us'd, to Express the Covenant of the Gospel. Are they not then within the Covenant of the Gospel? The Apostle says, that where either of the Parents is a Christian, (1 Cor. vii. 14.) the Children are holy: That is, within the Covenant of Christ. And pursuant to this, when any man was Converted, his Children were Baptiz'd with himself. This is the meaning of what we read so often in The Acts, that such a Man was Baptiz'd with his Household. And it was the Custom before with the Jews, that when they admitted any man as a Profelyte to their Religion, they Baptiz'd his Children with himself. Let this suffice for the present. And Proceed.

II. When Rebellion had fully compleated it self, in the Murther of the King, 1648. It soon spawn'd a multifarious Schism of 30 or 40 different Religions in England, at the same time, of which Catalogues were then Printed, most all these threw away Baptism: And threaten'd an immediate and total Overthrow of the Christian Religion, in this Island. But, by the great Mercy of God, the Restauration of the Church, with the King, 1660. has extinguish'd the very Names and Memory of these, all but 4 or 5 of the Principal Sects. The Presbyterians, (Mother of all the rest) Independents, Ana-baptists, Quakers, and Muggletonians. I am told of some Sweet-fingers, got up of late. But they are yet inconsiderable. They may Increase, and all the rest Revive, if warm'd by Plenitude of Indulgence. The Socinians, or Unitarians, are already got very high, who make nothing of the Sacraments, but as In-effectual Forms. I think the Deists, who pretend to higher Quality than these. And the Latitudinarians will quarrel with none of these. All Deists are Latitudinarians; and, tho' they despise Baptism, and all Reveald Institutions, yet they can submit to them, because they are Establish'd by Law, as they would to any thing else, rather than lose a Penny, or their Ease. But the Quakers and Muggletonians were (more sincerely) Rejected Baptism, as not allowable, because they think so.

III. The Presbyterians, Independents, &c. do indeed use Baptism; but as a thing so indifferent, that many of them will suffer a Child to dye without it, rather than Baptize it Privately, or not upon a Sermon or Lecture-day, or before Sermon, rather than after it; And an Instance can be given, since this late Establishment of Presbytery in Scotland, of a Child who dyed in the Church, in Sermon-time; but the Minister suffer'd that, and the repeated Requests of the Parents, rather than go out of his wonted method of Baptizing after Sermon, he thought Baptism so little material!

But the People being us'd to a greater veneration of Baptism, under the Episcopal Administration, and taking the Presbyterian contempt of it somewhat unly, the Presbyterian Ministers there, to instruct them better, had publick Proclamations, all over the Nation, to shew the no Necessity of the Outward or Water-tism. I will not say the ENGLISH Presbyterians go so far; they are one Degree further from the League & Covenant. I hear that they do now Administer tism PRIVATELY, in and about London. Which the Independents do still Resist (I have it from some of themselves) let the case be never so urgent, even tho' they should dye without it, before one of their Sermon or Lecture-days. As for the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, I hear that some Independent Congregations in London are come to use it Monthly. And the Presbyterians more frequently they us'd to do; or than they do in other places. The frequency of Communion in the Episcopal Churches, in some manner forcing them to it, that their people do not think themselves more neglected by them, than others are. But their own Ignorance, and the Value they have for this Sacrament will better appear by their behaviour while they had the Power in their own hands; and could Dictate to or instead of Following or Complying with them. And during their Government in the late Revolution, tho' they did not down-right (as the Quakers) declare against it, & Extripate it at once; yet they plainly seem'd to have had a design to have Inch'd it by Degrees out of the world, as far as it was in their power, by letting it fall into Disfluety, that so it might be Forgotten, & Dye. And they had Effectuated it, among those Unhappy People that were led by them. For from the beginning of their Covenant, A. D. 1638. they had not this Sacrament in many Parishes in Scotland, some for 10, some for 12, some for 15 years; which was almost their whole Reign. And in the Indulg'd and Conniv'd at Parishes to the Year 1683. many thousands (who were not Debarr'd for any Exception against them) some of 50, 60, 70, 80 years of Age, never receiv'd this Sacrament once in their lives: This I have from certain Information. And since their present Establishment in this Revolution their neglect of this Sacrament is likewise Notorious. Four Years after which, viz. the year 1693. it had not been Administred in Edenburgh; & but once a year, almost, since. We may imagine then how it has been observed in the Country Parishes.

IV. The Presbyterians in the North of Ireland, are a Sprig of the Scotch Covenant Transplanted thither: Which in that change of Soile, has taken a deep Root, and spread Intolerably. And the Bishop of Derry, in his late Clear and Rational Discourse concerning the Inventions of Men in the Worship of God. And Two following Admonitions, has made it fully appear, That not One in ten of them do ever Receive this Sacrament in the whole Course of their Lives: the rest very rarely, even now since this last Revolution. And in the former Revolution of 41, he gives Undeniable Instances, that in several Churches, especially in Dublin, after the turning out of the Episcopal Ministers, the Lord's Su-not been Administred till the Restauration, 1660, that is, in some Churches for Ten, in for Twelve Years together.

I. These Presbyterians in Dublin, and in the South and West parts of Ireland, were sent to England, and had learnt the Contempt of this Sacrament there. Where, even in Oxford, it was not Administred in the whole Univerfity, from the Ejection of the Episcopall Ergy, in the Year 1648. to the Restauration in 1660; as is observed in the Antiquitarian. So that the Quakers have only taken that out of the way, which the Presbyterians worn into Dis-use.

II. And from all these Enemies, and the subtle Insinuations which they have broached in Judice of Christ's Holy Institution of Baptism, and likewise of the Lords Supper (for they are slighted by the same Persons, and upon the same Grounds) it is to be feared, that several even of the Church of England, have been wrought, tho' not into a Dis-use, or downright contempt, yet into a less Esteem, and greater Indifferency as to these Holy Sacraments than they ought; and consequently receive less Benefit by them; much less than if their Knowledge, and their Faith were better rooted, and more sublime. Nay, there is not any Degree of indifferency, but what is culpable, in this Case; and may bring a Curse with it; instead of a Blessing: for, whatsoever, especially in Religious Worship, is not of Faith, is sin. And according to our Faith, it is to us, in all our Performances of Religion.

III. For all these Reasons, tho' this Discourse was wrote wholly on Behalf of the Quakers,
I hope, it will not be un-useful to many others, to see the strong Foundation, Great Necessity, and In-estimable Benefits of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, when Duly Admini-stred, and Receiv'd with Full Faith and Assurance in the Power and Love of God, that will not fail to assist His own Institutions, when we approach unto them, with sincere Repentance, and undoubting Dependance upon His Promises. And many of the Objections after answered, tho' used by the Quakers, to Invalidate BAPTISM, are likewise insisted upon by several of the Sects, which I have named above, to Lessen and Disparage it. In which Discourse, the following Discourse, tho' it respects the QUAKERS chiefly, yet not them Only, it contains the joint Arguments of all the several Sides of the Opposers, or Contemners of Baptism.

IV. But as to the immediate Occasion, which engaged me in this Work, it was upon the Account of a particular Person, who had been Educated from his Childhood in the Quaker Principles, and Communion. And the Objections which are here considered against Baptism, these which, at several conferences with other Quakers, to whom that Person brought me, he insisted upon. At length, after more than Twelve Months consideration of this single Subject, and diligently Reading over, and weighing every particular, which Rob. Barclay had said, in his Apology, against the Outward, or Water-Baptism, it pleased God so to open my Eyes, and perswade the Heart of this Gentleman, that, having Informed himself in the Principles of the Christian Religion, as contained in our Church Catechism; he has been with great joyfulness, and satisfaction, Received the Baptism of Christ, as Admini-stred in the Church of England. And it was his Desire, that this Discourse (tho' wrote for private Use) might be made Publick, in hopes, that it may have the like Effects upon others, who has had upon himself, by the great Mercy of God. And I knowing several others who of late been Convinced and Baptised, in the same manner, as this Gentleman; I have insisted his invitation to contribute my Mite towards the Recovery of so many Thousand as now for 46 years, have thrown off the Sacraments of Christ's Institution: and therefore one main Cause, have lost the Substance, even Faith in the Blood of Christ, outwardly for our Salvation, as I have else-where shewn. The Lord accept my mean Endeavours; and make them Instrumental to His Glory, and the Salvation of Souls. Amen.

 PROVING The DIVINE INSTITUTION
WATER-BAPTISM.

S E C T. I.

That Matth. xxviii. 19. was meant of Water-Baptism.

THE Words of the Text are these: Go ye, therefore, and Teach all Nations, Baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

The Quakers will not own that the Baptism here mentioned was the Outward, or Water-baptism: Which I will endeavour to make very plain, that it was; and that in the first place,

From the Signification and Etymology of the word Baptize.

I. The word is a Greek word, and only made English by our constant usage of it: It signifies to Wash, and is apply'd to this Sacrament of Baptism, because that is an outward Washing.

To Wash and to Baptize are the very same; and if the word Baptize had been rendred into English, instead of, Go and BAPTIZE, it must have been said, Go and WASH Men, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. So that the outward Baptism, with Water, is as much here commanded, as if it had been expressed in English words, or as we can now express it.

But because the word Baptize was grown a Technical Term, in other Languages, whereby to express the Holy Sacrament of Baptism, long before our English Translation, therefore our Translators did rightly retain the word Baptize in this Text, Matth. xxviii. 19. and in other Texts which speak of that Holy Sacrament.

But in other places they translate the word Baptize, as Mark vii. 4. When they come from the Market ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς βαπτίζονται, except they are Baptized, which we literally translate except they Wash. And in the same Verse, βαπτισμὸς ποτηρίων, &c. The Baptisms of Cups and Pots, &c. which we translate the Washing of Cups and Pots: And Heb. ix. 10. speaking of these Legal Institutions, which stood only in Meats and Drinks, and divers Washings, and carnal Ordinances, &c. the word which we here translate Washings, is, in the Original, βαπτισμοῖς, Baptisms: In Meats and Drinks, and divers Baptisms. And in the Vulgar Latin, the Greek word is retained in both these Texts, Mark vii. 4. Nisi Baptizentur, non Comedunt. Except they are Baptized, i. e. Wash their Hands, they eat not. And Baptismata Calicum, &c. The Baptisms of Cups, &c. And Heb. ix. 10. In Cibis & Potibus, & variis Baptismatibus; i. e. In Meats and Drinks, and divers Baptisms. So that it is plain that the word Baptism, and the word Washing, tho' not the same word, have yet the self-same meaning.

2. It is true, that the word Baptism is often taken in a Figurative and Allegorical Sense, to mean the INWARD BAPTISM, the Washing, or Cleansing of the Heart: But so is the word Washing also, as often, as Jer. iv. 14, &c. And there is scarce a Word in the World but is capable of many Figurative and Allegorical Meanings. Thus Circumcision is very often us'd for the Inward Circumcision or Purity of the Heart. And Fire is taken to express Love, and likewise Anger, and many other things.

But it is a receiv'd Rule for the Interpretation of Scripture, and indeed of all other Writings and Words, that the plain Literal Meaning is always to be taken, where there is no manifest Contradiction or Absurdity in it; as when a Man is said to have a Fire burning in his Breast, it cannot be meant of the Literal Fire: so when we are commanded to Wash or Circumcise our Hearts, Hearts, and the like. But, on the other hand, if any Man will take upon him to understand Words in a Figurative Sense, at his own will and pleasure, without an apparent Necessity from the Scope and Coherence, he sets up to Banter, and leaves no Certainty in any Words or Expressions in the World: Therefore I will conclude this Point of the natural Signification and Etymology of the word Baptize: And, unless the Quakers can shew an apparent Contradiction or Absurdity to take it in the Literal Signification, in this Text, Matth. xxviii. 19. then it must be meant of the OUTWARD WASHING or BAPTISM, because that is the only True, and Proper, and Literal Signification of the Word.

And it will be further Demonstrated in the next Section, that there can be no Contradiction or Absurdity to take it in a Literal Sense, because the Apostles, and Others thereunto Commissioned by them, did Practise it, in the Literal Sense.

S E C T. II.

- I. That CHRIST did Practise Water-Baptism.
 II. That the Apostles did it after Him. III. That the Catholick Church have done it after Them.

I. THAT Christ did Practise Water-Baptism. It is written, John iii. 26. And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, He that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness, Behold, the same Baptizeth, and all Men come to Him.

That this was Water-Baptism there can be no Doubt, because,

1. The Baptism with the Holy Ghost was not yet given: For that was not given till the Day of Pentecost, fifty Days after the Resurrection of Christ, as it is Recorded in the Second of the Acts. This Spiritual Baptism was promised, John xiv. 16, 26. xv. 26. xvi. 7. And the Apostles were commanded to tarry in the City of Jerusalem till it should come upon them, Luke xxiv. 49. 2. The Quakers allow that John did Baptize with Water, and there is no other sort of Baptism here mentioned, with which Christ did Baptize; and therefore, these Baptisms being spoke of both together, there can be no Reason to interpret the one to be with Water, and the other not. It is said John iv. 1. The Pharisees heard that Jesus made and baptized more Disciples than John. How cou'd the Pharisees hear of it, if it was not an Outward and Visible Baptism? For, as before is said, the outward and miraculous Effects of the Baptism with the Holy Ghost were not then given. And since it Was an Outward, it must be the Water-baptism, for there was then no other.

Obj. But the Quakers start an Objection here, That it is said John iv. 2. Jesus himself baptized not, but his Disciples.

1. Ans. Tho Jesus himself baptized not, yet it is said in the Verse foregoing, that He made and baptized, i. e. those whom His Disciples, by His Order, Baptized. For, if it had not been done by His Order, it cou'd not be said that he had Baptized those whom his Disciples Baptized. But because, He that doeth a thing by Another, is said to do it Himself, therefore Christ himself is said to have Baptized those, whom his Disciples, by his Order, did Baptize.

2. Ans. That Baptizing which Christ is said to have Administred himself, John iii. 26. might have been at another Time than that which is mentioned in the 4th Chapter: And then the consequence will only be this, That, at some Times, Christ did Baptize Himself; and at other Times, he left it to his Disciples. Tho, as to our Argument, it is the same thing, whether he did it Himself, or commanded his Disciples to do it. For, either way, it is his Baptism, his Only; his Disciples did but Administer what he commanded.

II. As Christ himself did Baptize with Water, and his Disciples, by his Commandment, while he was with them upon Earth; so did his Apostles, and Others thereunto by them commissionated, after his Death, and Resurrection, by vertue of his Command to them, Matth. xxviii. 19. after he was Risen from the Dead.

What is said above of the Etymology and true Signification of the word Baptize, is, of itself, sufficient to prove, that by Baptism in this Text, the outward Baptism with Water is meant: especially till the Quakers can shew any Contradiction or Absurdity in having the word taken in the proper and literal sense, in this, and the other Texts which speak of it. And

And this will be very hard to do, since, as it is just now proved, that Christ did Baptize with Water, as well as John. And what Absurdity, or Contradiction can be alledged, that his Apostles shou'd Administer the same sort of Baptism, after his Death, as he had Practis'd and Commanded during his Life? Nay rather, what Reason can be given, why they shou'd not be the same, since the same word, i. e. Baptize, is us'd in Both, and no new Sense or Acceptation of the word is so much as hinted? And therefore to put any new sense or acceptation of the word, must be wholly Arbitrary and Precarious.

But, as I promis'd, I will Demonstrate yet more fully and plainly, that the Apostles did Practise the Outward, i. e. Water-Baptism after CHRIST's death.

Acts x. 47. Can any Man forbid Water, that these shou'd not be Baptized?

Acts viii. 36. As they (Philip and the Eunuch) went on their way, they came to a certain Water, and the Eunuch said, See here is Water, what doth hinder me to be Baptized? — And (Verse 38.) they went both down into the Water, both Philip and the Eunuch, and he Baptized him: And when they were come up out of the WATER, &c.

Acts xxii. 16. And now why carriest thou? Arise and be Baptized, and wash away thy sins.

And, to save more Quotations; the Quakers do own that the Baptism of the Corinthians, mentioned 1 Cor. i. 14 & 17. was Water-baptism.

Therefore I will conclude this Point, as undeniable, That the Apostles did practise Water-baptism.

And the Argument from thence will lie thus: The Apostles did practise that Baptism which Christ commanded Mat. xxviii. 19. But the Apostles did practise Water-baptism; therefore Water-baptism was that Baptism which Christ commanded Matth. xxviii. 19.

III. And, as the Practise of the Apostles is a most sure Rule whereby to understand the meaning of that Command which they put in execution; so the Practise of those who immediately succeeded the Apostles, who were Cotemporaries with them, and learn'd the Faith from their Mouths, is as certain a Rule to know what the Practise, and what the Sense of the Apostles were.

were. And thus the Practise of the present Age, in the Administration of Water-baptism, is an undeniable Evidence, that this was the Practise of the last Age; the same Persons being, many of them, alive in both the last and the present Age. For one Age does not go off the World all at once, and another succeed all of perfect Age together; but there are old Men of the last Age, and young Men and Children growing up to another Age all alive upon Earth the same time; and Mankind being dispersed into far distant Countries and Climates, who know not of one another, nor hold any Correspondence: It is, by these means, morally impossible for any Man or Men, to deceive us in what has been the Universal and Receiv'd Practise of the last Age, to which the present Age is so linked, that it is even a part of it: I say it is impossible for all the Fathers of the World, to be suppos'd willing, or if they were, to be capable of imposing upon all younger than themselves, namely, That they had been all Baptized, and that this was an universally receiv'd Custom; and of which Registers were always kept, in every Parish, of all who had been, from time to time, Baptized; and that such Registers were publick, and to be recurr'd to by all that had a mind to it: Every Man's reason will tell him that it is utterly impossible for such a thing to pass upon Mankind.

And as certainly as the present Age is thus assur'd of the Practise of the last Age, in a Thing of so publick and universal a nature; so certainly, and by the same Rules, must the last Age know the Practise of the Age before that; and so backward all the way to the first Institution, to the Age of Christ, and the Apostles.

The publick nature of this Water-baptism, as now practis'd, being an outward matter of Fact, of which Mens outward Senses, their Eyes and Ears are Judges; not like Matters of Opinion, which sort of Tares may be privately sown, and long time propagated, without any remarkable Discovery; And to this so publick matter of Fact, adding the universal Practice of it, through all the far distant Nations of Christianity: I say these two Marks make it impossible for the World to be impos'd upon, nor was it ever, or ever can be impos'd upon, in any such publick Matter of Fact, so universally practis'd. All this makes it undeniably plain, That the last Age did practise the same outward Water-baptism ptism which is practis'd in this Age; and that the same was, as certainly, practis'd in the Age before the last Age, and by the same Rule, in the Age before that; and so onward, as above said, to the Age of the Apostles. I have made more Words of this than needed, but I wou'd render it exceeding plain, considering with whom I have to do. And I beseech them to consider. That all the Authóriety which they have to Over-balance all these Demonstrations, is the mad Enthusiasm of a Lay-Apostle, George Fox, a Mechanick so Illiterate, that he was hardly Master of common Sense, nor cou'd write English, or any other Language; and started up amongst us in the Year 1650, (the Age of Schism and Rebellion) and Damn'd, as Apostates, all Ages since the Apostles.

In all of which no One cou'd be found (before G. Fox) to bear their Testimony against this Water-baptism, tho' it was constantly and universally practis'd; and that Christians were then so Zealous as to contend against the least Variation or Corruption of the Faith, even unto Death, and the most cruel sort of Martyrdom.

Can any Man imagin, that if Water-baptism were a Human Invention, or Superstitiously either Continu'd or Obruded upon the Church, no One shou'd be found, for 1650 Years, to open his Mouth against it; when Thousands sacrific'd their Lives, for Matters of much less Importance?

But I have over-labour'd this Point, to any Man who will give himself leave to make use of his Reason. Therefore I will proceed to the next Section.

S E C T. III.

That Baptism must be Outward and Visible, because it is an Ordinance appointed whereby to Initiate Men into an Outward and Visible Society, which is the Church.

THere goes no more towards the proving of this, than to shew, 1st, That the Church is an Outward and Visible Society. 2dly, That Baptism was appointed and us'd for Initiating or Admitting Men into the Church.

ist, That the Church is an outward and visible Society. Our Saviour calls it, A City that is set on a Hill, (Matth. v. 14.) The Quakers themselves are an outward and visible Society; and so are all those who bear the Name of Churches upon Earth. They cou'd not otherwise be Churches. For that implies a Society of People; and every Society in the World, is an outward and visible Thing.

And, as it is so, has an outward and visible Form of Admitting Men into it: For otherwise it wou'd not be known who are Members of it. Every Society is Exclusive of all others who are not of that Society; otherwise it cou'd not be a Society: for that supposes the Men of that Society, to be thereby distinguished from other Men: And that supposes as much that there must be some outward and visible Form whereby to Initiate Men, and intitle them to be Members of such a Society: otherwise it cou'd not be known who were Members of it, and who were not; and it wou'd thereby ipso facto cease to be a Society; for it cou'd not then be distinguished from the rest of Mankind: as a River is lost in the Sea, because it is no longer distinguish'd from it, but goes to make up a part of it.

From hence it appears, that the Church, being an outward and visible Society, must have some outward and visible Form to initiate Men, and make them Members of that Society.

2dly, That Baptism was that outward Form. All the several Baptisms that were before Christ's, were all meant for Initiating Forms. The Jews had a Custom long before Christ, to initiate the Profelites or Converts to their Religion, not only by Circumcision, but by Baptizing, or Washing them with Water. The same was the meaning of John's Baptism, to make Men his Disciples. And the same was the meaning of Christ's Baptism, to initiate Men into the Christian Religion, and make them Disciples of Christ.

Hence Baptizing Men, and making them Disciples, mean the same thing. Thus John iv. 1. it is said, That Jesus made and baptized more Disciples than John. That is, he baptized them Disciples, which was the Form of Making them such. If any will say, that he baptized them to be Disciples to John, that will be answer'd Sect. VI. But as to the present Point; it is the same thing thing whose Disciples they were made; for we are now only to shew that Baptism, in the general, was an Initiating Form.

And when Christ practised it, as well as John, as this Text does expressly declare, no Reason can be given that he did not use it as an Initiating Form, as well as John; especially when the Text does express that he did make them Disciples, by baptizing of them, as above is shewn.

And pursuant to this, when Christ sent his Apostles to convert all Nations, his Commission of Baptizing was as large as that of Teaching, Matth. xxviii. 19. Go TEACH all Nations, BAPTIZING them, &c. i. e. Baptizing all who shall receive your word. And accordingly it is said, Acts ii. 41. They that received the word were baptized. Pursuant to what the Apostle had preached to them Verse 28. Repent and be baptized.

And accordingly we find it the constant Custom to baptize all that were converted to the Faith. Thus Paul, tho' miraculously converted from Heaven, was commanded to be baptized, Acts xxii. 16. And he baptized Lydia, and the aylor, and their Households, as soon as he had converted them, Acts xvi. 15, 33. And the Corinthians, Acts xviii. 8. And the Disciples of John, who had not yet been made Christians, Acts xix. 5. Philip did baptize the Eunuch, as soon as he believed in Christ, Acts viii. 37, 38. And Peter, immediately upon the Conversion of Cornelius, and those with him, said, Can any Man forbid Water, that these shou'd not be baptized? Acts x. 47.

It wou'd be endless to enumerate all the like Instances of Baptism, in the New Testament. And it was always us'd as an Initiating Form:

3dly, Baptism was not only an Initiating Form: But it serv'd for nothing else. For it was never to be repeated. As a Man can be born but once into this World, so he can be but once regenerated, or born into the Church; which is therefore, in Scripture, called the New Birth.

It is said of the other Sacrament (of the Lord's Supper) as often as ye eat this Bread, &c. I Cor. xi. 26. This was to be often repeated.

Baptism is our Admission, Initiation, or Birth into the Society of the Church; and accordingly once only to be administered. The Lord's Supper is our Nourishment and Daily Food in it; and therefore to be often repeated.

And as of our Saviour's, so of other Baptisms, of John's, and the Jews, they being only Initiating Forms, they were not repeated. The Jews did not baptize their Profelites more than once. And John did not baptize his Disciples more than once. So neither were Men twice baptized into the Christian Faith, more than they were twice Circumcised, or Admitted into the Church, before Christ.

Thus having proved, 1st, That the Church is an outward and visble Society. 2dly, That Baptism was the Initiating Form of Admitting Men into that Society. 3dly, That it was only an Initiating Form. I think the Consequence is undeniable, that this Baptism must be an outward and visble Form: Because otherwise it cou'd be no Sign or Badge of an Admission into an outward and visble Society; for such a Badge must be as outward as the Society.

Again, Acts of inward Faith are, and ought to be often repeated: Therefore this Baptism, which cou'd not be repeated, cou'd not be the inward, but the outward Baptism.

And thus having prov'd that Baptism commanded Matth. xxviii. 19. to be the outward, that is, Water-baptism: 1st, From the true and proper Etymology and Signification of the Word. 2dly, From the Practise of CHRIST, and his Apostles, and the whole Christian Church after them. And, 3dly, From the Nature of the Thing, Baptism being an Ordinance appointed only for Initiating Men into an outward and visble Society; and therefore never to be repeated: Having thus prov'd our Conclusion from such plain, easie, and certain Topicks; I will now proceed to those Objections (such as they are) which the Quakers do set up against all these clear Demonstrations. And shall accordingly, in the first place, take notice of their groundless Pretence in making that BAPTISM commanded in the Holy Gossel, and proved an ORDINANCE external and visble, to be understood only of the Inward and Spiritual BAPTISM, not with WATER, but the HOLY GHOST.

S E C T. IV.

Quakers say, 1st, That the BAPTISM commanded Matth. xxviii. 19. was only meant of the Inward and Spiritual Baptism, with the Holy Ghost.

They say this; and that is all. They neither pretend to answer the Arguments brought against them, such as these before-mentioned; nor give any Proof for their own Affertion. Only they say so; and they will believe it; and there is an End of it.

And truly there shou'd be an End of it, if only Disputation, or Victory were my Design: For to what non plus can any Adversary be reduc'd beyond that of neither Answering, nor Proving?

But because the Pains I have taken is only in Charity for their Souls, I will over-look all their Impertinency, and deal with them as with wayward Children, humour them, and follow them thro' all their Windings and Turnings; and submit to over-prove, what is abundantly proved already. Therefore, since they can give no Reason why that Baptism commanded Matth. xxviii. 19. shou'd be meant only of the Baptism with the Holy Ghost; and wou'd be content that we shou'd leave them there, as obstinate Men, and pursue them no further; but let them persuade those whom they can persuade: By which Method (unhappily yielded to them) they have gain'd and secur'd most of their Proselytes, by keeping them from Disputing or Reasoning; and by persuading them to hearken only to their own Light within: To Rescue them out of this Snare, I will be content to undertake the Negative (though against the Rules of Argument,) and to prove, that the Baptism commanded Matth. xxviii. 19. was not the Baptism with the Holy Ghost. For, 1st, To baptize with the Holy Ghost is peculiar to Christ alone. For none can baptize with the Holy Ghost, but who can send and bestow the Holy Ghost. Which is Blasphemy to ascribe to any Creature.

Christ has indeed committed the Administration of the outward Baptism with Water to his Apostles, and to Others by them thereunto ordained; and has promised the inward Baptism of the Holy Ghost to those who shall duly receive the outward Baptism.

But this cannot give the Apostles, or any other Ministers of Christ, the Title of baptizing with the Holy Ghost; though the Holy Ghost may be given by their Ministration. For they are not the Givers, that is Blasphemy.

And pursuant to this, it is observable, that none is ever said, in the Scripture, to baptize with the Holy Ghost but Christ alone: The same is he who baptizeth with the Holy Ghost, John i. 33.

And therefore, if that Baptism commanded Matth. xxviii. 19. was the Baptism with the Holy Ghost, it wou'd follow that the Apostles cou'd baptize with the Holy Ghost, which is Blasphemy, to assert.

2dly, It is written, John iv. 2. That Jesus himself baptized not, but his Disciples. If this was not meant of Water-baptism, but of the Baptism with the Holy Ghost; then it will follow, That Christ did not baptize with the Holy Ghost, but that his Disciples did.

This, in short, may suffice in return to a meer Pretence, and proceed we next to consider, if their main Argument also prove as unsupported and precarious.

S E C T. V.

The great Argument of the Quakers against Water-Baptism is this: John's Baptism is ceased: But John's Baptism was Water-Baptism: Therefore Water-Baptism is ceased. This their Learned Barclay makes use of. But,

I T is so extremely Childish, that if it were not His, no Reader wou'd Pardon me for Answering to it. Yet since they do insist upon it, let them take this easie Answer: That

John's

John's Water-baptism is ceased; but not Christ's Water-baptism. All outward Baptisms were Water-baptisms, as the word Baptism signifies, (See Sect. I.) The Jews Baptism was Water-baptism, as well as John's. And by this Argument of Barclay's, the Jews and John's may be prov'd to be the same. Thus. The Jews Baptism was Water-baptism: but John's Baptism was Water-baptism: therefore John's Baptism was the Jews Baptism.

And thus, Christ's Baptism was John's, and John's was the Jews, and the Jews was Christ's; and they were all one and the self-same Baptism, because they were all Water-baptisms.

So without all Foundation is this great Rock of the Quakers, upon which they build their main Battery against Water-baptism.

2ly, It will be proper here to let them see (if they be not wilfully ignorant) What it is which makes the Difference of Baptisms: not the outward Matter in which they are administred (for that may be the same in many Baptisms, as is shewn.) But Baptisms do differ, 1. In their Authors. 2. In the different Form, in which they are administred. 3. In the different Ends for which they were instituted.

And in all these the Baptism of Christ does differ vastly from the Baptisms both of John and the Jews, 1. As to the Author: The Baptism of the Jews was an Addition of their own to the Law; and had no higher Author that we know of. But John was sent by God, to baptize, John i. 33. And it was Christ the Lord who was the Author of the Christian Baptism. 2. As to the Form: Persons were baptized unto those whose Disciples they were admitted by their Baptism. Thus the Proselites to the Jewish Religion, were baptized unto Moses. And Men were made Disciples to John, by his Baptism. But the Christian Baptism alone is administred in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. This is the Form of the Christian Baptism, and which does distinguish it from all other Baptisms whatever. 3. The End of the Christian Baptism is as highly distant and different from the Ends of other Baptisms, as their Authors differ. The End of the Jewish Baptism was to give the Baptized a Title to the Priviledges of the Law of Moses. And the End of John's Baptism was to point to HIM who was to come; and to prepare Men, by Repentance, for the Reception of the Go- spel. But the End of CHRIST'S Baptism was to Instate Us into all the Unconceivable Glories, and High Eternal Prerogatives which belong to the Members of his Body, of his Flesh, and of his Bones; Eph. v. 30. That we might receive the Adoption of Sons, Gal. iv. 5. Henceforth no more Servants, but Sons of God! and Heirs of Heaven! These are Ends so far transcendent above the Ends of all former Baptisms, that, in comparison, other Baptisms are not only less, but none at all; like the Glory of the Stars, in presence of the Sun; they not only are a lesser Light, but when he appears, they become altogether invisible.

And as a Pledge or Fore-taste of these Future and Boundless Joys, The Gift of the Holy Ghost is given upon Earth; and is promis'd as an Effect of the Baptism of Christ. As Peter preached, Acts ii. 38. Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. And Gal. iii. 27. As many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ.

This of the Gift of the Holy Ghost was not added to any Baptism before Christ's: and does remarkably distinguish it from all others.

S E C T. VI.

That Christ and the Apostles did not Baptize with John's Baptism.

THIS is a Pretence of the Quakers when they find themselves distressed with the clear Proofs of Christ and the Apostles having administr'd Water-baptism. They say that this was John's Baptism, because it was Water-baptism. And, as before observ'd Sect. IV. they only say this, but can bring no Proof. But they put us, here again, upon the Negative, to prove it was not.

As to their Pretence that it was John's Baptism, because it was Water-baptism, that is answered in the last Section.

And now to gratifie them in this (though unreasonable) Demand, I will give these following Reasons why the Baptism which which Christ and his Apostles did practise, was not John's Baptism:

1st, If Christ did baptize, with John's Baptism; then he made Disciples to John, and not to himself. For it is before shewn Sect. III. Num. ii & iii. That Baptism was an Initiating Form, and nothing else, whereby Men were admitted to be Disciples to him unto whom they were baptized. Thus the Jews who were baptized unto Moses said, We are Moses's Disciples. John ix. 28. And those whom John baptized, were called the Disciples of John. And there needs no more to shew that Christ did not baptize with the Baptism of John, than to shew that the Disciples of Christ and of John were not the same, which is made evident from John i. 35, 37. where it is told that two of John's Disciples left him, and followed Jesus. And Matth. xi. 2. John sent two of his Disciples to Jesus. And the Disciples of Christ lived under a different Oeconomy, and other Rules than either the Disciples of John, or of the Pharisees, to shew that they were under another Master. And the Disciples of John were scandaliz'd at it, Matth. ix. 14. Then came to him (JESUS) the Disciples of John, saying, Why do we, and the Pharisees fast oft, but thy Disciples fast not?

Therefore the Disciples of Christ and of John were not the same: and therefore Christ did baptize Men to be his own Disciples, and not to be the Disciples of John: and therefore the Baptism of Christ was not the Baptism of John.

2dly, If Christ did baptize with John's Baptism, the more he baptized, it was the more to the Honour and Reputation of the Baptism of John: But Christ's baptizing was urg'd, by the Disciples of John, as a lessning of John, John iii. 26. Therefore the Baptism with which Christ did baptize cou'd not be the Baptism of John. Though it be said John iv. 2. That Jesus himself baptized not, but his Disciples: (For so the Apostles and other Ministers of Christ have baptized more into the Faith of Christ, than Christ himself has done:) Yet here is no ground of Jealousie or Rivalship to Christ; because the Administration of Christ's Baptism, is all to the Honour and Glory of Christ: And therefore Christ's baptizing more Disciples than John, cou'd be no Lessning of John, but rather a Magnifying of him so much the more, if Christ had baptized with John's Baptism.

3dly, When John's Disciples had told him of Christ's out-rivalling him, by baptizing more than he, John answer'd, He must increase, but I must decrease, John iii. 30. But if CHRIST did baptize with the Baptism of John, than John still increased, and CHRIST decreased. For, 4thly, He is greater who institutes a Baptism, than those who only administer a Baptism of another's appointment: Therefore if Christ did baptize with the Baptism of John, it argues John to be greater than Christ, and Christ to be but a Minister of John.

5thly, All the Jews who had been baptiz'd with the Baptism of John, did not turn Christians; therefore John's Baptism was not the Christian Baptism.

6thly, Those of John's Disciples, who turned Christians, were baptiz'd over again, in the Name of Christ; of which there is a remarkable Instance, Acts xix. to v. 7. But the same Baptism was never repeated (as is shewn above, Sect. III. Numb. iii.) therefore the Baptism which the Apostles did administer, was not John's Baptism.

7thly, The Form of the Baptism which Christ commanded Mat. xxviii. 19. was, In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: But that was not the Form of John's Baptism: Therefore that was not John's Baptism. See what is before said Sect. V. Num. ii. of the Difference of Baptisms, as to the Author, the Form, and the End of each Baptism: And, in all these Respects, it is made apparent that the Baptism which was practis'd by Christ and the Apostles, was not the Baptism of John.

To all these clear Arguments the Quakers, without answering to any of them, do still insist, That the Water-baptism which the Apostles did administer, was no other than John's Baptism. That they had no Command for it; only did it in Compliance with the Jews, as Paul circumcis'd Timothy, (Acts xvi. 3.) And purify'd himself in the Temple, (Acts xxi. 21, to 27.) But this is all Gratis Dictum; here is not one word of Proof: And they might as well say, That the Apostles PREACHING was only in Compliance with the Jews, and that it was the same with John's PREACHING; for their Commissions to Teach, and to Baptize were both given in the same Breath, Matth. xxviii. 19. Go ye— TEACH all Nations, BAPTIZING them, &c.

Now why the Teaching here shou'd be Christ's, and Baptizing only only John's, the Quakers are desir'd to give some other Reason besides their own Arbitrary Interpretations; before which no Text in the Bible, or any other Writing can stand.

Besides, I wou'd inform them, That the Greek word μαθητεύσατε, in this Text, which we Translate Teach, signifies to make Disciples; so that the literal, and more proper reading of that Text is, Go, and Disciple all Nations, or make Disciples of them, baptizing them, &c.

If it be ask'd, Why we shou'd Translate the Word μαθητεύσατε, Matt. xxviii. 19. by the Word Teach, if it means to Disciple a Man, or make him a Disciple?

I Answer: That Teaching was the Method whereby to Persuade a Man, to Convert him, so as to make a Disciple of him. But the Form of Admitting him into the Church, and actually to make him a Disciple, to give him the Priviledges and Benefits of a Disciple, was by Baptism.

Now the Apostles being sent to Teach Men, in order to make them Disciples; therefore instead of Go, Disciple Men, we Translate it, Go, Teach, as being a more Familiar Word, and better understood in English.

Tho' if both the Greek words μαθητεύσατε, and βαπτίζετε; in this Text, were Translated Literally, it would obviate these Quaker-Objections more plainly: For then the Words wou'd run thus; Go and Admit all Nations to be my Disciples, by Washing them with Water, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Διδάσκοντες, Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you.

Here the Word Διδάσκοντες, i. e. Teaching, is plainly distinguished from μαθητεύσατε, to Disciple them; tho' our English renders them both by the Word Teaching, and makes a Tautology: Go Teach all Nations — Teaching them.

But, as a Child is Admitted into a School before it be Taught: So Children may be Admitted into the Pale of the Church, and be made Disciples, by Baptism, before they are Taught. Which shews the meaning of these two Words, i. e. Discipling, and Teaching, to be different. Because, tho' in Persons Adult, Teaching must go before Discipling; yet in Children (who are within the Covenant, as of the Law, to be Admitted at eight Days old, by Circumcision; so under the Gospel, by Baptism) Discipling goes before Teaching: And that Discipling is only by Baptism.

But to return. The Quakers are so hard put to it, when they are press'd with that Text, Acts x. 47. Can any forbid Water, &c? That they are forced to make a Suppose, (without any ground or appearance of Truth) That these Words were an Answer to a Question. And that the Question was, Whether they might not be Baptized with John's Baptism? And that this proceeded from a Fondness the Jews had to John's Baptism. And that the Apostle Peter only Comply'd with them out of Condescension, as Paul Circumcis'd Timothy.

Ans. 1. Cornelius, and those whom Peter Baptized, Acts x. were Gentiles and not Jews: They were Romans, and therefore cannot be supposed to have had any Longing after John's Baptism; none of them having ever own'd it, or having been Baptiz'd with it.

2. The Gentile Converts to Christianity, refus'd to submit to the Jewish Circumcision, or any of their Law (Acts xv.) And therefore it is not to be imagin'd, that they wou'd be fond of any of the Baptisms which were us'd among the Jews.

3. Even all the Jews themselves, no not the Chief and Principal of them, neither the Pharisees nor Lawyers did submit to John's Baptism, Luke vii. 30.

4. The Ethiopian Eunuch requested Baptism from Philip, (Acts viii.) And it cannot be suppos'd, that the Ethiopians had more knowledge of John's Baptism, or regard for it, than the Romans, or great part of the Jews themselves.

5. There is no ground to suppose that St. Peter's words, Can any Man forbid Water, &c? were an Answer to any Question that was asked him. The most forcible Affirmation being often express'd by way of Question.

Can any Man forbid Water? That is, No Man can forbid it. And for the saying, Then Answered Peter. There is nothing more familiar in the New Testament, than that Expression when no Question at all was asked. See Matt. xi. 25. xii. 38. xvii. 4. xxii. 1. Mark xi. 14. xii. 35. xiv. 48. Luke vii. 40. xiv. 3, 4, 5. xxii. 51. John v. 17, 19.

6. Granting a Question was ask'd, and that Cornelius, as well as the Ethiopian, had desir'd Baptism, why must this be construd of John's Baptism? Especially considering, that Peter, in that same Sermon which Converted Cornelius (Act. x. 37.) told them that the Gospel which he Preached unto them, was that which was published, after the Baptism which John Preached. What Argument was this for Cornelius to return back again to John's Baptism? Or, if he had desir'd it, why shou'd we think that Peter wou'd have Comply'd with him; and not rather have reprov'd him, and carry'd him beyond it, to the Baptism of Christ: as Paul did (Acts xix.) to those who had before receiv'd the Baptism of John?

7. But as to the Compliance which the Quakers wou'd have to John's Baptism; and which they compare to Paul's Compliance in Circumcising Timothy: I will shew the great Disparity.

First, The Law was more universally receiv'd than John's Baptism: For many and the Chief of the Jews did not receive John's Baptism, as above-observ'd.

Secondly, The Law was of much longer standing: John's Baptism was like a Flash of Lightning, like the Day-Star, which usher'd in the Sun of Righteousness, and then disappear'd: But the Law continu'd during the long Night of Types and Shadows, many hundreds of Years:

Thirdly, John did no Miracle (John x. 41.) But the Law was delivered, and propagated by many Ages of Miracles. 'Twas enjoyn'd under Penalty of Death, to them and their Posterities; whereas John's Baptism lasted not one Age, was intended only for the Men then present, to point out to them the Messiah, then already come, and ready to appear: And no outward Penalties were annexed to John's Law; People were only Invited, not Compell'd to come unto his Baptism: But to neglect Circumcision, was Death, Gen. xvii. 14. Exod. iv. 24.

The Preaching of John was only a Warning; let those take notice to it that wou'd:

Whereas the Law was pronounced by the Mouth of God Himself, in Thunder and Lightning, and out of the midst of the Fire, upon Mount Sinai, in the Audience of all the People: And so terrible was the Sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake, Heb. xii. 21. For from God's Right Hand went a Fire of Law for them, Deut. xxxiii. 2.

From all these Reasons, we must suppose the Jews to be much more Tenacious of the Law, than of John's Baptism; and to be brought off with greater difficulty from their Circumcision, which had descended down to them, all the way from Abraham, 430 Years before the Law, (Gal. iii. 17.) than from John's Baptism, which was but of Yesterday; and never receiv'd by the Chief of the Jews. And therefore there was much more reason for Paul's Complying with the Jews in the Case of Circumcision, than in that of John's Baptism, as the Quakers suppose.

When Christ came to fulfil the Law, he did it with all regard to the Law, (Matth. v. 17, 18, 19.) He destroy'd it not with Violence, all at once; but fulfil'd it leisurely and by degrees: Ut cum honore Mater Synagoga sepeliretur. The Synagogue was the Mother of the Church; and therefore it was fitting that she shou'd be Bury'd with all Decency and Honour.

This was the Reason of all those Compliances with the Jews, at the beginning, to wear them off, by degrees, from their Superstition to the Law.

Tho' in this some might Comply too far: And there want not those who think that Paul's Circumcising of Timothy, (Acts xvi. 3.) was as faulty a Compliance, as that which he blam'd in Peter, (Gal. ii.) For that of Paul's is not Commended, in the Place where it is mentioned.

And now I appeal to the Reason of Mankind, whether Objections thus pick'd up from such obscure and uncertain Passages, ought to overballance plain and positive Commands, which are both back'd and explain'd by the Practise of the Apostles, and the Universal Church after them? All which I have before Demonstrated of Baptism.

8. But however the Quakers may argue from Paul's Compliance with the Jews, the Reader has reason to complain of my Compliance with Them: For, after all that has been said, there is not one single Word in any Text of the N. T. that does so much as hint at any such thing, as that Peter's Baptizing of Cornelius, or Philip's Baptizing of the Eunuch, was in any sort of Compliance unto John's Baptism. This is a perfect Figment, out of the Quaker's own Brain, without any Ground or Foundation in in the World : And therefore there was no need of Answering it at all, otherwise than to bid the Quakers prove their Affertion; That these Baptisms were in Compliance with John's, which they cou'd never have done.

Whereas it is plain from the Words of the Text, (Acts xvi. 3.) that Paul's Circumcising Timothy, was in Compliance with the Jews : It is expressly so said, and the Reason of it given, because, tho' his Mother was a Jewess, yet his Father was a Greek ; and therefore, because of the Jews which were in those Quarters (says the Text) he Circumcised Timothy, that these Jews might Hear and Receive him, which, otherwise, they wou'd not have done. Now let the Quakers shew the like Authority, that the Baptisms of Cornelius, of the Eunuch, and of the Corinthians, Acts xviii. 8. (For that too they acknowledge to have been Water-Baptism; as I will shew presently) let the Quakers shew the like Authority, as I have given for the Circumcision of Timothy being in Compliance with the Jews, let them shew the like, If say, that the foresaid Baptisms were in Compliance with John's, and then they will have something to say. But till then, this Excuse, or Put off of theirs, is nothing else but a hopeless Shift of a desperate Cause; to suppose, against all sense, that these Gentiles, (Romans, Ethiopians, and Corinthians) desir'd John's Baptism, who rejected all the Laws and Customs of the Jews.

The Quakers Master-Objection from 1 Cor. i. 14.
I thank GOD that I Baptized none of you, but Crispus and Gaius. And Ver. 17. For Christ sent me not to Baptize, but to Preach the Gospel.

FROM this Passage they argue, That Water-Baptism was not commanded by Christ, because here St. Paul says, That he was not sent to Baptize ; and that he thanks God, that he Baptiz'd so few of them. But,

In Answer to this, I will first of all premise, That a bare Objection, without some Proof on the other side, does neither justify their Cause, nor overthrow ours: For when a thing is Proved Affirmatively, it cannot be overthrown by Negative Difficulties which may be Objected.

You must dissolve the Proofs which are brought to support it: Nothing else will do.

For what Truth is there so evident in the World, against which no Objection can be rais'd?

Even the Being of a God has been disputed against by these sort of Arguments; that is, by raising Objections, and starting Difficulties, which may not easily be Answer'd: But while those Demonstrative Arguments, which Prove a God, remain unshaken, a thousand Difficulties are no Disproof.

And so, while the Command of Christ, and the Practise of his Apostles, and of all the Christian World, in pursuance of that Command, are clearly Prov'd, no Difficulty from an obscure Text, can shake such a Foundation.

But I lay down this, only as a General Rule; because this Method is so much made use of by the Quakers (and others) who never think of Answering plain Proofs; but by raising a great Dust of Objections, wou'd bury and hide what they cannot Disprove.

I say, that I only mind them at present, of this fallacious Artifice; for I have no use for it as to these Texts objected, to which a very plain and easie Answer can be given. And,

First, I would observe, how the Quakers can understand the Word Baptize to mean Water-Baptism, or no Water-Baptism, just as the Texts seem to favour their cause, or otherwise.

For there is no mention of Water in either of the Texts objected, only the single word Baptize. And why then must they construe these two Texts only, of all the rest in the New Testament, to mean Water-Baptism? Why? but only to strain an Objection out of them against Water-Baptism?

But will they let the Word Baptize signifie Water-Baptism, in other places, as well as in these?

They cannot refuse it with any shew or colour of Reason. They must not refuse it in Acts xviii. 8. where the Baptizing of Crispus (mention'd in the first of the Texts objected) is recorded. And there, it is not only said of Crispus, that he was baptized, but that many of the Corinthians hearing, believed, and were baptized. By which, the Quakers cannot deny Water-Baptism to be meant, since they conftrue it so, 1 Cor. i. 14.

Secondly, We may further observe, that in the Text, Acts xviii. 8. Crispus is only said to have believed, which was thought sufficient to infer, that he was baptized; which cou'd not be, unless all that believed, were baptized: Which, no doubt, was the Case, as it is written, Acts xiii. 48. As many as were ordained to eternal Life, believed. And (Ch. ii. 41.) They that received the Word, were baptized, And (V. 47.) The Lord added to the Church daily such as shou'd be saved.

So that this is the Climax or Scale of Religion. As many as are ordained to eternal Life do believe: And they that believe, are baptized: And they that are baptized, are added to the Church.

And to shew this received Notion, That whoever did believe was baptized, when Paul met some Disciples who had not heard of the Holy Ghost, Acts xix. 3. he did not ask them whether they had been baptized, or not? He took that for granted, since they believed. But he asks, Unto what were ye baptized? Supposing that they had been baptized.

Thirdly, Here then this Objection of the Quakers, has turn'd into an invincible Argument against them.

They have, by this, yielded the whole Cause: For if the Baptism, 1 Cor. i. 14. be Water-Baptism, then that Baptism, Acts xviii. 8. must be the same: And consequently all the other Baptisms, mention'd in the Acts, are, as these, Water-Baptisms also.

But, besides the Quakers Confession (for they are unconstant, and may change their Minds) the thing shews it self, that the Baptism mention'd, 1 Cor. i. 14. was Water-Baptism; because Paul there thanks God, that he baptized none of them but Crispus and Gaius. Wou'd the Apostle thank God that he had baptized so to few, with the Holy Ghost? Or wou'd he repent of baptizing with the Holy Ghost? Therefore it must be the Water-Baptism which was here spoke of.

Fourthly, But now, what is the Reason, that he was glad he had baptized so few with Water-Baptism? And he gives the Reason, in the very next words. (V. 15.) Lest any shou'd say, that I had baptized in mine own Name. What was the occasion of this Fear? It is told from V. 10. That there were great Divisions and Contentions among these Corinthians, and that these were grounded upon the Æmulation that arose among them, in behalf of their several Teachers. One was for Paul, another for Apollos, others for Cephas, and others for Christ.

This wou'd seem, as if the Christian Religion had been contradictory to it self:

As if Christ, and Cephas, and Paul, and Apollos had set up against one another:

As if they had not all taught the same Doctrine:

As if each had preach'd up himself, and not Christ:

And had baptized Disciples, each in his own Name, and not in Christ's; and had begot Followers to himself, and not to Christ.

To remove this so horrible a Scandal, St. Paul argues with great zeal, (V. 13.) Is Christ divided? (says he) Was Paul Crucified for you? Or were ye baptized in the Name of Paul? I thank God, that I baptized none of you but Crispus and Gaius; lest any should say, That I had baptiz'd in mine own Name.

There needs no Application of this, the Words of the Apostle are themselves so plain.

He did not thank God, that they had not been baptized; but that He had not done it.

And this, not for any slight to Water-Baptism; but to obviate the Objection of his baptizing in his own Name.

Fifthly, By the way, this is a strong Argument for Water-Baptism: Because the Inward Baptism of the Spirit, cometh not with Observation and Shew, but is within us, Luk. xvii. 20, 21. Nor is it done in any Body's Name, it is an inward Operation upon the Heart.

But the outward Baptism is always done in some Name or other; in his Name whose Disciple you are thereby made and Admitted.

Therefore it must, of necessity, be the outward Baptism, of which St. Paul here speaks; because it was outwardly Administered, in such an outward Name. And he makes this an Argument that he had not made Disciples to himself, but to Christ; because he did not Baptize them in his own Name, but in Christ's.

Now this had been no Argument, but perfect Banter, if there had been no outward Baptism, that the People cou'd have both seen and heard. How otherwise cou'd they tell in what Name, or no Name they were baptized, if all was Inward and Invisible?

But I need not prove what the Quakers grant and contend for, that all this was meant of Water-Baptism; because otherwise their whole Objection, from this place, does fall.

VI. But they wou'd infer as if no great stress were laid upon it; because that few were so baptized.

I Answer. That there is nothing in the Text which does infer, that few of these Corinthians were baptized.

St. Paul only thanks God, that he himself had not done it, except to a few, for the Reasons before given: But Acts xviii. 8. it is said, That besides Crispus, whom Paul himself baptized, MANY of the Corinthians were baptized.

Nay, they were all baptized, as many as believed, as before is prov'd. And, in this very place, St. Paul taking it for granted, that all who believed, were baptiz'd, which I have already observ'd from his Question to certain Disciples, Acts xix. 3. not whether they were baptized, but unto what, i. e. In what Name, they had been baptized? So here 1 Cor. i. 13. He does not make the Question, whether they had been baptized? That he takes for granted. But in what Name, were ye baptized? Which supposes, not only that all were baptized, but likewise that all who were baptized, were baptized in some outward Name; and therefore that it was the Outward, i. e. Water-Baptism.

VII. But the second Text objected, V. 17. is yet to be accounted for; where St. Paul says, Christ sent me not to Baptize, but to Preach the Gospel. This he said in justification of himself for having baptiz'd so few in that place; for which he blesses God, because, as it happened, it prov'd a great justification of his not baptizing in his own Name.

But then, on the other hand, here wou'd seem to be a Neglect in him of his Duty: For if it was his Duty to have baptiz'd them all, and he baptiz'd but a few, here was a great Neglect.

In Answer to this, we find, that there was no Neglect in not baptizing them, for that, not a few but many of the Corinthians were baptized, Acts xviii. 8. that is, as many as believed, as before is shewn.

But then who was it that baptized those many? For St. Paul baptized but a few.

I Answer. The Apostle employ'd others, under him, to Baptize.

And he vindicates this, by saying, That he was not sent to Baptize, i. e. principally and chiefly; that was not the chief part of his Commission: But the greater and more difficult part was that of Preaching, to Dispute with, Perswade and Convert the Heathen World. To this, great Parts, and Courage, and Miraculous Gifts were necessary: But to Administer the outward Form of Baptism to those who were Converted, had no Difficulty in it; requir'd no great Parts, or Endowments, only a lawful Commission to Execute it.

And it wou'd have taken up too much of the Apostles time, it was impossible for them to have baptized, with their own Hands, those vast Multitudes whom they Converted. Christianity had reach'd to all Quarters of the then known World, as far almost, as at this Day, before the Apostles left the World. And cou'd Twelve Men Baptize the whole World? Their Progress was not the least of their Miracles: The Bread of Life multiply'd faster, in their Distribution of it, than the Loaves by our SAVIOUR'S Breaking of them. St. Peter Converted about three Thousand at one Sermon, Acts ii. 41. And at another time about five Thousand, Ch. iv. 4. Multitudes both of Men and Women. Ch. v. 14. Many more than the Apostles cou'd have counted; much more than than they cou'd have baptized; for which if they had stay'd, they had made slender Progress. No. The Apostles were sent, as loud Heralds, to proclaim to all the Earth, to run swiftly, and gather much People; and not to stay (they cou'd not stay) for the baptizing with their own Hands, all that they Converted: They left that to others, whom they had ordain'd to Administer it. Yet not so, as to exclude themselves; but they themselves did Baptize, where they saw occasion, as St. Paul here did BAPTIZE Crispus and Gaius, and the House of Stephanas, some of the Principal of the Corinthians. Not that he was oblig'd to have done it himself, having others to whom he might have left it: For he was not sent, that is, put under the Necessity to Baptize with his own Hands, but to Preach, to Convert others, that was his principal Province, and which he was not to neglect, upon the account of baptizing, which others could do as well as he.

But if you will so understand the Words of his not being sent, i. e. that it was not within his Commission, that he was not Im-power'd by Christ, to Baptize, then it wou'd have been a Sin, and great Presumption in him, to have baptized any body.

Nay more. This Text, thus understood, is flatly contradictory to Matt. xxviii. 19. which says, Go, Baptize: And this says, I am not sent to Baptize.

These are contradictory, if by, I am not sent, be understood, I have not Power or Commission to Baptize.

But by, I am not sent, no more is meant in this Text, than that Baptizing is not the chief or principal part of my Commission. As if a General were accused for Mustering and Listing Men in his own Name, and not in the King's, and he shou'd say, in Vindication of himself, that he had never listed any, except such and such Officers; for that he was not sent to Muste, or Drill Men, or to Exercise Troops or Regiments, but to Command the Army: Wou'd it follow from hence, that he had not Power to Exercise a Troop or a Regiment, or that it was not within his Commission? Or if a Doctor of Physick should say, That it was not his Part to compound Medicines, and make up Drugs (that was the Apothecary's Business) but to give Prescriptions; wou'd any Man infer from this, that he might not Compound his own Medicines if he pleas'd?

Or if (to come nearer) a Professor of Divinity, or a Bishop shou'd say, That he was not sent to Teach School; this wou'd not imply that he might not Keep School; nay, he ought, if there were no others to do it: So the Apostle of the Gentiles was not sent to spend his Time in Baptizing, Visiting the Sick, or other Parts of his Duty, (which others might perform) so as to hinder his great Work in Converting of the Gentiles: All of whom he cou'd not Baptize, nor Visit all their Sick: Yet both these were within his Commission, and he might and did Execute them where he saw occasion. As if all the Sick in London shou'd expect to be Visited by the Bishop of London; and all the Children shou'd be brought to be baptized by him; he might well say, That he was not sent to Baptize, or to Visit their Sick, but to look after his Episcopal Function: And send them for these Offices, to others, under him: And yet this wou'd no ways imply, that these Offices were not within the Episcopal Commission; or that he was not sent both to Baptize, and to Visit the Sick: But only that he was not sent principally and chiefly to Baptize, or to Visit the Sick.

And as to that Phrase of being sent; we find it us'd in this same sense, to mean only being chiefly and principally sent. Thus, Gen. xlv. 8. Joseph said to his Brethren, It was not you that sent me hither, but God. It was certainly his Brethren who sent him, for they sold him into Egypt: But it was not They, principally and chiefly, but God, who had other and extraordinary Ends in it.

Adam was not deceived (says the Apostle, 1 Tim. ii. 14.) but the Woman being deceived, was in the Transgression. Adam was deceived, and fell as well as the Woman; but the meaning is, he was not first, or principally deceived.

Again. As for you who stick so close to the Letter (when it seemeth to serve your turn) Go ye and learn what that meaneth, I WILL HAVE MERCY, AND NOT SACRIFICE, Matt. ix. 13.

By which it cannot be understood, that God did not require Sacrifice; for he commanded it upon Pain of Death. Yet he says, (Jer. vii. 22.) I spake not unto your Fathers, nor commanded them — concerning Burnt-Offerings, or Sacrifices: But this thing Commanded. I them, saying, Obey my Voice, &c. according as it is written, (1 Sam xv. 22.) To Obey is better than Sacrifice.

By all which cannot be meant, that God did not Command the Jews concerning Burnt-Offerings and Sacrifices (for we know how particularly they were commanded) but that the outward Sacrifice was not the chief and principal part of the Command; which respected chiefly the inward Sacrifice and Circumcision of the Heart.

Which when they neglected, and lean'd wholly to the Outward, then God detests their Oblations; Isa. i. 14. Your new Moons, and your appointed Feasts my Soul hateth, I am weary to bear them. And he says, V. 12. Who hath required this at your Hand?

It was certainly God who had required all these things at their hands; but these outward Performances, (tho' the Neglect or Abuse of them was punished with Death) yet they were not the chief and principal part of the Command, being intended chiefly for the sake of the Inward and Spiritual Part: From which when they were separated, they were (like the Body, when the Soul is gone) a dead and a loathsome CARCASS of Religion: And which God is therefore said, not to have commanded, because he did not Command them without the other: As he made not the Body without the Soul; yet he made the Body as well as the Soul.

VIII. And as there is Soul and Body in Man, so (while Man is in the Body) there must be a Soul and Body of Religion; that is, an outward and an inward WORSHIP, with our Bodies as well as our Souls.

And as the Separation of Soul and Body in Man, is called Death; so is the Separation of the outward and the inward Part of Religion, the Death and Destruction of Religion.

The outward is the Cask, and the inward is the Wine. The Cask is no Part of the Wine; but if you break the Cask, you lose the Wine. And as certainly, whoever destroy the outward Institutions of Religion, lose the inward Parts of it too.

As is sadly experienc'd in the Quakers, who, having thrown off the outward Baptism, and the other Sacrament of Christ's Death, have, thereby, lost the inward thing signify'd, which is, the PERSONAL Christ, as Existing without all other Men, and having so Suffer'd, Rose, Ascended, and now, and for ever,
Sitteth

Sitteth in Heaven, in his true proper Human Nature, WITHOUT all other Men. This the Quakers will not own, (except some of the New Separation) and this they have lost, by their Neglect of those outward Sacraments, which Christ appointed for this very End (among others) that is, as Remembrances of his Death: For it had been morally impossible for Men, who had constantly and with due Reverence, attended these holy Sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, ever to have forgot his Death, so lively represented before their Eyes, and into which they were baptized; or to have turn'd all into a meer Allegory, perform'd within every Man's Breast, as these Quakers have done.

But the Enemy has perswaded them to break the Cask, and destroy the Body of Religion; whereby the Wine is spilt, and the Soul of Religion is fled from them: And by neglecting the outward Part, they have lost the whole inward, and Truth of Religion; which is a true Faith in the OUTWARD Christ, and in the Satisfaction made for our Sins, by his Blood OUTWARDLY shed; and in his Intercession, in our Nature, as our High-Priest, at his Father's Right Hand, now, in Heaven; into which Holy of Holies, He has carry'd his own Blood of Expiation, once offer'd upon the Cross, and presents it, for ever, as the Atonement and full satisfaction for the Sins of the whole World; but apply'd only by true Faith and Repentance, thereby, becomes fully Effectual to the Salvation of every Faithful Penitent.

This is the only true Christian Faith: And from this the Quakers have totally fallen; and that chiefly, by their Mad throwing off the OUTWARD Guards, Preservatives, Fences, Sacraments, and Pledges, of Religion. And those OUTWARD Means of Grace, which Christ has commanded, and given us as the only OUTWARD GROUNDS for our Hope of Glory. For how can that Man get to Heaven, who will not go the way that Christ has appointed; who came down from Heaven, on purpose to show and lead us the way thither; yet we will be wiser than he, find fault with his Institutions, as being too much upon the Outward; and think that we can and may Spiritualize them farer, and make the way shorter than he has done.

IX. But to return, if the Quakers cou'd find such Texts concerning Baptism, as I have shewn above concerning Sacrifices, as if it were said, That God did not command Baptism; that he hated it, and was wearry to bear it, that he would not have it, &c. If such Texts cou'd be found, How wou'd the Quakers triumph! Who wou'd be able to stand before them! And yet, if such were found, they wou'd prove no more against the outward BAPTISM, than they did against the outward SACRIFICES, i. e. That if any regarded nothing else in Baptism, than the outward Washing, it wou'd be as hateful to God, as the Jewish Sacrifices, when they regarded nothing more in them but the Outward.

And it may be truly said, That God did not Command either such Sacrifices, or such a Baptism; because he commanded not the outward alone, but with respect unto, and chiefly for the sake of the Inward.

And, therefore, as all these, and other the like Expressions in the Old Testament did not at all tend to the Abolition, only to the Rectification of the Legal Sacrifices: So, much less, can that single Expression, 1 Cor. i. 17. of Paul's saying (upon the occasion, and in the sense above mention'd) that he was not sent to Baptize, but to Preach; much less can this infer the Abolition of Baptism; being as positively commanded, as Sacrifices were under the Law, and as certainly practis'd by the Apostles, as the Sacrifices were by the Levitical Priests.

X. Now suppose that I should deny, that OUTWARD Sacrifices were ever commanded; or, that the Jews did ever practise them: And shou'd Interpret all that is said of Sacrifices, only of the Inward, as the Quakers do of Baptism; and I shou'd produce the Texts above quoted to prove that God did not command Sacrifices, which are much more positive than that single one which is strain'd against Baptism: I say, suppose that I shou'd be so Extravagant as to set up such a Notion, what Method (except that of Bedlam, which, in that Case, wou'd be most proper) cou'd be taken to convince me? And suppose I shou'd gain as many Profelytes as G. Fox has done: And we shou'd boast our our Numbers, and Light within, &c. wou'd not this following Method be taken with us?

1st. To see how Sacrifices are actually us'd now in those Parts of the World where they do Sacrifice. And being convinc'd that these do use outward Sacrifices, and understand the first Command to Sacrifice, in that sense, to inquire 2dly, Whether they did not receive this from their Fathers, so upward, to the first Institution? And is not this the surest Rule to find out the meaning of the first Command? viz. How it was understood and practis'd by those to whom the Command was first given; and from them, through all Ages since. Upon all which Topicks, the present Water-Baptism, now us'd, may be as much demonstrated to be the same which was practis'd by the Apostles, and consequently, which was commanded by Christ, as the outward Sacrifices can be shewn to have been, at first, commanded to the Jews; and practis'd by them.

XI. And as for that precarious Plea, before confuted, of the Baptism which the Apostles practis'd, being only a Compliance with the Jews; there is more Pretence to say, that the Jewish Sacrifices were in Compliance with the Heathen Sacrifices, which were long before the Levitical Law.

I say, there is more Pretence for this, but not more Truth. More pretence, because it has been advanced of late, by Men of greater Figure than Quakers, That the Levitical Sacrifices were commanded by God, in Compliance with the Gentile Sacrifices, which were before used.

But this is a Subject by it self. I now only shew the Quakers, that there is more ground to spiritualize away Sacrifices from the Letter, than Baptism; more pretence for it from Texts of Scripture, and from some odd Opinions of some Learned Men.

And if the Denial of OUTWARD Sacrifices wou'd be counted (as the like of Baptism was, when first started) to be nothing short of Madness, the continuance of that Distraction for 46 Years together (as in the Case of Baptism) might make it more familiar to us, but would abate nothing of the Unreasonableness.

XII. I believe the Reader, by this time, cannot but think that I have taken too much needless Pains, in Answer to that Objection of St. Paul's saying that he was not sent to Baptize, but to Preach: But I speak to a sort of Men, who are us'd to Repetitions, and will not take a Hint (unless it be on their side) and therefore I enlarge more than I wou'd do, if I were writing to any others. But I think I have said enough, even to them; to shew, that the Meaning of the Apostle in this Text, was only to prefer the Office of Preaching, before that of Baptizing. But I must withal desire them to take notice, that the Preaching, that is, Publishing of the Gospel, at first to Heathens, was a very different thing, and of much greater Necessity, than those set Discourses, which we now call Preaching in Christian Auditories.

XIII. Let me (to conclude) add one Argument more, from this Text, 1 Cor. i. 17: why that Baptism, mention'd Matt. xxviii. 19. cannot be meant of the Baptism with the Holy Ghost. Because if when Christ sent his Apostles to Baptize, the meaning was (as the Quakers wou'd have it) to Baptize with the Holy Ghost; then the Apostle Paul said in this Text, 1 Cor. i. 17. That he was not sent to Baptize with the Holy Ghost. Which sense, since the Quakers will not own, they cannot reconcile these Texts, without confessing, that that Text, Matt. xxviii. 19. was not meant of the Baptism with the Holy Ghost, and then it must be meant of the Water-Baptism.

Objection from 1 Pet. iii. 21.

THE Words of the Text are these. The like Figure whereunto (i. e. the Ark) even Baptism, doth also now save us, (not the putting away of the Filth of the Flesh, but the Answer of a Good Conscience towards God) by the Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

From whence the Quakers argue thus: That Baptism doth not consist in the outward Washing, but the inward.

And so far they argue right, That the inward is the chief and principal part; and therefore, that if any regard only the outward Washing of the Skin, in Baptism, they are indeed frustrated of the whole Benefit of it, which is altogether Spiritual.

And it has been observ'd Sect. VII. latter part of Numb. vii. That if only the outward Part of the Sacrifices, or Circumcision, and other Institutions under the Law, were regarded, they were hateful to God, and he rejected them; tho', at the same time, he commanded the Performance of them, under the Penalty of Death.

Thus it is in the Institutions of the Gospel. The Inward and Spiritual Part is the chief; and for the sake of which only, the Outward is commanded: But this makes the Outward necessary, instead of throwing it off; because (as it was under the Law) the Outward was ordained as a Means whereby we are made Partakers of the Inward: And therefore, if we neglect and despise the Outward, when we may have it, we have no Promise in the Gospel to Intitle us to the Inward: As he that neglects the Means, has no Reason to expect the End. It is true, a Miracle may do it; but it is Presumption, and Tempting of God, to neglect the Outward Means of God's Appointment, in expectation of his Miraculous Interposition, against the Method which he has commanded. As if provoking of God, did Intitle us the more to his Protection! Or, as if we were Wiser than He, to mend and alter his Institutions, and dispense with them, at our Pleasure!

Here let it be minded, that the Ark is put only as a Type of Baptism: Therefore Baptism is the more worthy, and more necessary. And to neglect Baptism, is to venture swimming in the Deluge, without the Ark.

S E C T. IX.

The Quaker-Objection from, Eph. iv. 5.

I. THE Words of the Text are these. One Lord, one Faith, one Baptism; whence the Quakers argue thus. That Water-Baptism is one Baptism, and the Baptism with the Holy Ghost, is another Baptism; because the one is the Outward, and the other the Inward Baptism; and outward and inward are two Things: Therefore that these must be two Baptisms: which, they say, is contrary to this Text, that says, the Christians have but ONE Baptism, as they have but ONE Lord, and ONE Faith.

II. I Answer. Outward and Inward are Two things; but yet they hinder not the Unity of that which is compos'd of Both. Thus Soul and Body are Two things, and of Natures the most different of any Two things in the World; yet they hinder not the Unity of the Man, who is compos'd of Both. Nay, it is the Composition of these Two that makes up the One MAN; infomuch, that when these Two are Divided, the MAN is no more; for it is nothing else which we call Death, but the Separation of Soul and Body.

And (as before shewn, Seçt. VII. Num. VIII.) while there is Soul and Body in Man, there must be a Soul and Body of Religion, that is, an Outward and an Inward Part of Religion: And if we destroy the Outward, we shall lose the Inward; because the Outward was design'd for the Safety and Preservation of the Inward.

It is true, that the Inward is the Chief and Principal Part, as of Man, so of his Religion: But this does not infer, that the Outward is not likewise necessary. We are commanded, Rom. xii. 1. to Present our Bodies a living Sacrifice, and this is call'd our Reasonable Service. For, is it not Reasonable, that, since our Bodies are God's Creatures, as well as our Souls, He should have the Adoration and Service of our Bodies, as well as of our Souls?

There is no Outward or Publick W O R S H I P but by our Bodies ; we cannot otherwise express the INWARD Devotion and Adoration of our Minds.

And this is so Natural, that whoever has a due Reverence and Awe of the Divine Majesty, cannot help to Express it Outwardly, by the Adoration of his Body, in his Approaches to God, even tho' in Private. As our Blessed Saviour, in His Agony, fell prostrate upon His Face to the Earth.

And whoever deny the Outward Worship to God, or perform it slowly, and carelessly, it is a full Demonstration that they have no True and Real Devotion, or Just Apprehension of the Almighty.

Therefore the Outward Part of Religion must, by no means, be let go, because the Inward certainly dies, when the Outward is gone.

But the Outward and the Inward W O R S H I P of God are not Two Worships, but only Two Parts of the same Worship. As Soul and Body are not Two Men, but Two Parts of the same Man ; so the Adoration of this One Man, Outwardly in his Body, and Inwardly in his Soul, is not Two Worships, but Two Parts of the SAME Worship.

III. There is but one Faith, yet this Faith consists of several Parts. There is a Faith in God, of which the Heathens do partake : There is a Faith in Christ, which denominates Men Christians : Yet these are not Two Faiths in a Christian, but Two Parts of the SAME Faith. There is likewise a Faith in the Promises of the Gospel ; and that what is therein Commanded, is from God : And there are Degrees of this Faith, of which one Christian does partake more than another. And yet to Christians there is but One Faith.

The Belief of a God, and of Christ, are Two Faiths or Beliefs, because many do Believe a God, who do not Believe in Christ : Yet, in a Christian they are not Two Faiths, but ONE Faith ; because the one, that is, the Faith in Christ, does suppose the other, that is, the Belief of a God ; it only Adds to it, and Builds upon it. And this makes them no more Two Faiths, than building an House a Story higher makes it Two Houses.

IV. There

IV. There is but One Lord, that is Christ; yet He consists of an Outward and an Inward Part, of Body and Soul. Nay more, of both the Divine and Human Natures. I might urge the different Persons in the One Divine Nature; but this will be no Argument to the Quakers, who Deny it. But they Deny not (seemingly at least) the Divinity of Christ; and therefore, as this Lord is but One, tho' consisting of several Natures; and His Faith and Worship but One, tho' consisting of several Parts; why may not His Baptism be likewise One, tho' consisting of an Outward and an Inward Part?

V. There was an Outward and an Inward CIRCUMCISION, as well as an Outward and Inward BAPTISM; yet no Man will say, that there were Two Circumcisions under the Law. As little Reason is there to say, That there are Two Baptisms under the Gospel. See what is before said, Sett. VII. Num. X, & XI, of the stronger Presumptions to deny the Outward SACRIFICES under the Law, than the Outward BAPTISM under the Gospel.

VI. Let me add, that Circumcision was discontinu'd 40 Years in the Wilderness (Josb. v. 5.) yet this was made no Argument against the Reviving and Continuance of it afterwards.

But Baptism has not been discontinu'd one Year, nor at all in the Christian Church, since its first Institution by Christ.

If the Quakers cou'd find such a Discontinuance of Baptism, as there was of Circumcision, they wou'd make great Advantage of it; tho' it cou'd be no more an Argument in the one case, than in the other.

But since they have not even this small Pretence against it, the Constant and Uninterrupted Practice of Baptism, in all Christian Churches, through all Ages, is an Irrefragable Argument against them; and shews them to be Dissonant from the whole Church of CHRIST.

S E C T. X.

An Objection from Heb. vi. 1.

I. I Cou'd not have imagin'd that this shou'd have been made an Objection, if I had not seen it urg'd as such, in a Book printed this Year, 1696. Intituled, John Baptist's Decreasing, &c. By John Gratton. Where he urges mightily this Text, as a plain Prohibition to the further Continuance of Baptism. He lays great stress upon the Word Leaving. Therefore Leaving the Principles of the Doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto Perfection. LEAVING (saith he, P. 45.) Mark, LEAVING the Principles, &c. And Baptism being nam'd in the second Verse, he infers, That the Apostle here Commands to leave off the Practice of Baptism, which, he says, had been Indulg'd to the first Converts to Christianity, with other Jewish Ceremonies. As to the supposed Indulging of Baptism, on account of its being a Jewish Ceremony, it is answer'd before, Sect. VI. Pag. 19, 20, 21. But now as to this Inference from Heb. vi. 1. John Gratton says, P. 47. That this word LEAVING seems to entail the foregoing words in the Chapter before, where he (the Apostle) had been telling them of their Childishness (he mentions the Doctrine of Baptism, which cannot prove the Imposing of Water-Baptism, any more than all the rest) and was now for bringing them on to a further State, where they might know Perfection — And it seems clear to me, that there was some need for those things, they had so long lain like Children weak, and Babes in, to be left. Therefore leaving these, let us go on to Perfection; and saith further; This will we do, if God permit: But if they had been commanded by Christ, to have been used to the World's End, then why shou'd Paul have been so earnest at that Day, which was soon after Christ's Ascension, to have had them then to leave them? These are his words, and a great deal more to the same purpose. And in the same Page, he ranks Baptism with Circumcision, Passover, and other Jewish Rites.

II. But it is very wonderful, how any Man cou'd shut his Eyes so hard, as to oversee not only the whole Scope, but the very Words of this Text. Can such a Blindness be other than wilful? The Apostle was reprov'g some of the Hebrews for their slender Proficiency in the Knowledge of the Gospel. And that he cou'd not lead them to the Higher Mysteries, they hardly yet being well fixed in the very Rudiments and Fundamentals of Christianity: As if one shou'd say, That he would make an ill Doctōr of Divinity, who had not yet learned his Catechism.

For the Apostle in the former Chapter having treated of the Mysterious Parallel 'twixt Christ and Melchisedec, he stops short, Ver. II, upon the account of their Incapacity, of whom (that is, of Christ and Melchisedec) we have many things to say, and hard to be utter'd, seeing ye are dull of hearing: For when for the time ye ought to be Teachers, ye have need that one teach you again, which be the first Principles of the Oracles of God. Then he goes on to provoke them to a further Proficiency in the words of the Text we are now considering, Therefore (says he) leaving the Principles of the Doctrin of Christ, let us go on unto Perfection, not laying again the Foundation of Repentance from dead Works, and of Faith towards God, of the Doctrin of Baptisms, and of laying on of Hands, and of the Resurrection of the Dead, and of Eternal Judgment. And this will we do, if God permit.

Here is the Doctrin of Baptism placed in the very Heart of the Fundamentals of Christianity; yet the Quakers would filch it out from amongst all the rest, and refer it alone to the Ceremonials of the Law spoken of in the former Chapter. This was drop'd at a venture; for the former Chapter treats only of the Melchisedecal Priesthood, which was no Part of the Law; and there are none of the Legal Types or Ceremonies so much as mention'd in it. Yet Baptism in the next Chapter must refer to them!

There cannot be a greater Confession to Baptism than this Objection of the Quakers; nor a stronger Proof for the Necessity of it, than to see it rank'd with these most-acknowledg'd Foundations of Christian Religion, and call'd one of the First Principles of the Oracles of God.

III. And as to the word Leaving, upon which this Author lays so great a stress, in this Text, as if it meant Forsaking and Abandoning, it is strange that he should bring in the Apostle Exhorting to Leave off, and Forsake the Principles of the Doctrine of Christ! But Leaving there is very plainly meant of leaving or intermitting (as the Vulgar renders it) to treat further at that time of these Principles; which the Apostle is so far from forsaking, that he fixes them as the Foundation; which he says he will not lay again, as supposing it laid already; but build further upon it, improve and carry up the Superstructure. So that this Leaving, is only leaving or ceasing to Discourse further upon these Principles, Intermittentes Sermonem, intermitting or breaking off the Debate. Which is literally, according to the Greek ἀπέστες λόγον, leaving that Word or Subject of which he then spoke, he went on to discourse of other things.

The Reader could not forgive this Trifling in me, to prove things which are self-evident, if he did not see that I am forc'd to it.

However, this Advantage is gain'd by it, to see the very slender Foundations upon which the Quakers build their Objections against Baptism; which they must either grant to be one of the Principles of Christianity, or that Faith and Repentance are not.

IV. But indeed (it is frightful to say it, I pray God they may seriously consider of it) they have, together with Baptism, thrown off all the other Principles of the Doctrine of Christ, which are mention'd in this Text. 1. Repentance. Against this they have set up a Sinless Perfection, which needeth no Repentance. They never beg Pardon for Sin, supposing they have none; and mock at us for saying, Lord have Mercy upon us; and upbraid our Liturgy for having a Confession of Sin in it. Edward Burrough, p. 32. of his Works, printed 1672, says, That God doth not accept of any, where there is any failing, or who doth not fulfill the Law, and doth not Answer every Demand of Justice. 2. Faith towards God.

This

See The Snake
in the Grass, 1st Part, or Preface,
p. 313, 314. 2d
Part, p. 40, 41,
61, 62.

This is the Christian Faith; or Faith in God through Christ. But the Quakers say, That they can come to God Immediately; without the Mediation of Christ, and therefore they do not Pray to Christ, whom they utterly deny to be that Person who suffer'd for them upon the Cross; as Mr. Penn in his Serious Apology, p. 146. Part 1. p 330, 331.

They make Christ to be nothing else than what they call The Light within; which, they say, is sufficient of itself, without any thing else, to bring us to God; and that whoever follows it, needs no other Help.

Now they say, That all the Heathen, every Man that is born into the World, has this Light within, that is, Christ; and, that this Light within is sufficient for his Salvation, without any thing else: Whereby they take away any Necessity of an Outward Christ to dye for our Sins, and make the Heathen Faith as good as the Christian: And therefore they have taken away that Christian Faith towards God, which is the Second of the Principles mention'd in this Text. The Third is Baptism, which they openly disclaim. The Fourth is, the laying on of Hands, that is, the Ordination, Confirmation, and Absolution of the Church, which are all perform'd by laying on of Hands. And how much soever the Quakers and others do despise them, yet the Apostle here reckons them among the Fundamentals: For the Government and Discipline of the Church are Essential to it, as it is a Society; it could not otherwise be a Society. The Sin of Korah was nothing but concerning Church-Government. And Aaron's Rod that Budded, in confirmation of his Priesthood, was ordained to be kept for ever in the Ark, for a Token against the Rebels; so are they call'd, who Rebel'd against that Priesthood which God had then appointed by Moses; and the Sin cannot be less to Rebel against that Priesthood which Christ himself appointed. Which is shewn more at large in the Discourse mention'd in the Advertisement. Num. 16,

Now if Aaron's Rod, that is, Church-Government, was one of the Three sacred Depositums which were ordain'd to be kept in the Ark, why should we wonder to see it here placed among the Fundamentals of Christianity?

The Pot of Manna, Aaron's Rod, and the Tables of the Covenant, were all that was kept in the Ark. Heb. ix. 4.

Which shews Church-Government to be Necessary next to our Manna, the very Support of our Life; and the best Guard to preserve the Decalogue, i. e. our Duty to God and Man.

V. And tho' the Quakers cry down Church-Authority in others, yet they magnifie it as much in themselves as any Church whatsoever.

The Ingenious W. P. in his Judas and the Jews, writing against some Dissenters amongst the Quakers, asserts the Authority of the Church very high, and the Power of the Elders in the Church, p. 13. and presses that Text, Matth. xviii. 17. Tell it unto the Church, to extend to Matters of Faith and Worship, as well as to Private Injuries or Offences amongst Christians. That Christ (says he) as well gave His Church Power to Reject as to Try Spirits, is not hard to prove. That notable Passage, Go, tell the Church, does it to our hand: For if in case of private Offence betwixt Brethren, the Church is made Absolute Judge, from whom there is no Appeal in this World; how much more in any the least case that concerns the NATURE, BEING, FAITH, and WORSHIP of the Church her self?

But the Case was quite alter'd when he came to Answer that same Text, as urg'd against the Quakers by the Church; which he does in his Address to Protestants, p. 152, 153, & 154. of the Second Edition in Octavo, printed 1692. And then that Text does not relate at all to Faith or Worship, but only to private Injuries. For having deny'd the Authority of the Church in Matters of Faith, he puts the Objection thus against himself: But what then can be the meaning of Christ's Words, Go, tell the Church? Very well. I Answer (says he, p. 153.) 'Tis not about Faith, but Injury, that Christ speaks; and the place explains itself, which is this; Moreover, if thy Brother shall TRESPASS against THEE, go and tell him his FAULT, between thee and him alone. Here is Wrong, not Religion; Injustice, not Faith or Conscience concern'd; as some would have it, to maintain their Church-Power.

— The words TRESPASS and FAULT prove abundantly, that He only meant Private and Personal Injuries; and that not only from the common and undeniable signification and use of the words TRESPASS and FAULT, but from the way Christ directs and commands for Accommodation, viz. That the Person wronged speak to him that commits the Injury, alone; if that will not do, that he take one or two with him: But no man can think, that if it related to FAITH or WORSHIP, I ought to Receive the Judgment of one, or two, or three, for a sufficient Rule. — Therefore it cannot relate to Matters of FAITH, and Scruples of CONSCIENCE, but PERSONAL and PRIVATE INJURIES.

Thus he. But tho' the Judgment of one, two, or three, is not of itself a sufficient Rule, (none ever said it was) yet may not one, two, or three ADMONISH one another, even in Matters of Faith and Worship, as well as of Private Injuries, and, in case of Refractoriness and Obstinacy, bring the Cause before the Church? Thou shalt in any wise Rebuke thy Neighbour, and not suffer Sin upon him. Lev. xix.
17. Yet was not the Judgment of every Man a sufficient Rule to his Neighbour. And our Saviour's commanding to bring the Cause finally before the Church, shews plainly, that the Judgment of the one, two, or three, was not meant for a sufficient Rule, that is, the ultimate Decision.

But in Answer to Mr. Penn's Argument, That this Text, Tell it unto the Church, was meant only of Private Injuries, I shall repeat but his own words before quoted, and grant, that as it was meant of Private Injuries, so, as Mr. Penn very well infers, How much more in any the least Case that concerns the Nature, Being, Faith, and Worship of the Church her self?

VI. But, to return. The fifth Article in that Enumeration of Fundamentals, Heb. vi. 1, & 2. is, The Resurrection of the Dead; which the Quakers do likewise deny; as it is fully prov'd in The Snake in the Grass, Par. 2. Sect. 13.

The last is that of Eternal Judgment, which depends upon the former, and may be made one with it; and is likewise deny'd by the Quakers, that is, turn'd into Hymeneus and Philletus's Sense, of an Inward only and Spiritual Resurrection, or Judgment perform'd within us. I have frequently heard Quakers say, that they expected no other Resurrection or future Judgment, than what they had attain'd already, that is, the Resurrection of Christ, or the Light; and the Judgment or Condemnation of Sin, in their Hearts.

George Whitehead, in his Book call'd The Nature of Christianity, &c. printed 1671, p. 29, thus ridicules it: Dost thou (says he to his Opponent) look for Christ, as the Son of Mary, to Appear outwardly, in a Bodily Existence, to save thee? If thou dost, thou mayst look until thy Eyes drop out, before thou wilt see such an Appearance of him.

And now what Wonder is it, that these should throw off Baptism, who have likewise thrown off all the other Fundamentals, which are reckon'd with it in this Text?

VII. But let us hence observe, and beware of Neglecting or Despising the Outward Institutions of God; because these depending upon the Authority of God, no less than the Inward and Spiritual, rejecting of the one overthrows the Obligation and Sanction of the whole, and is a rejecting of God the Institutor; who, in His just Judgment, suffers those to lose the one, that think themselves too good for the other.

Men were made Partakers of Christ to come, by the Sacrifices which were appointed, as Types of Him, under the Law: So now are we Partakers of Him, who is come, by the Sacraments, which He has appointed in Remembrance of Him, under the Gospel.

And as those who neglected or despis'd the Sacrifices, when they might be had, from the Legal Priests, according to God's Institution, were made liable to Death, and did forfeit their Title to the Participation of Christ the Archi-Type: So those who neglect or despise the Sacraments which He has commanded as the Means of Grace, and of our Inward Participation of Him, under the Gospel, do thereby justly forfeit their Title to such Participation.

For, if we will not take God's Way, we have no Promise nor Reason to secure us in the following of our own Inventions.

S E C T. XI.

The Quaker-Objection, That there are no Signs under the Gospel.

I. THE Quakers throw off all Outward Institutions, as not only Useless, but Hurtful to the Christian Religion; which, they pretend, consists not only chiefly (which is granted to them) but solely in the Inward and Spiritual Part. They say, That all Figures and Signs are Shadows; and that when Christ, who is the Substance, is come, the others cease of course. That they have attain'd to Christ the Substance; and therefore these Shadows are of no use to them. That Baptism and the Lord's Supper are some of these Shadows; and these were Indulged to the Early and Weak Christians, but that the Quakers, who have stronger Participations of the Spirit, are got beyond these Beggarly Elements, &c.

II. This is sett'd as a Foundation-Principle, That no Figures, or Signs, are perpetual; or of Institution, under the Gospel-Administration, when Christ, who is the Substance, is come; though their Use might have been Indulged to young Converts in Primitive Times.

A Key, &c. by

Ans. 1. To say they were not Perpetual, is one thing; but to say, That they were not so much as of Institution under the Gospel, seems a strange Assertion, when Christ gave the Institution out of his own Mouth, Matt. xxviii. 19. Go Baptize. And of his Supper, said, This do, Luk. xxii. 19.

2. The Reason why this shou'd not be Perpetual, is very Pre-carious, to suppose that the Holiness of any Person shou'd exempt him from observing the Institutions of God; whereas Christ himself submitted to them, and said, That it became him to fulfil all Righteousness, i. e. all the Righteous Institutions of God. This is the Reason which Christ

gave

Gave for his Baptism; yet the Quakers think that their Holiness will excuse them from Baptism. Christ submitted to John's Baptism, saying, That we ought to fulfil all God's Institutions: Yet the Quakers will not submit to Christ's Baptism, saying, That they are got beyond it. All were required to submit to John's Baptism, during his Ministry, because he was sent from God to Baptize; therefore Christ also submitted unto it; and did receive his own Commission to Baptize, by the visible Descent of the Holy Ghost, upon his receiving the Baptism of John. All are yet more expressly commanded to receive the

the very Thing, which outward Water, Bread and Wine do signifie, they leave them off. But were they as Holy as they pretend, yet would not this excuse them from observing the Institutions of Christ; nay, the greatest Sign of Holiness, and true Humility, is, not to think our selves above his Institutions, but obediently to observe them, after the Blessed Example of Christ our Lord.

And it is the greatest Instance of Spiritual Pride, and the most Fatal Deception in the World, thus to over-value our selves; it betrays the grossest Ignorance of Spiritual things: For the more a Man knows of himself, and of God, the more he discovers of his own Weakness and Unworthiness; he appears less in his own sight, and frames himself the more Obsequiously, with the most profound Humility and Resignation, Dutifully and Zealously to observe every the least Command of God. They are Novices in the Knowledge of God, who are lifted up with Pride; and these fall into the Condemnation of the Devil, 1 Tim. iii. 6.

And what can be greater Pride, than to think our selves in an higher Condition of Perfection, than the Holy Apostles, and all those Glorious Saints and Martyrs, who were the First-fruits of the Gospel, called (in the Key above quoted) by the Lessening

Stile of Young Converts, in Primitive Times?

St. Paul, though IMMEDIATELY Converted, and Enlightened MIRACULOUSLY from HEAVEN, was commanded to go to Ana- nias to be Baptized. But our Quakers pass him off as a Young Convert, they have got beyond him, and think themselves more HIGHLY Enlightned than he was: And, for that Reason only, not to need that Baptism, which was thought necessary for him.

And all the other Christians, from Christ to George Fox, were Young Converts! Then it was that a greater Light was given than ever was known in the Church of Christ before, to make the Outward Baptism cease, as of no longer use to those who had attain'd the Substance! Or otherwise none of the Primitive Christians knew their own Holiness; or were so Humble as not to own it, to that Degree as to place themselves above all outward Ordinances!

These are the Grounds and Reasons of the Quakers, why Baptism, and the Lord's Supper were not Perpetual!

Which, in the mildest word that I cou'd frame, I have call'd Precarious. And they must appear to be such, till the Quakers can give some other Proof besides their own saying so, either that the Holiness of any Person can excuse him from the Observance of Christ's Institution: Or, that they have a greater Degree of Holiness than all others since Christ, who have been Baptized.

3. But the Perpetuity of Baptism, and the Lord's Supper, are fully expressed in the Words of the Scripture. When Christ gave Commission to his Disciples to Baptize, he promised to be with them, in the Execution of that Commission, even unto the End of the World, Matt. xxviii. 20. which shews, that the Commission was to descend after the Death of the Apostles to whom it was given. And it tells how long; Alway, even unto the End of the World. The like Perpetuity is annexed to the Institution of the Lord's Supper, 1 Cor. xi. 26. Till Christ come again. It was Instituted in Remembrance of him; and therefore to be continu'd till his Coming again.

III. I know the Quakers do Interpret this, not of Christ's Outward and Personal coming at the Resurrection, which (after Hymeneus and Philetus, 2 Tim. ii. 18.) they say is past already, that is, Inwardly perform'd, by the Spiritual Resurrection of Christ, or the Light in their Hearts. And they say, That the Institution

Institution of the Lord's Supper was only to continue till that Inward Coming, or forming of Christ in our Hearts; which they having obtain'd, (as they presume) therefore they throw off the Outward Supper.

But was not Christ formed in the Hearts of the Apostles, to whom Christ gave his Holy Supper, as much as in the Hearts of the Quakers now? Was he not Come SPIRITUALLY to Paul, after his Conversion? And before his Command, above quoted, of continuing the Practice of the Lord's Supper, till his Coming?

If they say, That this was only to have it continu'd to those weaker Christians, who had not Christ thoroughly formed in their Hearts.

First, Who can say, That Christ is thoroughly formed in his Heart? May there not be greater and greater Degrees of the Inspiration of Christ in our Hearts? And can we ever come to the End of it, so as to need no further Inspiration, or Coming of Christ within us? Therefore Christ's Inward Coming is always to be expected. His further and further Coming and Inspiration.

But if that Coming, which the Quakers wou'd make to be the Determination of the Outward Institution of the Lord's Supper, be the Least Degree of his Coming, then every Christian, nay, according to the Quakers, every Man in the World, not only is, but always was exempted from the Observation of that Institution; because the Quakers do own, That every Man in the World has, and ever had the Light within, which they make to be Christ, at least, an Influence and Inspiration from Christ; and so to be a Coming, or Presence of his in the Heart: And therefore, by this Rule, Christ is Come to every Man, in some Degree or other: And, if there be not some stinting, or ascertaining of this Degree, then Christ was always so Come to All, as to make the Institution of the Lord's Supper uselefs, at all Times, to All. Nay, it was ended, before it began. For, if his Inward Coming does end it, it cou'd never begin, because he was always so Inwardly Come.

But if there are some Degrees of his Coming so weak as to need the Help of the Outward Institution, to which God has annexed the Promise of his Grace, when duly Administred, and Receiv'd, then these Degrees must be known, else those may be depriv'd of the Benefit of it, who have most need of it: And those are they who think that they need it least.

Secondly, The Quakers do not always pretend, all of them, to the same Degrees of Perfection (if there be Degrees in Perfection) they must be sensible sometimes (at least others are) of the many Weaknesses of some of their Number: Why then do they not allow the Lord's Supper to those Weaker ones? Else they must say, That it was not intended for the Weak more than for the Strong. And so, that the Institution and Practise of it, by Christ and his Apostles, was wholly useless, and to no purpose. And that all those high Things said of it, That it is the Communion of the Body and Blood of Christ, 1 Cor. x. 16. And Christ's own Words, This is my Body: And therefore, that the receiving it unworthily, is being Guilty of the Body and Blood of the Lord: That therefore we shou'd approach to it, with the greatest Reverence and Preparation, to Examine our selves seriously and diligently, that we may receive it with pure Hearts and Minds: And the Dreadful Judgments which do attend the Neglect, or Abuse of it, not only sundry Diseases, and divers kinds of Deaths, but Damnation, 1 Cor. xi. from Ver. 27. I say all these were Words thrown into the Air, of no Meaning, nor Import at all, if the Quaker Interpretation be true, which makes nothing at all of the Lord's Supper, but renders it wholly Precarious and Insignificant, even at the time of its Institution; and now to be hurtful and pernicious, as drawing Men from the Substance, to meer Shadows; for they make of it no more!

IV. But I wou'd beseech them to consider how much more highly God does value it; and how Material a part of his Religion he does make it: For when St. Paul was taught the Faith immediately from Heaven, and not from those who were Apostles before him (as he tells us, Gal. i. 16, 17.) Christ took care to instruct him as to this of the Lord's Supper particularly. And he presses it upon the Corinthians,⁴ as having received it from God. For I have received of the Lord (says he, 1 Cor. xi. 23.) that which also I delivered unto you, that the Lord Jesus, the same Night in which he was Betrayed, took Bread, &c. and so goes on to relate the whole Institution of the Lord's Supper, and the mighty Consequences, the Benefits and Advantages of it; the Exa- mination preparatory to it; and the Vengeance both Temporal and Eternal, which was due to the Contempt of it.

This shews, that Christ did not Institute this Holy Sacrament by Chance. It was the last Act of his Life; and his Dying Bequest to his Church; fill'd with all his Blessings, and carrying with it, to the Worthy Receivers, the whole Merits, and Purchase of his Death and Passion, the Remission of our Sins, and full Title to Heaven! Brethren, I speak after the Manner of Men; Gal. iii. 15. tho' it be but a Man's Testament, yet, if it be confirmed, no Man disannulleth, or addeth thereto. How much less then can any Man take upon him to disannul this last Will and Testament of Christ's, which he has left to his Church; and Bequeath-ed it to her with His Dying Breath!

This was the Reason that it was not only so particularly Recorded by the several Evangelists in the Gospels; but when St. Paul was taught Immediately from Heaven, this most Material Institution was not forgot, but Christ Himself instructed him in it; to shew the great Stress and Value which He laid upon it.

And let this suffice, to have said in this place, concerning this other Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Its Institution is as Plain and Express as that of Baptism. And the Practise of it, in the Days of the Apostles, and all Ages since has been as Universal. And what has been said of Baptism, is of Equal Force as to this: And the Quaker Arguments against this, are upon the same Foundation as those against Baptism; only they have not so many Objections against this: Therefore I have made Baptism the chief Subject of this Discourse; yet so, as likewise to Include the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Therefore we will go on to consider what remains of the present Objection (which Militates equally against both) that there are no Signs under the Gospel.

V. And here let me observe,

First, That these Signs and Figures which the Quakers make Incompatible to the Gospel State, ought only to be understood of the Signs and Figures in the Law, which were ordain'd as Types of Christ. And of these it is truly argu'd, That when Christ, who is the Substance, is come, they must cease of course; which Argument the Quakers bring against the Signs and Figures which which Christ did Inſtitute under the Goffel. But how foreign this is from their purpoſe, let any one judge. For thoſe Signs and Figures which were appointed by Chriſt, cou'd not be Types of Chriſt; becauſe a Type is what goes before a Thing, and ſhews it to come. And therefore, when that which it foreſhews is come, it ceaſes. But, as there were Types under the Law to foreſhew Chriſt's coming in the Fleſh, and his Sacrifice upon the Croſs, which therefore are ceaſed; ſo Chriſt has appointed other Types to foreſhew his ſecond coming to Judge the World; and which therefore muſt laſt till he ſhall ſo come, as the Types of his firſt coming did laſt, till he did ſo come. The Sacrifices under the Law, did prefigure the Death of Chriſt; but the Sacraments under the Goffel, were Inſtituted in Remembrance of it; as well as for Types of our future Union with him in Heaven. Therefore the ſame Reaſon which makes the Legal Types to ceafe, does infer, That the Evangelical Types muſt not ceafe, till they likewise ſhall be fulfilled; which will not be till we arrive at Heaven. Thus, as they are Types. And then,

Secondly, As they are Remembrances of what is paſt, they are to laſt as long as the Remembrance of that which they Repreſent ought to laſt with us. Chriſt did not Inſtitute his Supper, that we ſhou'd thereby Remember his Death, a Day, or a Year, but till his Coming again. His Death took his Perſonal Preſence from us; and therefore till that Return, we muſt continue the Remembrance, that is, of his Absence, till the Glorious Return of his Viſible Body; which was ſeparated from us by his Death.

Thus no advantage can be brought to the Quaker Pretences againſt the Chriſtian Sacraments, from the Sacrifices and other Signs or Figures under the Law.

VI. We come now to Examine, what they ſet up againſt any Signs or Figures under the Goffel, from another Topick; and that is, That the Goffel is all Subſtance, and therefore that there muſt be no Sign or Figure at all in it.

Anſw. By Subſtance here they mean that which is Inward, or Spiritual, that every thing in the Goffel is Spiritual.

But this will overthrow all outward, or Bodily Worſhip. For that is diſtinguiſhed from Spiritual, or Inward Worſhip.

And, in one sense, all Bodily Worship is a Sign or Figure of the Inward, or Spiritual; which is the Principal and Substantial Worship. Thus Bowing the Knee, or Uncovering the Head at Prayer, are Signs or Figures of the Inward Reverence and Devotion of the Heart.

And this the Quakers practise; therefore, by their own Argument, they have Signs and Figures as well as others; only they throw off those of Christ's Institution, and make new ones of their own.

It is impossible to be without Signs and Figures. For this whole World is a Figure of that which is to come. We our selves are Figures of God, being Images of him: And what is an Image but the Figure or Sign of a Thing? Christ is a Figure of God, being the Express Image of his Person, Heb. i. 3. And we now have the Knowledge of God in the Face of Jesus Christ. God is a Light Inaccessible to Angels, as well as unto Men, without some Medium: His Essence cannot be seen or known Immediately, by any but Himself. All Creatures partake of him in Signs and Figures of him; each in their several Degrees; there are Higher and more Noble Figures; but all are Figures. And God has, in all Ages, through the World, Dispensed himself to Mankind in Signs and Figures; we cou'd not otherwise apprehend Him. Christ is the most Noble and Lively Figure of God: Therefore his Dispensation is far beyond all others that went before him. Yet even now, We see through a Glass darkly, 1 Cor. xiii. 12. or, in a Riddle; as our Margent reads it, ἐν ἀνύμωτον, in a Figure.

What is the Bible that we read, what are Words but the Signatures, the Signs or Figures of Things? We can see the Essence of no one thing in the World, more than of God. And what are all those Accidents of Colour, Quantity and Quality, by which we distinguish Things, but so many Figures, or Signs of them?

So very wild is that Notion, that there must be no Signs or Figures under the Gospel!

It would be much Truer, if they had said, That there are nothing else but Signs and Figures: There is nothing else without a Figure but God! For all Creatures are Figures of Him, Christ, the Highest.

But have the Quakers no Figures? G. Fox in his Saul's Errand, p. 14. says, That Christ's Flesh is a Figure. They call the Body of Christ generally, a Figure, a Vail, a Garment. Then either they have none of it, or they have Figures. Richard Hubberthorn wrote, That Christ's coming in the Flesh was but a Figure: He meant of the Inward coming of Christ, or the Light in the Heart, which they call the Substance and the Mystery; of which Christ's Outward coming in the Flesh, they say, was but a Shadow, or the History (to use their own words.) G. Fox made a great Mystery, or Figure of his Marriage, which, he said, Was above the State of the first Adam, in his Innocency; in the State of the second Adam that never fell. He wrote, in one of his General Epistles to the Churches, (which were read, and valu'd by the Quakers, more than St. Paul's,) That his Marriage was a Figure of the Church coming out of the Wilderness. This, if deny'd, I can Vouch undeniably, but it will not be deny'd, tho' it be not Printed with the rest of his Epistles, but I have it from some that read it often. But why was it not Printed? That was a sad Story. But take it thus. He Marry'd one Margaret Fell, a Widdow, of about Threescore Years of Age; and this Figure of the Church must not be Barren; therefore, tho' she was past Child-bearing, it was expected, that, as Sarah, she shou'd miraculously Conceive, and bring forth an Isaac; which G. Fox promis'd and boasted of, and some that I know have heard him do it, more than once. She was call'd, The Lamb's Wife. And it was said amongst the Quakers, That the Lamb had now taken his Wife, and she wou'd bring forth an Holy Seed. And Big she grew, and all things were provided for the Lying in; and, he, being perswaded of it, gave notice to the Churches, as above observ'd. But, after long waiting, all prov'd Abortive, and the Figure was spoil'd. And now you may guess the Reason, why that Epistle which mention'd this Figure, was not Printed.

I wou'd have brought nothing into this Discourse that looks like a Jest; but they have compelled me. And it may be of use to them, to shew them, that while they throw off the Sacraments of Christ's Institution, upon the Pretence that there must be no Signs or Figures under the Gospel, they, at the same time, make Ridiculous Signs and Figures of G. Fox, and his Fantastical Marriage; and of several other things; every thing almost among them, is a Sign or Figure of something to come upon the World. How many of their Lying Prophets have call'd themselves Signs to the Men of their Generation, as the Holy Prophets were in their Day?

VII. There have been Outward Signs, in all the Institutions of Religion, since the beginning of the World; as well before, as under the Law, and now under the Gospel. Only they have been vary'd, or Ended according to what they præfigur'd. Thus those Signs which had no further Tendency, than to point out what Christ did or suffer'd upon Earth, are fulfill'd and therefore Ended.

But there were some Signs, which, though they pointed to Christ upon Earth, had yet a further Tendency: For Signs may be appointed to more Ends than one. Thus the Institution of the Sabbath was appointed for the Commemoration of God's Rest from the Works of the Creation, Gen. ii. 3. and Exod. xx. 11. and likewise the rest of the Children of Israel (who were the Type of the Church) from their Captivity and Slavery in Egypt, Deut. v. 15. (which expresses the Servitude of Sin and Hell) and their final Rest in Canaan (the Type of Heaven) after their forty Years wandering in the Wilderness, (which represent the Labours of this Life.) But this was not the Ultimate Rest, or Sabbath, Heb. iv. 18. For if Joshua had given them Rest, then wou'd he not afterward have spoken of another Day; there remaineth therefore ουβανισμός, the keeping of a Sabbath (which signifies Rest) to the People of God. For he that is entred into his Rest, he also hath ceased from his own Works, as God did from his. Thus Christ, as he suffered the 6th Day of the Week, the same Day that Man was created, and fell; so, on the same Day on which God Rested from his Work of Creation, viz. the 7th Day, did Christ Rest in his Grave, from his Work of Redemption. And there is yet a farther Rest or Sabbath beyond this; and that is, the Eternal Rest in Heaven, Heb. iv. 11. Let us labour therefore to enter into that Rest.

Now, though several Significations of the Sabbath are already past, as the Deliverance out of Egypt; the Entrance into

Canaan;

Canaan; and the Rest of Christ, in his Grave: Yet there being one behind, that is the Sabbath of Heaven, therefore do we still keep the Sabbath as a Type of it.

But there is another Reason for the Continuance of the Sabbath; and that is, That it was not only ordained as a Type of Things to come; but as a Commemoration of what was past, viz. Of God's Rest from his Works of Creation. And, by the Alteration of the Day of the Sabbath, it serves likewise to us Christians, as a Commemoration of the Resurrection of Christ, and his Conquest over the Powers of Death and Hell. It was the first Day in which Light was created; and Christ (who is our True Light, of which the Visible Light is but a Shadow, and was ordain'd as a Type) Arose from the Dead, the same Day; and gave Light to those who sat in Darkness, and the Shadow of Death, by the Joyful Tidings of our Redemption from Hell, and Eternal Bliss in Heaven!

Now so long as the Works of our Creation and Redemption are to be kept in Memory, so long is the Sabbath to continue, as a Commemoration of these Inestimable Benefits.

And, by the same Reason, so long as we ought to commemorate the Death and Passion of our Lord; so long ought the Sacrament of it to continue; which he Instituted in Remembrance of it; and commanded it to be continu'd till his Coming again.

Thus you see that there are Signs under the Gospel; not only the two Sacraments of the Church (which flowed distinctly out of Christ's Side, after his Death, upon the Cross) but that the Gospel does still retain the Signs of Commemoration, which have descended down to us all the way from the Creation: And likewise such Signs or Types as have yet a Prospect forward, and are not wholly fulfill'd.

And 3dly, The Signs of Present Signification, as the outward Acts of Worship: To which we are as much, nay more strictly obliged under the Gospel, than they were under the Law. As St. Irenæus argues, (advers. Hæres. l. 4. c. 34.) That the manner of Worship, as of Sacrifices, is chang'd: but not the Worship abolished. Non Genus oblationis Reprobatum est, oblationes enim & illic, oblationes autem & hic: Sacrificia in Populo, Sacrificia & in Ecclesia; sed Species Immutata est tantum. i. e. The Kind or Nature of the Offering is not Abolished; for there were Offerings under the Law, and there are Offerings also under the Gospel: there were Sacrifices among the People of the Jews. There are Sacrifices likewise in the Church: but the Species or Manner of them only is changed, viz. That some Sacrifices under the Law were Bloody, as Præfiguring the Death of Christ: and therefore that Sort or Manner of Sacrificing is ceased, because Fulfill'd in the Death of Christ: But their Un-bloody Sacrifices, and Oblations, as of Tythes, and other Offerings Remain still among Christians: and are Signs, as much as they were under the Law. The outward Worship of God must be by Actions pro- tren. ibid. per and significant. Nihil enim Otiosum, nec sine Signo, nec sine Argumento apud eum. i. e. For there is nothing Empty, nor without a Sign, nor without Signification in the Worship of God. And, in the very next words, he applies this to Tythes. Et propter hoc illi quidem Decimas — And for this reason the Jews paid Tythes, viz. as a Sign of their Dependence upon God, and having Receiv'd All from Him: And in Hopes of their Receiving More from Him. Sed nos omnia — But the Christians, instead of a Tenth Part, which the Jews gave, Give All that they have, because (says he) they have a Better Hope. And, ch. 27. shewing how Christ did Heighten the Law, as, instead of Adultery, to forbid Lust; instead of Murder, to forbid Anger; and, instead of giving the Tythe, commanding to sell All: And this, says he, is not a Dissolving of the Law, Matth. v. 17, 18. but Enlarging it. So that no Part of the Law is Destroy'd; and All is not Fulfill'd; and since All must be Fulfill'd, it follows, that what is not yet Fulfill'd, must yet Remain: And Many of the Signs in the Law not being Fulfill'd in Christ's Death, nor ever to be Fulfill'd while we Live upon this Earth, consequently do Remain, and must so Remain to the End of the World. So that the Gospel has Signs as well as the Law; and, in Great Part, the same Signs; with other Sacramental Signs added by Christ, which are those of which we now Treat, Baptism, and The Supper of The Lord.

VIII. And let us Reflect, that ever since God made outward Things, and gave us this Body, as the Soul does act by the Mediation of the Body; so has God ordain'd, that his Gifts and Graces

Graces shall be convey'd to us by Outward Signs and Means.

Christ us'd outward Signs and Means for his Miraculous Cures; to shew, that tho' the Vertue did not come from the Means, yet that they were of Use, and not to be Despisd.

But why do we say, that the Vertue does not come from the Means? We say so, when we cannot tell the Reason and Manner how the Means work their Effect, and can we tell it, in those which we call Natural Means? No surely, we know only by Observation, and Experience; and what often comes to pass, we call it Natural, as being the common Course of Things; not that we know the Reason of it, more than of those Occurrences which we call Miraculous and Extraordinary.

Man doth not live by Bread alone, but by every Word that proceedeth out of the Mouth of God.

Bread has no Vertue of its own to nourish; but only what it receives from God: And if he give his Vertue (for it is His only) to a Stone; or any thing else, it will nourish: And Bread will, and does cease to nourish, when he withdraws his Blessing from it.

Therefore the Spittle of Christ and the Clay, the Waters of Siloam and Bethesda, and the Brazen-Serpent had as great Vertue to Cure, when they were Appointed by God, as Bread has to nourish; and the Vertue came as much from Them, as it does from the Bread, in our Daily Food.

Now, if the Brazen-Serpent, which was but a Type of Christ, had Vertue to Cure the Body; shall we deny that the Bread, which Christ blessed, for the Remission of Sin, has Vertue to work that Effect?

He whose single Fiat made the Worlds, and whose Influence gives Power to all Things, and makes them what they are; he said of that Blessed Bread, THIS IS MY BODY. And his Holy Apostle said of it, The Bread which we break, is it not the Communion of the Body of Christ? And do we doubt, how it works this Effect? Dare we Reject it, because it seems strange to us, how it shou'd work this Effect, who know as little how our Daily Bread does nourish our Bodies? Do we object our Ignorance how a Man can be Born of Water and the Spirit, who can give as short an Account how we are formed, of a drop of Water, in the Womb; and by what Ligaments such different Na- tares as Soul and Body, are compacted and linked together? How can we pretend to have Faith in Christ, and yet not believe his Words, because of the seeming difficulty to our Understandings (who know nothing) of the Method and Manner, how He can bring them to pass?

According to our Faith it will be unto us. Therefore let us Humble our Souls greatly, and imitate the Holy Angels (far more Enlightned than we are) who vail their Faces before God; and presume not to dispute his Commands; or pretend to understand all the Methods of his Power and Wisdom unsearchable! but desire to look into those Things, 1 Pet. i. 12. those Glorious Mysteries of the Gospel, which the Quakers despise, as below the Measure to which they have attain'd! And the Principalities and Powers in Heavenly places, do submit to learn the Manifold Wisdom of God, Ephes. iii. 10. from that Church, which the Quakers do vilifie and trample under their feet; as thinking it incapable to teach them any thing, or to administer to them the Sacraments which Christ has commanded.

But because the Dispute will arise which that Church is, in the miserable Divisions of Christendom, and amongst the various sorts of the Pretenders to it, I have in the Discourse mention'd in the Advertisement, I hope, given a plain and sure Rule to guide all Honest and Disinterested Enquirers, in that most necessary and fundamental Point.

The Conclusion.

Shewing the Necessity of Water-Baptism.

THE Sum of what has been said, concludes in the great Necessity there is of Water-Baptism.

But before I say more of it, I will obviate an Objection, which may arise from the word Necessary.

If it be Absolutely Necessary, then none can be saved without it: Which sort of Necessity I do not plead for. This is plainly distinguished in the Catechism of our Church, where this, and the other Sacrament (of the Lord's Supper) are said to be Generally necessary to Salvation. Generally, that is, in the General and Common Methods which are prescribed in the Gospel. For no Body will pretend to Limit GOD; as if HE cou'd not save by what Means and Methods HE pleases. But we are ty'd up to those Rules which HE has Prescribed to Us: Yet We must not Tie HIM up to those Rules, to which HE has Ty'd Us.

But who are they who have Reason to expect God's Extraordinary Mercies, out of the Common Methods of Salvation; and to be made Partakers of the Inward, without the Outward Baptism?

I. Those who being conscientiously concern'd for the Outward, yet cannot obtain it, through the Want of a Minister of Christ, Lawfully Ordain'd to Administer it; as in Turkey, Africa, &c.

These are under an Invincible Necessity: And their Earnest Desires (I doubt not) will be accepted by God; and the Spiritual Baptism be confer'd upon them, without the Outward.

II. Those who have been Baptised by Persons, not lawfully Ordain'd, and consequently they have receiv'd no Baptism, having receiv'd it from those who had no Commission to Admini- ster it; but who were Guilty of the Highest Sacrilege, in Usurping such a Sacred Commission, not Lawfully Deriv'd to them by a Successive Ordination from the Apostles: But yet, through a General Corruption of the Times, such Baptisms are suffer'd to pass, whereby the Persons so Baptized, swimming down the Stream, do think their Baptism to be valid, and therefore seek not for a Re-Baptization from those who are truly Empowred to Administer it. I say, Where no such Re-Baptization is taught, and thereby the People know nothing of it; in such Case, their Ignorance is, in a Manner, Invincible; and their Sincerity and Devotion in Receiving No Sacraments, yet thinking them True Sacraments, may be Accepted by God, and the Inward Grace confer'd, and the Defects in the Outward and Visible Signs may be Pardon'd.

But neither of these Cases does reach those, who neglect the Outward Means, upon Pretence of Inward Perfection without them. These Despise the Ordinance of Christ, and make themselves Wiser than He; as if He had appointed Means either Unnecessary, or Ineffectual to the Ends for which they were intended.

And I desire these, to consider the Great Necessity there is for Water-Baptism, as before Explain'd.

1. Because it is ordain'd as the Means whereby the Inward Baptism of the Holy-Ghost is given, as I before quoted, Acts ii. 38. Be BAPTIZED, and ye shall Receive the Gift of the HOLY GHOST. By This Baptism, cou'd not be meant the Baptism with the Holy Ghost, because This Baptism is Here propos'd as the Means whereby to Receive the Inward Baptism of the Holy Ghost.

Again, Ephes. v. 26. That He (Christ) might Sanctifie and Cleanse it (the Church) with the Washing of Water, by the Word. Here the Washing of Water is the Means, tho' the Operation and Vertue is from the Word: And therefore the Outward Washing or Baptizing (which means the same, as before told, Sect. 1.) cannot be the same with the Word in this Text.

2. Christ having appointed this as the Means, you see what Stress He lays upon it, and how Necessary He makes it.

John iii. 5. Except a Man be Born of Water and the Spirit, he cannot Enter into the Kingdom of God. Here the Water, and the Spirit are plainly Distinguished, and Both made Necessary to Salvation, the Outward as well as the Inward: As it is written, Rom. x. 10. For with the Heart Man Believeth, unto Righteousness; And with the Mouth Confession is made unto Salvation. The Belief of the Heart is Necessary unto Righteousness, i. e. to make Us Righteous before God: But the Outward Confession of the Mouth is likewise as Necessary to our Salvation. As Christ said, (Matt. x. 32.) Whosoever shall Confess me before Men, &c. We must Outwardly, and before Men, Confess to Christ, by the Due Performance of His Outward Ordinances; without which our Inward Belief in Him will not be sufficient to our Salvation. Baptism is an Outward Badge of Christianity, by being the Outward Form, appointed to admit Men as Members of the Church of Christ; and whereby they own themselves to be such, before Men: But those who will not wear this BADGE, as a Confession to Christ, before Men; Christ will not Confess them, before His Father, in Heaven.

Mark xvi. 16. He that Believeth and is Baptized, shall be saved. Here both the Outward and the Inward are join'd together; and both made Necessary; For, by Baptism, Here, cannot be meant the Inward Belief, that wou'd make a Tautology of the Text, and mean thus, He that Believeth and Believeth — Thus it must be, if by Baptism, in this Text, the Inward Baptism, or Belief of the Heart be meant. But this being plainly meant of the Outward Baptism, the Consequence from this Text is plainly this, That he who doth not Believe, and is not Baptized, shall not be Saved. Of which I adjure the Quakers to Consider most seriously: For tho' they had the Inward Baptism as much as they Pretend to it, yet were the Outward necessary. Peter thought Water necessary to give Outward Baptism to those who had already Received the Inward Baptism of the Holy Ghost, Acts x. 47.

And the Doctrine of Baptism is reckon'd among the Principles and Foundations of Christianity, together with Faith and Repentance, &c. Heb. VI. 1, 2.

But the Quakers, like Naaman, flout at the Means, as too easie to be effectual; and call Baptism, in contempt, Water-Sprinkling. And I will answer them with Naaman's Servants, (2 Kings v. 13.) If Christ had bid thee do some great thing, wouldst wouldst thou not have done it? How much rather then when He saith to thee, Wash and be Clean? And as necessary as the Waters of Jordan were to the Cleansing of Naaman, so necessary are the Waters of Baptism to the Cleansing of our Souls. None dare say, that GOD cou'd not have Cleanfed Naaman otherwise: But GOD having, by his Prophet, appointed that Means, if Naaman had neglected it, he had not otherwise been Cured. How much more, when GOD has appointed the Means of Baptism, by his Son, if we Neglect it, shall we be Sav'd without it? He that Despis'd Moses's Law, dyed without Mercy: Of how much sorer Punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Institution of the Son of GOD, and counted it an unholy thing, doing Despight to it, Inventing Contemptible Names for it, and Ridiculing the Administration of it? But as the Spirit of God moved, at first, upon the Face of the Waters (Gen. 1. 2.) to Impregnate them, and make them Fructifie; and gave a Miraculous Vertue to the Waters of Jordan, of Siloam, and Bethesda, for Healing of the Flesh; Why shou'd we Doubt that the same Spirit can and will Sanctifie the Waters of Baptism to the Mystical Washing away of Sin, having the Positive Institution and Promise of Christ for it? Acts II. 38. Repent and be Baptized, every one of you, in the Name of Jesus Christ, for the Remission of Sins, and ye shall Receive the Gift of the Holy Ghost.

This was not the Extraordinary Gift of Miracles, which is here Promised, (and which all Baptized Persons did not Receive or Expect) but the Remission of Sins. And let me add, That the Ordinary Saving Graces of the Spirit, which work silently, without Observation or Show, are much Preferable, and more Desirable, than the Extraordinary Gift of Miracles, which, for a time, were Necessary, at the first Propagation of the Gospel; and held Men's Eyes in Great Admiration: But were of Dangerous Consequence to the Possessors, and a Temptation often to Vanity; which had almost over-set the Great Apostle, 2 Cor. xii. 7, 8, 9. and threw others into the Pit of Destruction, Matth. vii. 22, 23. 1 Cor. xiii. 2. and therefore were not to be Pray'd for, or Desir'd: We must be totally Passive in this Case; and when sent, being for the Conviction of others, to Receive such an Extraordinary Gift, with Fear and Trembling, lest it Hurt our weak Minds, not capable, but by as Extraordinary an Assistance of Divine Grace, to Bear such mighty Revelations, and not to let in with it a secret Pride in our selves; which spreads our Sails so wide, that without a Proportionable Ballast of deep Humility, we shall be driven from our Compass. The Enemy throws in this strong Temptation, with those Miraculous Gifts; which vain Men do Ignorantly Covet, and some falsely Pretend to, to their own Destruction. But much more Valuable are those Saving Graces, which we are commanded Daily to Pray for, and Daily to Endeavour: Much more Available to us, and Precious in the sight of God, than all Miraculous Gifts, is that Gift of The Holy Ghost, the Remission of Sins, which is Promis'd to the Due Reception of Baptism, and enrolls our Names in Heaven. Behold (said Christ to his Disciples, who Boasted, that even the Devils were subject to them, through His Name) I give unto you Power to tread on Serpents and Scorpions, and over all the Power of the Enemy; and nothing shall, by any means, hurt you; notwithstanding in this Rejoice not, that the Spirits are subject unto you; But rather Rejoice, because your Names are written in Heaven.

Luk. x. 17, 18,

To be added to the End of Sect. VIII. p. 34.

But R. Barclay argues in his Apology, That the Baptism, of which the Ark was a Type, cou'd not be the Outward, or Water-Baptism, because that it self is a Type, viz. Of the Inward or Spiritual Baptism. And he supports this Notion by a Criticism upon the Word Ἀρίτυπον in this Text, which he says is not rightly Translated in our English by The like Figure. Because, he says, the Word Ἀρίτυπον signifies the thing Typify'd, and not the Type.

But, by his leave, it signifies the quite contrary. Heb. ix. 24. not the thing Typify'd, but only the Type: For there the Holy Places made with Hands are call'd the Ἀρίτυπον, the Figures or Types of the True. And that Word is not to be found, except in these two Texts, in the whole New Testament. And therefore if one of these Texts must explain the other, the Word $\alpha\nu\tau\iota\tau\upsilon\pi\omicron\varsigma$, or Anti-Type, 1 Pet. iii. 21. must be taken in the same Sense, in which it is used, Heb. ix. 24. because there it cannot possibly be taken to mean the thing Typify'd, or the Archi-Type; therefore neither ought it to be so strain'd, as Barclay does, to mean the quite contrary, in the present Text. And our Translation is Justify'd, which renders $\alpha\nu\tau\iota\tau\upsilon\pi\omicron\varsigma$ the like Figure, as does the Vulgar, Similis forma. For both the Waters of the Ark, and of Baptism, are the outward and visible Signs, but not the thing signify'd, which is the Salvation of the Soul, by the Re-generation and Washing of the Spirit. And they are like Figures, both signifying the same thing, in a manner very like to one another. That as Noah, &c. were sav'd in the Ark by Water from Corporal Death, so are the True Believers sav'd by the Water of Baptism, from the Death of Sin and Hell. In which Sense the Ark was a Type of the outward or Water-Baptism, tho' both were Types, but one nearer than the other. And because the Baptism mentioned in this Text, 1 Pet. iii. 21. is an $\alpha\nu\tau\iota\tau\upsilon\pi\omicron\varsigma$, a Type or Figure; therefore it must be the Outward and Water-Baptism, which is here meant. For the Inward and Spiritual Baptism is not the Type or Figure, but the thing signify'd. And thus Rob. Barclay's Argument and Criticism has turn'd into a full Demonstration of the direct contrary of that for which he brought it: And has thoroughly Established the Divine Institution of the Outward or Water-Baptism.

VINDICATION
 O F
Infant Baptism, &c.

S I R,

IT is now some considerable Time since you and I occasionally reviving some former Discourse, that had pass'd between us, about the Difference in our Persuasions; You desir'd to see my Arguments, and to consider them at your Leisure. I have now comply'd with that Request, but saw it necessary before I could do so, to enlarge and illustrate them a little, that they might come closer to many of those Scruples which I found sometimes alledged in these Controversies. If I give this as one Reason of my not complying sooner with your Desire, though I had other Reasons for this Delay; yet you are sensible how just an Excuse I have, in the few Minutes I can spare from the constant Engagement of my daily Business. You'll, perhaps, ask why I now send you this in Print, which I once seem'd to be averse to. But when I found you called in Mr. A— to answer my Argument from the 1 Cor. 7. 14. I apprehended the Debate might not continue between you and me alone; and therefore thought it better to submit to the Censure of the World, than to part with my Papers into private Hands, where the Design of them might be mistaken. I have carefully avoided all undue Reflections upon either Persons or Parties; hoping thereby that I should make no Man my Enemy by a candid Defence of what I firmly believe to be agreeable to the Laws of God and Christ; and being desirous whatever Difference there may be in our Persuasions; to observe strictly all Rules of Christian Charity, Love and Friendship. I'll detain you no longer in the Way of Preface, but beg you fairly to consider the following Arguments.

C H A P. I.

THE most considerable Objections that I have yet met with against the Baptism of Infants, are these Four:

I. It is pleaded, that it is an unreasonable Practice, in that Infants are not capable of knowing any Thing of the Covenant into which they are admitted by it.

II. That it is contrary to the Institution of our Saviour, which, you say, requiring Persons to be first Instructed before Baptized, thereby excludes Infants as incapable of that Antecedent Instruction.

III. That it is an unwarrantable, and unlawful Practice, in that there is no Precept, nor Command, nor Authority for it in all the Word of God.

IV. and Lastly, That there is no mention at all made of such Practice in all the NEW TESTAMENT.

Now if it be made appear, that none of these Objections have any just Force in them, this, I think, will be sufficient to vindicate the Church of England, in retaining this Ancient and Pious Practice.

I. The First Objection is, That it is an unreasonable Practice, in that Infants are not capable of knowing any Thing of the Covenant; The Want of which Knowledge, and the Incapacity thereupon, is thought to make their Baptism unreasonable and absurd. But if all other Objections have no more Force than this, they will admit of a very quick Dispatch.

I. In that it is not at all disagreeable to the Reason of Mankind for Infants to be bound in Covenants, to the future Performance of Conditions; which they at present know nothing at all of, nor can be capable of performing, till they come to Age. This is common among Men, and practised almost every Day. Every Will, and every Conditional Settlement of an Estate on Heirs, is a Covenant: And every Contract that a Guardian makes for a Minor, is made in that Infant's Name, and he is bound by it, and really enjoys the Benefits of it, in Expectation of a future Performance of the Conditions by him. And Baptism is only the Seal of a Covenant or Contract between God and Man: Why then should it be thought strange, or incredible, that God should thus deal with us in a Dispensation of Grace and Mercy?

2. If the Incapacity of Infants were in the Nature of Things a necessary Bar, it must be an Universal and Indispensable One, and must exclude Infants from all Covenants with God whatever, whether of Works, or of Grace; whether by the Law, or by the Gospel. For what arises absolutely from the Nature of Things, must needs be Universal, and Perpetual; and must have always the same Influence.

But that the Incapacity of Infants is not an Universal and Perpetual Bar to all Covenants, our Adversaries themselves, I hope, will grant; in that Infants were admitted into a Covenant with God under the Law. If then God admits Infants into a Covenant under the Law; he may do so under the Gospel too, if he pleases. And if God may do so, it can be neither Improper nor Unreasonable, nor in the Nature of Things Absurd. The Difference in the Conditions or Substance of the Covenant makes nothing in the Case; the one being Law, the other Gospel, the one of Works and the other of Grace, is nothing to the Purpose; because Infants are equally incapable of understanding both. And where the whole Stress lies in the Incapacity of the Subject, it must have as much Force in the One as in the Other. If it be said God may admit them but does not: This is running before-hand to a new Objection, that shall be considered in its proper place. The only Thing now in debate is, whether the Natural Incapacity of Infancy be in it self a necessary Bar; if it be, this must be alledged as an universal Obstacle to all Covenants as well as to this; we plainly see that it is not an universal Obstacle, because God hath admitted them into Covenant with him, and bound them to the Performance of Conditions by that Covenant; Therefore this Objection is of no Force, in that it does not necessarily conclude. Mr. Keach, p. 85.
This, indeed, some of your Persuasion seem to grant.

If then the Incapacity of Infants is not in the Nature of Things a Necessary and Universal Bar to all Covenants in general: I am to enquire whether there be any thing in the Christian Covenant peculiarly that excludes them from thence.

C H A P. II.

THE Second Objection is, That Infants as incapable of understanding the Covenant, and believing and repenting; are by our Saviour's Institution Prohibited and Excluded from Baptism; for, say you, the Apostles were to make Disciples by Instruction before they were to Baptize them. Matt. 28. 19. Go, teach all Nations, and then Baptize them.

them. And Mark 16. 15, 16. He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved. This, say you, is the great Charter of the Gospel, which requiring Persons that are to be baptized, to be first made Disciples by actual Profession and Believing: Does in so doing, exclude all that cannot be taught and believe?

I answer, In this Commission Christ had a more peculiar Regard to the Persons to whom the Apostles were first and more immediately sent; who were, indeed, Men and Women; and therefore he mentions such Qualifications antecedent to Baptism, as in Reason and the Nature of Things were indispenfably necessary, considering the State of the World at that time. Men were almost universally revolted into Idolatry, Ignorance, Superstition, Profaneness, and other great Iniquities. And with these Qualifications it was not fit they should be admitted into a Covenant of Grace and Reconciliation with God. These were therefore first to be Converted and Reclaimed, and then Baptized. And this was the great Work to which the Apostles are here Commissioned. Now, if from hence you argue, that none ought to be baptized but those only who are thus taught and made Disciples by actual Belief: I must beg leave to ask, how you reconcile your Belief of Infants Salvation with these Texts? For they as much exclude Infants from Salvation, as from Baptism. I do not ask how Infants shall be saved; for in answer to that, you will say; Secret Things belong to God. But I ask, how you who do believe and confess that Infants may and shall be saved, do reconcile that Opinion with these Texts, and particularly with that of St. Mark, which does by the same Consequence prove, that Infants cannot be saved as that Infants ought not to be baptized. For observe the Argument, Christ says, Matt. 28. 19. Go make Disciples of all Nations and baptize them. And Mark 16. 15, 16. Preach the Gospel to every Creature, he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned: From whence you argue thus; None are to be baptized but those who are first made Disciples by believing; but Infants are not capable of believing; therefore they ought not to be Baptized. Now in the very same Manner one may argue thus, That Infants shall not be saved. He that believeth not shall be damned; Infants are not capable of Believing, Ergo, Infants must all be damned. This is just the same Way of Arguing without any Difference at all. How will you answer this? Will you set up for this Peice of Cruelty, that all Infants are damned? If not; you must say here as we do concerning Baptism: That these Texts are improperly and impertinently alledged in the Case of Infants; because they were never intended to extend to them. Otherwise, they will as certainly conclude against the Salvation of Infants, as against the Baptism of them, in that Faith and Repentance are as necessary to the one, as to the other.

The

The Matter then, in short, is this; Men and Women were first of all to be made Disciples by a Saving Faith; the Case of Children was a distinct Case to be considered afterwards; when their Parents had been first converted: And tho' believing was necessary in the Parents to be before their Baptism, yet this does not prove that their Infants were to be excluded from the Sacrament, because they could not actually believe.

But you'll reply, is not Faith then necessarily required of Persons to be baptized? I answer; Where the Apostles found Infidelity and Iniquity, they were necessarily to preach Faith and Repentance before they baptized. But the Scripture intimates, that the Innocence of harmless Babes (whose original Guilt is done away by Christ) and who never offended him by any actual Transgression, is as pleasing to God, and as agreeable a Qualification for the Admission into a Covenant of Grace and Mercy, and sealing that Covenant by the Sacrament of Baptism; as either the Faith of the actual Believer, or the Repentance of the Penitent. Christ has said of us all, That unless we become as little Children, Mat. 18. 3. that is, for their lovely Innocence, we shall in no wise enter into the Kingdom of God. I do not argue whether he spake this with a particular Respect to the Baptism of Infants or no. I urge not that: But I speak of the Qualifications that recommend us to God's Favour and Mercy: And Christ does here declare, That their Innocence is as grateful to him, as any Man's Faith and Repentance: And for this Reason, they ought not to be excluded.

The Truth of what I now maintain, I think, is sufficiently prov'd from the very Nature of this Sacrament. Baptism, as I understand it, is a Seal for the Confirmation of that Covenant which God has made with Mankind in Jesus Christ; and that Covenant is on God's Part a free Promise, and Engagement to grant Mercy, and Salvation through the Blood of Christ, to All, whose actual Sins do not render them incapable of, and exclude them from it. From whence I argue thus; Those that are not in a State of actual Sin, are capable of being admitted into this Covenant, and thereby entitled to the Promises; for nothing but Sin made us at first obnoxious to Death, and nothing but the Guilt of Sin can exclude us from eternal Life: And those that are capable of being admitted into the Covenant, and entitled to the Promises, are capable of that Sacrament which is the Seal of it. This, I think, is a good Conclusion. Infants therefore, tho' by Nature born in Sin, yet being reconcil'd to God, I don't say by Baptism, but by the Blood of Jesus Christ, are capable of Admission into the Covenant by Baptism, which is the Seal of it, tho' they do not actually believe. For this Reason it is, that that the Church of England has so judiciously declar'd, That Infants baptized, and dying before they commit any actual Transgression, are undoubtedly saved. For, dying in a State of Reconciliation, and having the Promises of God confirmed by this Seal: They are safe, having not by any actual Violation of the Covenant forfeited the Claim. This I cannot but think a reasonable Way of Arguing from the Nature of this Sacrament and Covenant: And if it be, these Texts do not exclude Infants, either directly, or by Consequence.

And, methinks, it favours of Rashness and Inconsideration, to think, that because God has required Faith, and Repentance of Men in a State of Sin, and under the Power of abominable Lusts; and consequently, altogether unfit to be admitted into Covenant till they abjure their Idolatry, and abandon their Vices: That therefore innocent Babes who never offended shall not be admitted through want of the same Qualifications. The different Circumstances, and Conditions of the Persons; is a sufficient Proof that the same Qualifications are not necessarily required in both. But I foresee some Objections which I will briefly consider, and then proceed.

1. It is pleaded, that Capacity gives no Right; you may have a Capacity to be a Justice of Peace, but must have a Commission before you ought to act as such. And tho' the Innocence of Babes be thus acceptable to God, and he does for Christ's sake save them, yet this will not at all countenance their being baptized; because it is no where commanded. I answer, That if this be all, then the Case is changed, and the Objection is not that Infants are excluded, but that their Baptism is no where commanded. I was only now to prove, that nothing in the Nature of this Sacrament does necessarily exclude them. Infants being in a State of Reconciliation and Favour, does, I think, sufficiently prove that. How far a particular Command is necessary to be added to this Capacity, is another Question that shall be consider'd in its place.

2. I may possibly be asked, how I reconcile this Doctrine to our Church-Catechism, which teaches, that Faith and Repentance are required of Persons to be Baptized? Indeed, I think, the Answer is easie; for the Catechism speaks first indefinitely, without any respect to Adults or Infants, as Christ has done in Matt. 28. and declares what in general are the Conditions of the Covenant, and consequently not of this Sacrament only, but of our Salvation also: And these are Faith, and Repentance, which every one that enters into this Covenant, when they come to Age, are obliged to. But it no where declares, that actual Faith, and actual Repentance are universally necessary to all Persons sons whatever, that shall be admitted to this Sacrament. No, it declares the Contrary; that tho' Infants, by reason of their tender Age, cannot perform these Conditions; yet they are baptized, not upon their Sureties Faith, or believing by Proxy: But upon the Expectation grounded on their Engagement, that the Children shall be taught and exhorted to perform them afterwards. And this, I think, is agreeable to what I have here maintained.

3. It may possibly be objected, That if this Doctrine be true, it will from hence follow, that the Infant-Children of Turks, Jews, and Pagans may be as capable of Baptism, as the Children of Believers; because they are innocent as well as others, and have their original Guilt as well expiated by the Blood of Christ. I answer, Infants as to Covenants, and Privileges are reputed in the same Estate, and Right with their Parents, and that because being under their Tuition its presumed they will have the same Principles and Persuasion. And therefore, as the Children of Unbelievers on this account may in some Sense be said to be Partakers of their Parents Infidelity; as they are like to be brought up in it: For this Reason they are denied Baptism. Otherwise they are capable, and may be admitted wherever there is sufficient Satisfaction given to the Church; that they shall be educated in the Christian Religion. And the Reason why they are not admitted now, is only on this Account, because it would be preposterous to admit Children into a Religion which they were never likely to be instructed, and educated in afterwards. But, I say, could the Church be assur'd, that they would be instructed, and educated in that Faith; they also might be baptized, and nothing in our Saviour's Commission necessarily excludes them.

4. and Lastly, If it be objected, That this Doctrine makes the Baptism of Infants unnecessary, in that if they were in a State of Reconciliation and Favour before Baptism; they can profit nothing by being baptized. I answer, I did not undertake to prove that the Baptism of Infants was absolutely necessary to their Salvation; but that it is lawful, and not at all disagreeable to Christ's Institution; and therefore no just Cause of the Separation from the Communion of our Church; which is all that I now contend for.

C H A P. III.

THE Third Objection is, That it is an Unwarrantable, and Unlawful Practice to baptize Infants, because there is, you say, no Precept, nor Command, nor Authority for it in all the Word of God: And this is the Sheet-Anchor on which you lay the greatest Strefs. For when we can demonstrate by God's own Authority, and Example, that the natural Incapacity of Infants is no necessary Bar to exclude them from the Seal of the Covenant; you reply, all this is nothing, because there was an express and positive Command for Circumcising Infants, but there is none at all for Baptizing them; and when we argue that Faith and Repentance are made as necessary to Salvation as they are to Baptism; and consequently do no more exclude Infants from this Sacrament than from Salvation; you plead, that tho' they are capable and within the Covenant of Grace, yet they ought not to be Baptized, because it is not Commanded. In Christianity nothing is to be done without the express Authority of God's Word.

And here you load us with heavy Charges of pretending to take the Word of God for our only Rule of Faith and Manners, and yet to keep Unscriptural Ordinances, and do that which the whole Word of God speaks not one Word of from the Beginning to the End. So that we of the Church of England are guilty of adding to the Divine Laws of God in the most weighty Matters of Christianity without his Authority: Teaching for Doctrine the Commandments of Men. This is a severe Charge, of which if we were indeed guilty, it must needs be heavy upon us at the last Great Day. And that we may be the better prepared then, let it be considered fairly what we have to alledge in our Defence now.

First, This Argument may easily be turned upon you; the Baptism of Infants, you say, is no Gospel-Ordinance; 'tis not Commanded, and therefore it is unlawful. I reply, 'tis no where forbidden, and therefore it is not unlawful.

And this Argument of no Prohibition is of more than ordinary Force here; in that God all along in both the former Covenants of Abraham and Moses having commanded Infants to be admitted, and sealed by the Sacrament, which was ordained for the Confirmation thereof: When he changed the Ordinance, and instituted Baptism to be the Seal of his Covenant, it was then proper to have declared, if Infants that were fit Subjects to receive the Seal of it before, should now be excluded.

For

For his having given no exprefs Prohibition, goes a great way to vindicate the Lawfulness of this Practice; in that it seems to show his Pleasure, that they should be continued to have the Seal of the Covenant as they had had before. For if ever Prohibition was to be expected, to declare a Thing unlawful; it was to the Abolishing a Practice that had been so long established, and received; I mean the admitting Infants into Covenant with him.

2. But Secondly, We have the Authority of God for this Practice in two Respects. 1. The Authority of his own Example. 2. Of his Command in his revealed Word and Laws.

1. We have the Authority of God's Example for our Warrant in this Practice; and as Mr. Keach, I remember, confesses, Page 35, 36, that an Apostolical Practice, or a Gospel-Precedent is of equal Authority with a Gospel-Precept: So, I hope, it will be allowed that a Divine Precedent, from the Example of God, is of the same Authority also, when the Nature of Things, and the Circumstances are alike.

But before I explain this Argument, I cannot but observe to you by that little I have seen in these Controversies, that the naming of such an Argument will raise some Mens Wonder, who being quicker to wrangle about Words than to weigh the Reason of Things; will break out into Exclamations, and say; Prove Baptism of Infants from the Example of God! Did Christ ever baptize an Infant? Is there one Syllable of such a Practice in all Sacred Writ? This must be the Old Thred-bare Argument from the Analogy between Baptism and Circumcision. Infants under the Law, or before it were Circumcised, Ergo, they may be Baptized, and what a Non-sequitur is this?

But, Sir, after all that Raillery and Disdain with which this Argument is treated, which has, indeed, been often urged, and as often laughed at; yet I must confess, I cannot despise it, but am perswaded that there is great Force in it, if it be stated well, and set in a true Light.

I do not then insist that one was a Type of the other, nor argue from a bare Analogy, as to Jewish Church Membership, or the like, but my Argument is this; Baptism is now the Seal of the Covenant which was once sealed by Circumcision; Infants were by God's own Command admitted then, Ergo, Infants may be admitted now: Or thus, God did admit Infants into a Covenant of Grace and Salvation, thro' Jesus Christ, and upon the Conditions of Faith and Obedience in that Covenant made with Abraham; and confirmed by the Seal of Circumcision; Baptism of Infants does but admit them into the same Covenant upon the same Conditions, and as a Seal confirms that Covenant to them: Ergo, in Baptizing Infants we act by God's own Authority and Example; for we do no more in baptizing them than by God's own Ordinance was done in Circumcising them. The Rite, indeed, is changed, it was Circumcising; it is now Baptism: What then? The Use of both these Rites is still the same; the One is a Seal of the Covenant of God, and so is the Other a Seal of the same Covenant. And so after all the pretended Non-sequiturs in this Argument from Circumcision to Baptism; when the Use or main Design of both these Rites, or Sacraments shall appear to be the same, the Argument will have Force, and the Change of the external Ordinances cannot lessen it.

In the Prosecution therefore of this Argument, I have Two Things which you will challenge me to prove.

1. That Circumcision, when enjoyned Abraham, was ordained to be the Seal of that Covenant which God made with him.

2. That the Covenant with Abraham was the same with ours, that is a Covenant of Grace and Salvation through Jesus Christ, and upon the Conditions of Faith and Obedience.

And if these Propositions be found true, the Consequence, I think, will be so clear as to want no Proof.

First, That Circumcision, when enjoyned Abraham, was ordained to be the Seal of that Covenant which God made with him. And this, I think, is very plain, both from the Original Institution of Circumcision in the Old Law, and the Explanations of it in the New: As to the Old Testament, God having made some Trial of Abraham, by calling him out of his own Country, and having found him readily observant in all that he commanded him; declares, Gen. 17. 2. that he will now establish a Covenant with him: I will make my Covenant between me and thee, and thou shalt be a Father of many Nations, Ver. 4. And again, Ver. 7. I will establish my Covenant between me and thee, and thy Seed after thee, in their Generations, for an everlasting Covenant, to be a God unto thee, and to thy Seed after thee. And as every Contract among Men must have its Sanction, and Establishment; so here, God declares after what Manner this Covenant should be confirmed, Ver. 10. This is my Covenant which ye shall keep between me and you, and thy Seed after thee; every Man-Child among you shall be Circumcised: Which Words do not make Circumcision the Substance of the Covenant, but only the Manner of Establishing, and Confirming it; as appears from the following Verse: And ye shall circumcise the Flesh of your Fore-skin, and it shall be a Token, or Sign of Covenant between me and you. And again, Ver. 13. My Covenant shall be in your Flesh, for an everlasting Covenant, that is, a Token or Pledge in your Flesh of an everlasting Covenant: For, as a Reverend

Bishop Patrick, in Loc.

Father of our own says, 'It was not a meer Mark where'by

'by they should be known to be Abraham's Seed, and distinguish'd from other Nations; but they were hereby made the Children of the Covenant, and intitled to the Blessings of it; and Circumcision was the Seal of it. And this is farther evident from the New Testament; for St. Paul in his Controversie with the Jews, about Justification, instances in Abraham, whom he declares to be justified not for his being circumcised, but for the Faith he had before it; Rom. 4. 11. He received the Sign of Circumcision, a Seal, or Pledge of the Righteousness of that Faith which he had yet being uncircumcised; a Seal of that Covenant by which God receives him as Righteous for his Faith. And thus St. Peter, Acts 7. 8. He gave him the Covenant of Circumcision, that is, he gave him the Covenant which he sealed, and confirmed by Circumcision; which is both a usual, and very intelligible way of speaking: So also St. Paul, Gal. 3. 15. Brethren, I speak after the Manner of Men, if it be but a Man's Covenant, yet if it be confirmed, no Man disannulleth, or addeth thereto. And again, Ver. 17. he speaks of the Covenant that was confirmed before of God in Christ, plainly alluding to this Covenant with Abraham, which was Sealed, and had its Confirmation by Circumcision.

2. The Second Observation was, that this Covenant with Abraham, of which Circumcision was the Seal, is the same Covenant with that which we Christians are now admitted into with God, by Christ. Mr. Keach, I remember, disowns this; and contrary to what I now maintain, offers this Argument, p. 47. That Covenant that was made to separate the natural Seed of Abraham from all other Nations of the World, and made sure unto them the Earthly Promise of the Land of Canaan; could not be a Covenant of Grace which concerns the Infant-Seed of Believers under the Gospel.

He who often finds Fault with other Peoples Logic, should take special Care of his own: Here was one little, but material Word omitted in this first Proposition: It should have run thus, That Covenant which was made only to separate, &c. The want of that only spoils the Consequence. It might be made thus to separate Abraham's Seed, and it might be made to other Ends too: And so it might be a Covenant of Grace, notwithstanding God intended by it that Distinction of his People also.

To prove then that the Covenant, besides the Promises it contained of a Land of Canaan, and a numerous Seed, was also a Covenant of Grace and Mercy, and Salvation in Jesus Christ, and consequently the same Covenant with ours: Be pleased, Sir, to consider,

1. That the Covenant was made on the same general Conditions.
2. That it contained the same general Promises.
3. That

3. That both were founded on the same Consideration, and had regard to the same Mediator Jesus Christ.

1. That this Covenant which God made with Abraham was founded on the very same Conditions, on which that is established, which we Christians make with God in Christ; the Sum of what the Gospel of Christ requires, in order to the Salvation of our Souls, is only a firm Faith and sincere Obedience: And if this be so, the Agreement in this respect is very exact; God having required Faith and Obedience by the Covenant which he made with Abraham, as strictly, and as indispensably, as he has done by Christ.

As to Faith, the Case is so very plain, and so universally acknowledged on all sides, that I shall need to say but little upon it: The Faith of Abraham was so eminently renown'd, and so illustrious a Pattern to all succeeding Ages, that to the everlasting Memory of it, he is distinguished by that signal Character, the Father of the Faithful; and all Christians in the World are called his Children, as we walk in the Steps of that Faith, Rom. 4. 12. And that this Faith was the Condition of Abraham's being received into Covenant, is evident not only from the Old Testament, which says, Gen. 15. 6. That he believed in the Lord, and it was accounted to him for Righteousness; but also from the New, in which St. Paul convinces the Jewish Converts, that the Works of the Law were not the Conditions of Justification and Salvation; because Abraham himself was justified by Faith, Rom. 4. 2, to 11. And that his Posterity were bound to this general Faith, is plain in St. Paul's Vindication of his Orthodoxy, on the very Account of his Believing all that is written in the Law, and in the Prophets, Acts 24. 14. And as Faith was one part of Abraham's Covenant, so Obedience was another: And this appears plainly by that Injunction which God gave him at the very same time that he was establishing his Covenant with him, Gen. 17. 12. The Lord appear'd unto Abraham, and said unto him, I am the Almighty God, walk before me, and be thou perfect: Which Words the Jews themselves look upon to be so much a Command of Universal Obedience, as from thence to conclude, that in Circumcision they all covenanted to have no other God but him. [See Bishop Patrick.]

2. As Abraham's Covenant is the same with ours in its Conditions, so it is in its Promises too. The Two great Blessings of the Gospel are Justification here, and eternal Life hereafter: As to the first of these, that Abraham was justified by his Faith, and that consequently Justification is one of the great Benefits and Blessings of the Covenant God made with him, is so plainly and expressly asserted in the Gospel, that it is needless to go about to prove it.

And

And that eternal Life in the World to come was promised to Abraham and his Posterity by Christ, as well as it is to us, appears from hence, that the Land of Canaan has always been looked on as a Type and Figure of Heaven; and that not only by us in these latter Ages of the World, but is so esteemed by St. Paul himself, Heb. 3. 1. And from the Account which the New Testament gives of the Spiritual Meaning and Design of the Old, when God declares to Abraham, That he would be his God, Gen. 17. 7. and to Isaac, Gen. 26. 3. and to Jacob, Gen. 28. 13; That he intended hereby to reward their Faith and Obedience with the Kingdom of Heaven, is evident from the Words of Christ; who from these Promises proves the Certainty of such a future State to the Jews, among whom it was controverted, Mat. 22. 31, 32. And St. Paul tells us, that Abraham and the Patriarchs expected such a Recompence to be couched under those Temporal Promises, Heb. 11. 13. where he says, These all died in Faith, not having actually received the Promises, that is, the Blessings promised, while they were on Earth; but having seen them afar off, and were perswaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were Strangers and Pilgrims on Earth, and desired, or looked for a better Country; that is to say, an heavenly. And what can be a better Proof that this was a Covenant of Grace, than to find the chief Blessings of the Gospel here promised by God, and believed and expected by the Patriarchs, on the very Conditions of the Gospel? But,

3. Lastly, Both these are founded on the same Consideration, and equally have respect to the same Mediator Jesus Christ. And for the Confirmation of this, we all know, that the Promises which God made to Abraham, saying, In thy Seed shall all the Nations of the Earth be blessed; are truly and readily fulfilled only in Jesus Christ. And as the Holy Spirit of God has taught us this, so Christ tells us, that Abraham himself understood it so: For discoursing with the Jews, about him, he said, John 8. 56. Your Father Abraham rejoiced, and desired to see my Day, and he saw it, and was glad, (i. e.) he was solicitous more perfectly to understand the Substance of these Promises, and he did understand them to be intended of me, and was delighted in the Contemplation.

But whether all that succeeded this Patriarch had the same particular Communication of this great Mystery, is not at all to our Purpose: 'Tis sufficient that the New Testament declares, that what Blessings were thus graciously promised in this Covenant with Abraham were with Reference to, and for the Sake of Jesus Christ that was to come: And this St. Paul has expressly affirmed, Gal. 3. 16, 17. Now to Abraham and his Seed were the Promises made, he said not, to Seeds as of many, but as of One, and to thy Seed which is Christ. So he goes on, this I say that the Covenant which was confirmed before of God in Christ, &c. Affirming, in short, all that I have here been proving, viz. that Circumcision was the Seal for the Confirmation of that very Covenant which God made with Abraham in Christ Four Hundred and Thirty Years before the Law was given. So that Abraham had not only the same Covenant with us, but the very same Gospel that is preached to us, was preached to Abraham also, Gal. 3. 8. The Scripture fore-seeing that God would justify the Heathen through Faith, preached before the Gospel unto Abraham. What Gospel was it? It was certainly the Gospel of Christ, through whom alone it was said to Abraham, In thee shall all the Nations of the Earth be blessed. And it was certainly at the Time when he established that Covenant which was confirmed of God in Christ. And all the Seed of Abraham that were circumcised were bound to worship the true God, and believe the general Promises of a Messiah; as we Christians are to believe and obey the Gospel more particularly revealed by Christ. From hence I conclude, seeing Infants at Eight Days old were circumcised and admitted into this Covenant with God, by his own Appointment and Command; this Command is a good Authority for the Baptizing of Infants, which is but a new Way of Admission into the same Covenant.

For while there is no Alteration of the Substance of the Covenant, but only of the external Ceremony of Admission, which is the Seal of it; all Things else are to continue as they were, till God shall ordain otherwise by a new Law: But when he did change the Seal from Circumcision to Baptism, he did not by any express Law forbid Infants to be admitted: Therefore by Virtue of the first Original Institution when God made this Covenant with Abraham by Circumcision, and commanded Infants to be admitted, we have Authority to admit them now by Baptism. For where the Covenant, and the Capacities are the same, the Reason also must be of the same Force. But to this Argument I have found it objected

1. That what was done in Abraham's Time, was in the Minority of the Church, when Things were obscurely represented, but now, that we have clear Light, and in that respect are under a better Dispensation, there is not the same Reason for admitting Infants, which there was then. All the Force of this Objection lies in the different Degrees of Revelation, that have been made to Abraham, and to us; and this I readily acknowledge for a great Truth: That which God intended in that Covenant with Abraham, was but obscurely, and in general set forth, and the Particulars both of Faith and Practice, and also of our Reward and Happiness are more fully and clearly brought to Light by Jesus Christ.

When

When therefore I asserted, that our Covenant is the same with that made with Abraham and his Seed, I speak of Generals, not of Particulars; and my Meaning is, that Faith and Obedience were required in Abraham's Covenant, as well as they are from us. Not but that the particular Articles of that Faith, and the particular Duties of that Obedience too, are now more fully discovered; and set in a clearer Light. But I cannot see how this makes any Difference, either as to the Capacity, or the Right of Admission to this Sacrament; because Children being equally insensible of both, cannot be less capable of the one than of the other.

2. It is objected, that there was an express Command for the Circumcision of Infants, but there is none for baptizing them. To this I answer;

There was not the same Necessity for it: There was an absolute Necessity for commanding Infants expressly to be circumcised; because there was nothing Antecedent to that Institution, that could give Light or Knowledge to direct to it. But there was no such Necessity for an express Precept for Baptizing Infants; because this might be learnt from the Authority of God in the Antecedent Institution under Abraham; For they were certainly as fit Subjects of the one as of the other; because the Conditions were the same; and if as fit Subjects of the Covenant, equal-ly to be received by the Seal of it.

This I am inclined to believe was the first Ground of Baptizing Infants among Christians. When the Apostles first began to preach the Gospel; and especially to the Jews; the Substance of their Preaching was, that what God had long before declared by Abraham and the Prophets, he had now fulfilled and accomplished by Jesus Christ. From whence they were to learn, that this Gospel was no new Thing, but what had been long declared, and prophesied in old Time: The Covenant was the same, the Religion was the same, only brought into a clearer Light by a more perfect Revelation. This was the Sum of St. Peter's Sermon, Acts 3. 18. Those Things that God before had shewed by the Mouth of all his Prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled. And Acts 11. 25. Ye are the Children of the Prophets, and of the Covenant which God made with our Fathers, saying unto Abraham, and in thy Seed shall all Nations of the Earth be blessed. And for this Cause St. Paul says, Rom. 15. 8. That Christ Jesus was a Minister of the Circumcision; for the Truth of God, to confirm the Promises made unto the Fathers. And as this was the common Subject of the Apostles Preaching, so those who were hereby convinced, and prevailed on to believe, were immediately admitted into the Christian Covenant by Baptism.

Here is, indeed, no express mention made of Infants, because there was no Occasion for it: Their own Reason and Understanding were sufficient to convince them, that what God had authorized and commanded from the Beginning, was a very good Example for them to imitate. And consequently, that when Circumcision was abolished from being any longer the Seal of God's Covenant, and Baptism was instituted in its stead, there was the same Reason for baptizing Infants, that there had been for circumcising them: God's having commanded the One, was an Evidence of the Lawfulness of the Other. And what they were sufficiently instructed in by the Authority of a Divine Precept and Command, in the Old Testament, was not absolutely necessary to be repeated in the New; For to what purpose should there be a particular Revelation to discover that which Men might be sufficiently convinc'd of without one? And yet again,

2. The Baptism of Infants is founded on God's Word, in that, tho' there be no such Precept, or Command of baptizing, in which Infants are totidem verbis expressed; yet there is such a Precept and Command, in which Infants are certainly included: And this I shall prove thus;

1. From St. Peter's Words, Acts 2. 39. Repent, and be baptized, that your Sins may be blotted out, for the Promise is to you and your Children. In which Words Children are fairly intimated, at least, to be entitled both to the Promises of the Covenant, and to the Sacrament that confirms it. I am not ignorant, that some laugh at this Argument, with a great deal of Scorn, and Derision, and think it ridiculous to mention it; because Men and Women are often call'd Children in Scripture; as the Children of Israel are often spoken of when Infants are not all intended, but only Men of the Posterity of Israel. I grant it, and yet when they have laugh'd their fill, I cannot think this Argument so ridiculous, nor so much to be despis'd: For, tho' its true, the Word Children, if that were all, might import no more than the Posterity: Yet the Promise here spoken of, is that very Covenant into which Children, I mean Infants, were commanded to be admitted. So that if the Promise which God made with Abraham, and his Children included Infants; this Promise made to Christians, and their Children, will by the same Authority, include Infants also; for the Promise is still the same.

2. The Precept for Baptizing is general, and does not exclude any that are capable of being admitted into Covenant with God in Christ; Infants are capable of being admitted into Covenant with God in Christ, therefore the Precept does and must include them: The first is evident from the very Words of St. Matt. 28. Go make Disciples of all Nations, and baptize them; which being given in general, and unlimited

Terms,

Terms, and ordained by Almighty God as one of the ordinary Means of Salvation, ought to be extended to all Persons whatsoever, that are capable of Admission into the Covenant. Infants are capable of being admitted into the Covenant, and then Infants are also included in this Precept or Command. The Latter I have in great measure prov'd already in my Answer to the Two first Objections. I shall only add here, that it seems strange to me, when so many of your Perswasion allow Infants to be in the Covenant, and believe that they shall be saved, which they cannot be, but by the Merits of Christ; that yet none of them should think Infants intitled to this Sacrament. For why should not the Covenant be confirmed to all those, to whom the Promises of it belong? If indeed all Infants were said and prov'd to be in a State of Sin and inevitable Damnation, this would be a real Argument against us; for then, we should be charged with confirming the Covenant to those to whom the Promises of it do not at all belong? And this would be a Crime indeed. But if Infants may be saved by Christ, nothing of this can be alledged. But you say, that we baptize Infants that know nothing of it, and that is almost as bad; Why so? We only by this Seal confirm the Covenant to those to whom God has promised the Blessings of it. And where is the Impropriety of that? Or why is it more absurd to baptize those in the Name of Christ that know nothing at all of him, than to Redeem and Save those by Christ that know nothing at all of him?

In short, if no good Reason of Difference can be alledged from the Nature of Things, let Men wrangle never so long, it must follow, that if Infants are in the Covenant of Christ, they are also fit Subjects of Christian Baptism; and if they are fit Subjects of Christian Baptism, then the general Precept includes them; and so the Baptism of Infants is as much founded on the Authority of God's Word, as the Baptism of Men and Women.

But I am sensible, Sir, you will not acquiesce in this: No, Baptism is a Sacrament, a Fundamental in Religion, that gives Being to a Church; in which you must have a Command, mentioning Infants expressly, totidem verbis, or it will not do; Inferences and Deductions here are not of sufficient Force. But by the Way; What is your Second Objection, but a Deduction, that Infants not being capable of Faith, are not capable of Baptism? This is unreasonable, and very hard, when you your self must argue by Deductions and Inferences against the Baptism of Infants, not to allow us to do so for it; I appeal whether this be fair. However, fore-seeing that this my Argument would be thus withstood, I proceed to show,

1. That clear and evident Deductions from the Word of God are of equal Force with the exprefs Word of it; and that in Fundamental, as well as in other Principles of Religion: For, can we suppose, that in the Manifestation of all those Divine Truths, which are revealed in the Gospel, God would have us supersede all Use of our own Understandings in the Conclusions to be drawn, and the Consequences that follow from such Doctrines? And yet we must do this, if the Inferences and Deductions from them be not acknowledg'd of sufficient Authority to determine our Judgment, and guide our Practise. It was certainly no part of God's Design to undermine our Reason by Revelation; but to Enlighten and Improve it; to supply its Defects, by teaching us those Things which of our selves we were not able to find out; and to clear some Principles of Religion that to the Light of Reason only seem'd disputable and doubtful. But where that Light shines bright, and clear of it self, it is a Divine Lamp held forth from Heaven to direct us, and its Authority is not to be despis'd.

Thus for Instance, in the Institution of a Sacrament, we must expect a particular Revelation. For this being no part of natural Religion, but a Positive Ordinance, and depending on the sole Pleasure and Will of God; we can know nothing but what he shall be pleas'd to reveal. For tho' baptizing was in use among the Jews, as a Rite in admitting Profelytes, and by our Saviour receiv'd from them; yet it must be his Positive Decree and Command, that must make it a Sacrament to us. Had it therefore been the Authority of the Institution it self that had been in dispute: You had argu'd well, that an exprefs Precept was to be expected. But as to the Subjects of Baptism, or the Persons to be baptized, the Case is not the same, nor is there the same Reason to look for a Command mentioning Infants in exprefs Words: For, tho' the Sacrament be new, the Covenant is still the same. And therefore, we may here argue, and be particularly instructed by Parity of Reason, viz. that those who were admitted to the Old Covenant may be admitted to the New; because the Conditions, and the Promises are the same in both. And here Deductions and Inferences from God's Word are of sufficient Force to determine the Argument, and ought to be received in all such Cases. And the chief Thing to be respect'd, is not whether the Matter be Fundamental or no; but the Certainty of it, and the clear Evidence of its Truth. A certain, and evident Truth ought to be received in Things Fundamental as well as not Fundamental, let the Way of attaining the Knowledge be what it will; whether from the Light of Reason, or Revelation; or Deduction, and Inferences from it.

2. But to make this more plain I shall further show from St. Peter's own Example, in being determined by such Arguments in a Case equally Fundamental, that this Authority ought to be submitted to in the Case now before us. The Case I shall instance in, is, the Admission of the Gentiles into the Church of Christ, and baptizing them: And there, the Question once was much as it is now, viz. about the fit Subjects of Baptism. For some then did as firmly believe, that the Gentiles as polluted and unclean, were as unfit to be admitted into the Covenant with God, as others now-a-days would have Infants excluded for their Incapacities. And I would beg these Men to observe, what Methods the Holy Ghost used for the Conviction of St. Peter; and how he directs him by such a Train of general Instructions, as all along required the sincere and impartial Use of his Reason in the Application of them. And at last, there was no particular Command for baptizing them; all that the Holy Ghost discovered, amounted to no more than to show that the Gentiles were not by Almighty God excluded from the Covenant: From whence St. Peter's own Reason convinced him, that therefore they were to be baptized.

St. Peter had a Vision from Heaven, wherein there appeared, Acts 10. 11. A certain Vessel descending unto him as it had been a great Sheet knit at the four Corners, and let down to the Earth: Wherein were all manner of four-footed Beasts of the Earth, and wild Beasts, and creeping Things, and Fowls of the Air. And there came a Voice to him, Rise Peter, kill and eat. And when Peter said, not so, Lord, for I have never eaten any Thing common or unclean: The Voice spake the second time, what God hath cleansed, that call not thou common. And this was done thrice, and the Vessel was received up again into Heaven. Here is nothing in express Words about the Gentiles, nor did St. Peter yet apprehend that they were concerned in the Vision: For it is said, Ver. 17. That Peter doubted in himself what the Vision which he had seen should mean.

But when the Holy Spirit gave him Warning of Three Men coming to him, and ordered him to go along with them, doubting nothing, and the Messengers presently came from Cornelius the Centurion, who was a Gentile; then he understood by Deductions of his own Reason, that the Vision referr'd to the Gentiles, and that God had signify'd thereby, that they, notwithstanding their reputed Uncleaness might be admitted into the Church of Christ. Ver. 31. Of a Truth I perceive that God is no Respector of Persons, but in every Nation he that seareth God, &c. Here was in all this no express Command for admitting the Gentiles, but a Vision, from which this was to be learned by way of Inference and Deduction. And St. Peter convinced by this, preached Jesus Christ unto them; and as he was Preaching, the Holy Ghost fell on all them that heard the Word, and they spake with Tongues, and magnified God, Ver. 44, 46. Here was all this while no Precept, or express Command to baptize them; but St. Peter being convinced, both by the Vision, and by the Descent of the Holy Ghost upon them, that the Covenant belonged to them: From thence concludes by way of Inference, that they therefore ought to be Baptized. Ver. 47, 48. Can any Man forbid Water that these should be baptized, who have received the Holy Ghost as well as we? And he commanded them to be baptized in the Name of the Lord.

I hope it will not be disputed, but that the Admission of the Gentiles, is a very Fundamental Doctrine in Christianity. From this instance therefore I observe, 1. That the Inference from a Divine Revelation had with St. Peter, the Force and Authority of a Divine Law, as much as tho' it had been said totidem verbis, ye shall admit the Gentiles into the Christian Church. And therefore it was that he told his Brethren, Acts 11. 17. that his not complying had been withstanding the Authority of God. Forasmuch then as God gave them the same Gift, that he did unto us, that believed in the Lord Jesus: What was I, that I could withstand God? 2. That when we are sufficiently assured, that any Persons are capable of Admission into the Christian Covenant; this is a sufficient Authority to baptize them, without any particular express Command. The Holy Ghost in this Vision gave no Command for baptizing Cornelius, but only taught St. Peter, that the Gentiles were not to be excluded from the Covenant; and from thence he himself could sufficiently determine, that it was God's Will, that they should be baptized. Who can forbid Water that these should be baptized? And to bring this home to our Case, it is just thus that we argue for Infant Baptism. God has from the Beginning with Abraham taught us, that Infants are not excluded from the Covenant of Christ: And from thence we conclude as St. Peter did, that those who are not excluded from the Covenant, are included in the general Precept of admitting them by Baptism. And how strange is the Power of Prejudice not to be satisfy'd with that Way and Method of Conviction, which the Holy Ghost himself used to the great Apostle of our Saviour.

To this I have found objected; that there was express Law for Baptizing of the Gentiles. Matt. 18. Go teach and baptize all Nations, &c. To this I answer,

1. That tho' we, who are assured, that it was God's Purpose to call the Gentiles, do very well to interpret that Command for Converting and Baptizing them; yet the Apostles before this Vision of St. Peter did not apprehend this to be the Meaning of it. And a Law can have have no Force, nor be any warrant, farther than the Purpose and Meaning of it can be understood.

In Mat. 24. 7. 2. The Words themselves did not necessarily and literally imply any such Meaning, that the Gentiles were to be admitted: For, as Dr. Hammond has truly observ'd, the Word ἔθνη did not then in common use import the Gentiles, always exclusive of the Jews; but is oft used for the Jews, in their several Nations, and Countries. And, indeed, had that Word in common Acceptation signify'd the Gentiles, I do not see how St. Peter, and the other Apostles could have been ignorant of that Doctrine. And it is possible, that on this Account God might think fit to make further Discoveries of the Calling in of the Gentiles, the better to instruct them what was his Purpose, and Intention in those former Words.

But, in short, what was it that mov'd St. Peter to baptize Cornelius? Did he do it upon the Authority of the Precept mentioned? Mat. 28. Its plain he did not; He did not then so understand those Words. And its observable, that in all that Affair there was not the least mention made of that fore-mention'd Precept, but it was the Vision that Convinced, and Rectify'd St. Peter's Judgment by the rational Inferences which he was to draw from it. And I may add that what convinced him; convinced all his Brethren too. Acts 11. 18. When they heard those Things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying; then hath God also to the Gentiles granted Repentance unto Life. And thus it still remains good, that an Argument by Deduction from Scripture or Revelation is sufficient to convince us, who are the fit Subjects of Christian Baptism; and by such an Argument we do prove, that the Baptism of infants is founded on the Authority of God's holy Word.

C H A P. III.

THE fourth and last Objection is, That there is no mention made of any such Practice among the Apostles, or the most Primitive Times. I must here observe that the State of the Question is now chang'd, from Matter of Law to Matter of Fact; and we are now only to enquire what Discoveries we can find of such a Practice in the Beginning of Christianity. As to this Objection therefore I answer,

1. That tho' it were true, that there is no mention made in Scripture of such a Practice, yet this would not at all prove, that there was no such Thing in use; and especially, when it is found not contrary to the Laws of God. For we are no more to expect an express, clear, and distinct Account of all Apostolical Practices from the New Testament, than we are to expect a perfect History of the first Ages of the World from the Six first Chapters of Genesis. It was sufficient for the Apostles to acquaint us with all necessary Laws and Commands of God; and with the Practices only occasionally as it served either to illustrate or confirm those Laws when called in Question. Otherwise they were in many Particulars silent.

2. I do not affirm, that it was the constant and universal Practice from the Beginning of the Apostles Preaching to baptize Infants. For I know very well that God did not think fit to make a compleat Establishment of all Things at once, but brought Things to Perfection by degrees. As a Reverend Bishop has observed to us; there was a Time when the Christian Church consisted only of Jewish Converts, and we know when the Gentiles were first admitted: And there was a Time when Circumcision was thought necessary to be observed, and it was some Years before this was laid aside. So the Apostles according to Christ's Commission, being chiefly intent on the Conversion of those Persons that were polluted with Infidelity and Immorality; had not as yet taken the State of Infants into their Consideration. But when afterwards many Families were converted, their Condition came also to be considered. And I conjecture, that this might first be when Circumcision came to be rejected. For it is very likely, that when the Jewish Converts who esteemed their Infants to be admitted into Covenant by Circumcision found the Apostles declare, that Circumcision was not necessary; they then began to start the Case of Infants, who by Circumcision had that Privilege signed to them, which by the Abolition of it would seem to have been lost. But this I mention only as a Conjecture which you may take or leave, as you see fit.

3. Tho' we have no Declaration in express Words, that Infants were baptized in the Apostles Times; yet from one Expression of St. Paul, such a Practice may reasonably be concluded. He speaks so of the Holiness of Children, as seems not to admit of any rational Interpretation, and agreeable to the Case and Context, but by supposing that those Infants were admitted to Baptism. It is 1 Cor. 7. 14. where giving his Judgment concerning those Christians who were married to Unbelievers, he

he perswades their Cohabitation in that Conjugal State, if it may be permitted, by this Argument. For the unbelieving Husband is sanctified by the Wife (i. e.) she being a Believer; and the unbelieving Wife is sanctified by the Husband; else were your Children unclean, but now are they holy. In which Words the Apostle plainly founds his Determination on this known and received Opinion, that the Children of Christian Parents, and so also if but one Parent was Christian, are holy; Else were your Children unclean, but now are they holy.

That Infant Children are here intended, is plain in that he speaks of such whose Holiness depended on the Sanctification of the believing Parent, which must respect Infants only, because the Holiness of adult Persons must be from their own actual Faith.

Now the Question is, what St. Paul means here by Holiness: He speaks of the Holiness of such Children, one of whose Parents only were Christian, and yet of such Holiness of such Children, as from thence to prove the Lawfulness of the Cohabitation of such Parents. To this End the Holiness of such Children must be evident and indisputable, or otherwise the Argument would not have Force. Now, tho' the Children both whose Parents were Christians, may be reckoned an holy Seed or Off-spring, by Designation; yet it might justly be doubted whether the Children, one of whose Parents only were Christian, were thus holy, when the Lawfulness of their Cohabitation was disputed. I ask then, how it should come to pass, that when the Lawfulness of the Cohabitation of a Christian and an Infidel was disputed; yet it should remain a known and indisputable Doctrine, that their Children were not unclean, but holy? For this the Apostle asserts, And I am perswaded, that the only proper Answer to this Question must be, That there was some known Privilege according to the Practice of the Church, at least of that Church at that time belonging to such Children; by which the Churches Opinion of their Holiness, became unquestionable. Had not this been so, St. Paul's Argument, instead of proving what he intended by it, might rather have brought the Opinion of their Holiness into Question. But that it seems was so certain, so well known, so unquestionable, that he might safely ground his Argument upon it. And yet, methinks, there was the same Reason to dispute one as well as the other, had not some customary Privilege made the Difference, and what that Privilege was, the true Notion of Holiness will discover.

The best Notion of Holiness in general that I have yet met with, is from the Learned and Judicious Mr. Mede, Disc. 2. who makes it to consist in Religious Separation and Discrimination from other Things; which in Opposition thereto, are called Common. I would ask then by what other Means or Privilege the Infants of Christian Parents can be eminently discriminated from the Children of Infidel Parents; so as in the Language of the Church to be called Holy; but by being baptized? In this Interpretation, the Coherence and Purport of the Apostle's Argument is ealie and plain, which otherwise is unintelligible. The Children of Gentile Parents are common and unclean, in St. Peter's Sense, mentioned above, Acts 10. 14, 15. (i. e.) not yet to be admitted to the Seal of the Covenant, but the Infants of Believers are holy and may be baptized. And thus also the unbelieving Husband is sanctified by the believing Wife, in that he who is an Unbeliever has his Child baptized because of the Faith of the Mother, as much as tho' both Parents were Christian.

And this is a good Argument of the Innocence of their Cohabitation: For if the Church admits the Child of an unbelieving Husband to Baptism, because the Mother is a Believer, the Cohabitation of those Parents of whom such a Child is born, cannot be thought unlawful, upon the Account of their Religion. Thus every Thing in the Words is Intelligible and Plain, and if this be a true Interpretation, here is Proof that the Baptism of Infants was in use in the Apostles Time.

But you, Sir, have sent me some Objections, and another Interpretation of this Place: Both which shall be considered. I shall begin with the Objections.

Object. 1. It is objected, That there is no other Holiness here attributed to the Children, than what is ascrib'd to the unbelieving Parent; for, as the Children are said to be holy, so it is said of the unbelieving Husband, or Wife, that he, or she is sanctified, or made holy; and therefore as much ought to be baptized.

Answer. But where's the Force of this Conclusion? You seem from hence to infer, that there is the same Holiness in both: But, why so? Are there not several Degrees or Kinds of Holiness, or Religious Discrimination? Are not all Christians holy by their Profession? In which Sense St. Paul calls them ἀγιοι, the Saints or holy Ones by way of Distinction from other Men: And are not all true Christians holy by a real Sanctification of God's Spirit? And yet these are not the same. Again, Are not all that minister at the Altar, holy in a third Sense by their Office? There is then an internal, and there is an external Holiness; there is a real, actual Holiness, consisting in Faith and Obedience, by the Sanctification of the Spirit; and there is a relative Holiness, consisting in Separation by Profession, or Privilege, or Office. Here then are different Degrees of Holiness ascrib'd to different Persons, according to their several Circumstances. The Holiness of the Believer is of one Kind; that that of the Unbeliever of another; that of their Children of a third: And so this Objection can be of no Force in that its founded on this gross Mistake; That the Holiness is the same in all!

Object. 2. It is objected, That the Holiness, or Sanctification of the unbelieving Parent is mentioned by the Apostle as The Cause of the Childrens Holiness: Otherwise, (i. e.) were it not that the Unbeliever was thus sanctified, your Children were unclean, but now are they holy. Consequently, say you, there is a stronger Argument in this Text for baptizing the unbelieving Parent, than the Children; Even as The Cause is more noble than the Effect.

Answer. I answer; If it had been said One Cause of the Childrens Holiness it had founded better; because the Cause looks as tho' it were the chief or only Cause, in which Sense the Assertion is not true: For, the Logicians have justly taught us to distinguish that there is a principal Cause, and a less principal Cause. The Holiness of the unbelieving Parent is at most but a less principal Cause of the Holiness of the Children, or a Cause sine qua non; otherwise were the Children unclean, but now are they holy. And if this be St. Paul's Meaning; yet then in this Sense, the Conclusion will fail. For, whereas it is alledged, that on this Account, the Words are a stronger Argument for Baptizing the unbelieving Parents, than their Children, even as the Cause is more noble than the Effect: Here lies the Weakness of this Objection; which is, indeed, a downright Fallacy; for it is not the less principal, but the Principal Cause only that is nobler than the Effect. 'Tis one of the Maxims of Logic, that the less principal Cause, Semper est deterior effectu suo, is always less noble than the Effect. There can then be no Force in this Conclusion, unless Men will assert, that the Holiness of the unbelieving Parent, is the Principal Cause of the Holiness of the Children, which is more than St. Paul ever said.

Object. 3. It is objected, That a Federal Holiness cannot be intended here, unless it be supposed, that the unbelieving Husband or Wife is in the Covenant of Grace.

Answer. But why so? I have already shown, that their Holiness is not the same; the one therefore may be a Federal Holiness, and the other not; and, so this is a false Deduction.

Object. 4. Another Objection is, That if here he meant a Federal Holiness, whereby Infants are set apart from the rest of the World, as Members of Christ's Church, they ought to be admitted to the Lord's Supper also; which Ordinance is no less a Duty, and Privilege of every Member of Christ's Church than Baptism. And therefore says Mr. A— It is well known that among the Ancients, Infants were for a time admitted to this Sacrament, as well as to the former: But seeing none now to the Latter, why to the Former?

He who makes this Objection, has furnish'd me with an Answer to it, and says, That Self-examination is urged as a Bar in this.

But if this be all, I shall not thank him for the Invention. There is another, and I am perswaded, a better Argument drawn from the different Nature and Design of these Two Sacraments. For Baptism is a Sacrament of Initiation; the other of Confirmation. And, tho' God may, and does of his abundant Grace admit Infants into his Covenant; yet the Renewing of this Covenant is founded on a Supposition of our Frailty; who, more or less, do all transgress the Conditions of our Baptismal Vow, and impair our Hope. The Lord's Supper therefore was intended, the stronger to oblige Mea to actual Faith and Repentance, after the Violation of their first Vow, and to administer Comfort in our Penitential Sorrows, in the Commemoration of our Saviour's Passion.

This Sacrament therefore in the very Nature of it always supposes actual Faith and Repentance, which Baptism does not. Actual Faith and Repentance are not universally necessary to Baptism, as I have proved above, but where Sin and Infidelity have gone before. For he that has never sinn'd, has nothing to repent of. And the Innocence of the Person then is a sufficient Qualification for Baptism, where there is a rational Hope, that he shall afterwards believe and obey the Gospel. But the Lord's Supper, which was design'd for the Renewing, and Confirmation of our Vow, supposes both that Vow to have been broken, and that Breach to have been repented of.

There is not therefore the same Reason for admitting Infants to the Lord's Supper as to Baptism; because the different Nature and End of each Sacrament shows the One to be proper, and the other not. For which Cause that Custom is now left off.

I think then Mr. A's Objections against my Interpretation of this Text appear to have very little or no Force. I desire now that my Reasons against his Interpretation of the Place may be as fairly considered, and as impartial a Judgment pass'd upon them: Which is most agreeable to the Context, and the Force of the Apostle's Argument and Design. His Interpretation is this; The Scope of the Apostle determines the Sanctification or Holiness of the unbelieving Husband or Wife to be no other than Matrimonial Holiness, or Chastity; in Opposition to Uncleanness, or Fornication, (in which Sense it is taken, 1 Thess. 4. 3, 4, 7. and consequently by the Holiness of the Children flowing from it, we may understand no other than Legitimacy, in which

Sense

Sense we read of a godly or holy Seed, Mal. 2. 15. So that St. Paul here brings Two Arguments to prove the Marriage to be good. 1. Because the Unbeliever (ἠγίασαι) hath been sanctified, not by, but to, or unto the Believer by being joynd in holy Matrimony; and consequently a Divorce would be contrary to the Law of Christ, unless for the Cause of Fornication. 2. (Ab absurdo) from the Absurdity that would follow should they separate upon the Account of Religion, thereby disowning their Marriage, and consequently bastardizing their Children; which the Apostle, supposing them unwilling to do, advises them to continue with their unbelieving Husband or Wife, notwithstanding their Differences in Religion. Thus this Text Mr. A— says is expounded by Melancthon, Camerarius, and Musculus, who also cites St. Jerome and Ambrose for it; acknowledging, that he had formerly abused it against the Anabaptists. So that it seems in this, we must consider both the Interpretation, and the Authorities produced to confirm it. As to the Argument I have these Things to offer:

1. That such a Sense is put upon these Words, as some of them are never found to have in all the Holy Scripture. For, tho' it is true, that Holiness is sometimes used for Chastity, and particularly, 1 Theff. 3. 3, 4, 7. in Opposition to Fornication; yet Uncleanness is never taken for Illegitimacy or Bastardy in a literal Sense, as it is here rendred by Mr. A—. As to what is alleged concerning a godly or holy Seed, Mal. 2. 15. which Mr. A— by the Authority of Calvin, and other Learned Interpreters, would understand to be Legitimacy; let those learned Interpreters be who they will; it is very plain, that they must take Legitimacy there not in a Literal Sense, but Figurative, according to the usual Language of the Prophets, who often express Idolatry by Whoredom and Fornication, and call the Revolt into it the Marrying a strange God; and going a whoring after Idols, Ezek. 6. 9. St. Jerome and the Chaldee Paraphrase by the holy Seed, understand the Posterity of Abraham in Opposition to the Gentiles; and the former says, The Prophets Purpose here was to reprove the Jews for Marrying Wives of the Idolatrous Nations, and he grounds this Interpretation on Ezra 9. 2. And if this be good, the holy Seed is the People under Covenant with God in Distinction from the Gentiles.

And therefore I say again, that tho' Uncleanness is used in the New Testament for Fornication and Sensuality; yet not once for Bastardy, nor Holiness for Legitimacy. But, I think, I may say, that whenever these Words are used, and especially when they are set in Opposition one to another; Uncleanness denotes something of the vile Pollutions that were common among the Idolatrous Heathens; and Holiness, when attributed to Persons, always includes something of Distinction and Dif-

Discrimination from the Heathens, either by way of Personal Excellence, or of Privilege. And therefore;

2. It is easie to shew, that as these Words are not used for Bastardy and Legitimacy in any other place of the New Testament, so that they cannot have any such Signification here. Mr. A— says, That St. Paul here speaks of Matrimonial Chastity in Opposition to Fornication; and that his Design was to shew, that the Marriage was good notwithstanding their Difference in Religion; and that they were therefore under no Obligation to separate on that Account; which seems plainly to be one of the Scruples about which the Apostle wrote. The Christians, indeed, had Scruples about their Cohabitation with Infidels; But how does it appear that the Scruple was, that after their Conversion to Christianity, their Marriage was no longer valid or good? How does this appear? Their Scruple was, I confess, whether or no they were to separate on Account of their Difference in Religion: But the Ground of that Scruple was not any Fear that their Marriage-Contract was invalid, and their Cohabitation to be deem'd Fornication; but a Tenderness upon Account of the Unbelievers being an Infidel and Idolater; left by so near an Alliance to such an one, they should seem either to run into Danger, or to partake of the Pollution and Guilt of Idolatry and Unbelief: This is agreeable to the Apprehensions which we find that the Primitive Christians had. An Instance of which Justin Martyr gives an Account of: Of a Woman, who upon her Conversion to Christianity finding that she could not reclaim her Husband from the abominable Lewdness of his Heathen Life, would be divorced from him, and tho' at the Importunity of her Friends, she continued with him somewhat longer; yet finding he grew worse, ὅπως μὴ κοινῶς τῶν ἀδικημάτων καὶ ἀσεβημάτων γένηται μενεσα ἐν τῇ συζυγίᾳ, &c. lest she should be Partaker of his Iniquities and Impieties by cohabiting with him, and being Partner with his Table and Bed, she gave him a Bill of Divorce, καὶ ἐχώρισθη, and was parted from him. This remarkable Instance shews what the Apprehensions of the Primitive Christians, as to this Matter were, and gives no small Light to the Debate now in hand.

And that such as this was, in Truth, the Case upon which St. Paul there treats, is farther evident from the Coherence of the Text with what goes before.

The Questions upon which St. Paul wrote were several: First, Whether Christians should then Marry, which he rather dissuades as that which would more engage them in the Affairs of the World, and make them less willing to suffer Persecution. This he mentions both in the Beginning and End of the Chapter; but then with this Restriction, that they

they should rather marry, than be subject to impulses of burning Lusts, Ver. 9.

Next to the Married, he declares, that they are bound by the Law of God, not to separate, if they can avoid it. To the Married I command, yet not I, but the Lord; Let not, &c. Ver. 10, 11. Then comes the Case now in hand concerning those who were Married, but not both Parties as yet converted to Christianity; and among them it was a Question whether their Difference in Religion was a just Cause of Separation. Now, I say, had the Ground of this Scruple been an Opinion, or Fear, that their Continuance in that married State had been equal to Fornication or Uncleanness: St. Paul who knew very well that their Difference in Religion made no such Alteration in the Case, would never have usher'd in his Determination with, thus speak I, not the Lord, but thus, not I, but the Lord, as V. 10. It is not credible, or morally possible, that He, who was immediately influenced by the Holy Ghost in the Execution of his Apostolic Office, should only give his Conjectural Judgment, or merely Prudential Determination, in a Question: In which both he and they were afore determined by the express Law, and Institution of God; and in which he knew himself to be so determined. To the Married command I, and yet not I, but the Lord: Let not the Wife depart from her Husband, Ver. 10. Especially, if the Consequence of their Separation would prove so pernicious, as to Bastardize their Children, (as Mr. A—supposes:) He was the more oblig'd to determine them by the Authority of God's Institution, or Law. It is, I say, incredible, that he should usher in the Determination of so important a Question, only by a Conjectural Order, that could not determine their Conscience: For, seeing it was but St. Paul's Order, and not God's Command, it could not determine the Good or Evil of the Thing. Had therefore the Question been, what Mr. A—supposes it, St. Paul must have determined it by God's Authority, and not by his own only; so that the very Manner of the Expression plainly proves, that the Question was only about the Danger of Cohabiting with an Infidel, and an Idolater: And if this be the Case, Mr. A—'s Interpretation of Holiness by Legitimacy cannot be good. For Divorce in this Case can never bastardize the Children, that is only done by the Original Illegitimacy of the Marriage-Contract. And so far is St. Paul from asserting what Mr. A—affirms, that Divorce would be unlawful, that he, if the Unbeliever will not cohabit, leaves the Christian at liberty to separate; which he would rather have dissuaded, if a Separation had been against the Law of Christ, and made their Children Bastards.

As to the Authority of some Commentators, Melancthon, Camerarius, and Muscinius, who are alledged to Countenance this Construction; What does it signifie, when it appears thus plainly to be contrary to the Use of the Phrase, and the Coherence of the Place? And that it does so, will be more plain, if we observe,

3. That Mr. A—'s Interpretation destroys the Force of St. Paul's Argument, which our Notion of Holiness confirms. Mr. A— says, St. Paul proves their Marriage good by Two Arguments: First, Because the Unbeliever ἡγιασται, hath been sanctified to, or unto the Believer (i. e.) joyned in holy Matrimony. If he means that, because Matrimony is an holy State, therefore their Cohabitation is lawful notwithstanding the one Party is not Christian, I can go along with him: But when he makes St. Paul to argue, Secondly, Ab absurdo, that if their Marriage and Cohabitation be lawful, therefore a Divorce would be contrary to the Law of Christ, and bastardizes their Children: Here I doubt he perverts St. Paul's Sense in many respects; for, as I have hinted above.

1. St. Paul does not say in this Case, that a Separation would be contrary to the Law of Christ. So far from it, that he does not determine it by God's Law, but by his own Opinion. V. 12. But to the rest speak I, but not the Lord, If any Brother hath a Wife that believeth not, &c.

2. He is so far from declaring their Separation to be a Sin, and such a Sin as Bastardizes the Children, that he only gives his Advice in case both Parties agree to Cohabit: If she be pleased to dwell with him, V. 12. and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him, V. 13. But if they disagree about Religion, they may part, If the Unbelieving depart, let him depart. A Brother or Sister is not in Bondage in such Cases, V. 15.

3. As I have prov'd, that the Question was not about the Validity of Marriage, but of the Lawfulness and Expedience of their Cohabitation: So Mr. A—'s Legitimacy puts such a Consequence on St. Paul's Assertion, as does by no means follow; for it is only the Invalidity of Marriage that Bastardizes the Children, but Divorce alone does not.

In a Word, Mr. A—'s Sense of St. Paul's Words makes St. Paul to contradict himself; for it makes him to declare such a Separation contrary to God's Law, and injurious to the Children, in the 14th Verse, which it is plain, that in the 15th he consents to; and which in the 12th he says, he did not determine by the Authority of God's Laws, but only by his own Authority.

But taking the Holiness of Children in our Sense, for admitting them to Baptism, it makes the Apostle's Argument strong and clear: For the Holiness of Children born in such a State, is a very good Proof, that their Cohabitation was Lawful and Innocent. 'Tis as much as if St. Paul had had said; As to the Case of those married to Unbelievers, the Practice of the Church in the Admission of the Children of such to Baptism, as well as the Children of those Parents who are both Christians show what our Opinion is of their Cohabitation: The Unbeliever is Sanctified in this respect by the Believer; else were the Children of such common and unclean, like the Children of Infidels; but now are they holy, or in Malachi's Phrase, an holy Seed, and admitted into the Covenant of God in Christ by Baptism; as well as the Children of those Parents who are both Believers.

I profess with Sincerity, that I cannot find out any other Sense of the Place that will agree with the Apostle's Scope and Design. And when it thus appears, that after Mens Sedulous Endeavours to evade the Testimony of this Place, their Objections are of no Force, nor can any other Construction be devised, that will well agree with the Scripture-Phrase, and be consistent with the Scope and Design of St. Paul's Determination in this Case: Methinks it adds very great Authority to my Argument, makes the Force of it much more considerable; and must be admitted as a good Proof that Infants were baptized in St. Paul's Time.

But the Thing now in Debate, being whether it was the Apostles Practice to baptize Infants: I think it will be very proper to show what early Discoveries we have of it in the Writings of the Primitive Fathers. For let Men that are Conscious of the Testimony of Antiquity against them never so much decry the Authority of the Fathers, and the Primitive Church; and tell us, that the Mystery of Iniquity began to work in it very early; nothing of that should derogate from their just Esteem. The Mystery of Iniquity began to work in St. Paul's Time, and yet, I hope, that does not lessen his Authority. So neither do all the Heresies, and Hæterodox Opinions of the first Ages derogate from the Authority of the Fathers. in that they proceeded from Men out of the Communion of the Church; and were opposed by the Fathers, with that Vigor, Constancy, and Zeal; which makes their Testimony, both in Doctrines and Practice, highly to be valued.

For this Reason, I say, it is remarkable how early we find plain, and undeniable Evidence of the Baptism of Infants. From the Death of St. John for some Years we have no Christian Writings extant, except a few short Epistles. In which we can no more expect a particular Account of all Apostolical Practices; than, as I said before, we can hope for a particular History of the first Ages of the World in the first Five Chapters of Genesis.

But one of the first of the Fathers that wrote in any considerable Bulk, was Irenæus, and his Evidence is very express in this Case: For he has these Words; Omnes enim venit (viz. Christus) per semet ipsum salvare: Omnes, nes, inquam, qui per eum renascuntur in Deum, Infantes, & Parvulos, & Pueros, & Juvenes, & Seniores. Ideo per omnem venit aetatem, & Infantibus factus Infans, sanctificans Infantes, in Parvulis Parvulus, Sanctificans hanc ipsam habentes aetatem, Adv. Hær. lib. 2. c. 39. The Design of the Father in this Place, was to lay open the Fantastick Conceits of the Valentinians, who pretended that their Aeons were prefigured by the Years of Christ's Life before his Baptism; and that what they dreamt of the Passion of the Twelfth Aeon, was signified by Christ's Suffering the Twelfth Month; to support which Notion, they asserted that Christ Preached but one Year after his Baptism.

These were the Heretic's Fantastick Dreams; to confute which, Irenæus first shows that Christ was at Jerusalem Three several Passovers after his Baptism; and consequently must have Preach'd above one Year, in that he begun it upon his Baptism, and continued it to his Death.

Then he shows, that Christ pass'd thro' the several Stages of Humane Life; Omnem aetatem sanctificans per illam quæ ad ipsam erat similitudinem, that he might sanctifie every Age by his own Likeness thereto: For, says he, he came to save all by himself; all I mean that are regenerated by him to God; Infants, Little Ones, Children, Young Men, and Old. For this Reason he pass'd thro' every Age, and to the Infants he became an Infant, sanctifying the Infants; and to the Little Ones, a Little One that he might sanctifie those of that Age. Which Words were purposely designed to declare, that the Salvation purchased by Christ belongs to all Ages or Years whatever, whether Infants or Old Men, who are Members of Christ's Church.

Tit. 3. 5. See Just. Mart. Apol. 2. P. 94. Edit. Par.

Omnes qui per eum renascuntur in Deum; all that are Regenerate, or born again to God by him: Which is the very Expression that St. Paul, and the Ancients after him, use for Baptism. And it appears here to be added, to put a Limitation to the Assertion; that what he says he means peculiarly of Christians, that have been by Baptism admitted into the Covenant. All that are born again unto God by him; Infants, Babes; Children, &c. nor are Infants capable of being born again unto God by Christ, any other way, that I know of, but by Baptism.

So that I do not see how it can be evaded, but that this single Evidence must be acknowledg'd a sufficient Proof, that the baptizing Infants was a Thing in Practice when Irenæus wrote this Book: For otherwise this Assertion could be neither pertinent, nor proper.

It may not therefore be amiss to show how early this was, and how very improbable it is, that such a Custom should so soon prevail; unless it had been received by a certain Tradition from the Apostles them-themselves. Irenæus wrote this Book about A. D. CLXXX, which was but about Fourscore Years from the Death of St. John, who died in the Third Year of Trajan (i. e.) about A. D. 100. And Irenæus was so far Cotemporary with Polycarp, who was a Disciple of the Apostles, and convers'd with many of those who had seen Christ, and by them was made Bishop of Smyrna, in Asia: That he says, he had seen him, ἐν τῇ πρώτῃ ἐκ τῶν ἡμερῶν, when he himself was but a young Man. He must write this Book then in the very next Age after one that had been Contemporary with the Apostles. And this I think is very early.

It can hardly be supposed that any corrupt Practice should be introduc'd, but Polycarp; who was Instructed by the Apostles, and taught what he had learnt of the Apostles, and what the Church had delivered to him, and what alone was true, as Irenæus speaks of him: Would zealously have opposed it, and have had Authority to reject it. There is no Probability that any great Innovation should be introduc'd while a Cotemporary and Disciple of the Apostles was yet alive. There is then only from the Death of Polycarp to Irenæus's writing this Book, for the introducing this Practice, if it was introduced. And that, at most, is but about Thirty Two, or Thirty Three Years. For Bishop Pearson, who places the Martyrdom of Polycarp earlier than other Men, asserts, that it was A. D. CXLVII. And can it be thought that any great Innovation should be made in Irenæus's own Time, and he either not know it, or not reprove it? Can those who think the baptizing Infants such a Corruption, such a Violation of Christ's Institution as, they conceit, to destroy the true Being of a Church; to deprive the Ministers of God of all just Power of Ministering in holy Things; and to make Communion with us, in our Sacraments, unlawful: Can they, I say, imagine that those Fathers whose Glory it was to do all Things according to the Instructions of the Apostles; should suffer such an heinous Innovation to come in among them, and be received; and never make any Complaint, nor any Opposition to it? Would not Polycarp, who was Instructed of the Apostles themselves, have opposed it, had it been in his Time? And would not Irenæus, who says, that only those Things are true, which the Church from the Apostles delivered; would not he, I say, zealously have oppos'd it, had it been in his Time? When therefore we find him speaking of it as a known Practice, I appeal to all impartial Men, whether it is not Rational to believe that the Fathers, and the Primitive Church receiv'd it from the Apostles themselves.

You ought then, Sir, to be very tender in Charging all Christians from the Apostles Times for Fifteen Hundred Years together; with not being a lawful Church, nor such, with whom one may Lawfully hold Communion in the Sacraments. This should not be done without very good Proof. Other Errors and Corruptions that have been found fault with, and wanted Reformation; we know when, and how they were introduced. And before this is so Positively affirmed to be a corrupt Innovation, you ought to show us, about what Time, and by what Means it came to prevail; rather than decry the Authority of the Fathers that bear Witness to this as an Apostolical Practice.

I might confirm this from the Testimony of others, and particularly of Tertullian in the next Place; who altho' he seems not, I confess, to approve it, as he was in many Things particular in his Judgment; yet even in his Dislike he undeniably attests that it was then in Use. But the Testimony of Antiquity has been sufficiently insisted on by others. I shall therefore add no more, but leave it to your self to consider, and to the World to judge; whether your separating from our Communion upon the Account of a Practice so agreeable to Christ's Institution, and the Ancient Usage of the Church, be not more owing to the Prejudice of Education, than to the Force of Reason, or the just Merits of the Cause. I am SIR, your Humble Servant.
